Planning Together Art Of Effective Teamwork:

Planning Together George Gawlinski, Lois Graessle, 1988 Planning Together Lois Graessle, George Gawlinski, 2002
What about Management? Jane Clarke, 1990 Planning for Change: a handbook on strategic planning for Local Development Partnerships, 1995 Community Radio Toolkit, 2005 The Assertive Practitioner Deborah Price, Cathy Ota, 2015-10-23

How a staff team works together and how effective and cohesive they are impacts significantly on the children that they care for as well as having implications for the general early years practice and the success of the business of the setting. Drawing together theory and practice, this book provides comprehensive guidance on assertive communication and offers a range of clear practical strategies that are easy to implement in the early years setting. The Assertive Practitioner aims to distinguish between assertive, passive, aggressive and passive aggressive communication so that early years practitioners can gain confidence, become more self-aware, reflect on their own practice and develop their effective communication skills. Divided into three parts: what is assertiveness, using it and developing it, the authors consider the skills of good communication and assertiveness in the early years setting, offering practical guidance on Recruitment, induction, ongoing staff training and supervision, Disciplinary processes including handling difficult conversations and refocusing a team after a critical incident, Staff relationships with parents and other professionals, Involving the team in problem solving and implementing change, Engaging with the community, How to get support for yourself as a manager. Packed full of practical strategies and case studies, this timely new book will be invaluable support for all those wanting to enhance and improve professional practice and relationships in the early years setting. Teamwork in Multiprofessional Care Malcolm Payne, 2000-06-05

In this important text, Malcolm Payne shows how team members in care services can use networking and teambuilding to strengthen their practice by being open to work with wider networks of agencies, professionals and service users. He brings traditional team development up to date, including perspectives from research, management ideas and from professional writings. Each chapter contains a concise account of new ideas in teamwork, practical guidance on teambuilding and teambuilding activities for team members. Managing Mental Health in the Community Angela Foster, Dr Vega Zagier Roberts, Vega Zagier Roberts, 2003-09-02

Managing Mental Health in the Community is a guide to best practice in the management of community care for people with mental health problems. A major theme is how to balance the triangle of care that represents the needs and concerns of the user, carer, professional or family and community. Rather than focusing on the mechanics of the task, this book aims to encourage reflective practice amongst staff, managers and policy makers. The experienced practitioners who contribute not only challenge some of the assumptions prevalent in the field but also present some tried and tested interventions used to enable users, staff and managers to function more effectively in community settings. They consider how community care has developed, the fundamental concepts of community care, how management is affected by practice, how care systems are designed. Managing Mental Health in the Community should be essential reading for Mental Health Practitioners Managers Social Workers Policy Makers Organizational Consultants and all those professionals who are committed to improving the quality of mental health services provided in the community

Rethinking Community Practice Gabriel Chanan, Colin Miller, 2013-02-27 As local communities and public services reel under the impact of global economic turmoil it is vital to find more creative ways for the services to work together with those who depend on them and who also as citizens ultimately govern them Community practice is the name for that growing part of the relationship by which service providers and local residents collaborate flexibly and economically to meet needs boost community strengths and service effectiveness and link participative and representative democracy Combining re examination of theory with practical tools and approaches Chanan and Miller provide a new framework for local involvement strategy for policy makers and practitioners alike They show how this innovative but still amorphous movement can become more coherent both on the ground and in public policy reforming community development building new kinds of neighbourhood partnership measuring outcomes objectively and combining the best innovations of the past three decades into a new synthesis This is an important new perspective for all local public service agencies all practitioners working in communities and academics and students concerned with these fields
