Planning, Operation, Rehabilitation, and Automation of Irrigation Water Delivery Systems Darell D.

Zimbelman,1987 Proceedings of a symposium on irrigation water delivery systems held in Portland Oregon July 28 30 1987 Sponsored by the Irrigation and Drainage Division of ASCE This collection contains 34 papers on planning operation rehabilitation and automation of irrigation water delivery systems Papers respond to the need for water delivery flexibility to maximize on farm yield and for water conservation through more effective on farm use Papers discuss how to upgrade rehabilitate or automate water delivery systems so that they can respond to changes in demand patterns provide water users with reliable and flexible water supplies be managed to achieve maximum firm water yield and continue to be able to meet present and future demands

Canal Systems Automation Manual ,1991 Generic Typology for Irrigation Systems Operation Daniel

Renault,Godaliyadde Gedara Ariyaratne Godaliyadda,1999 This report presents a methodology for identifying the main features constraints and opportunities of gravity fed irrigation systems which influence management and operation of the system for the purpose of water delivery It presents the development of a generic for improving irrigation system operations A case study of 64 irrigation systems in Sri Lanka is presented illustrating the practical application of the proposed typology

Irrigation Systems Adrian Laycock,2011 Of all the confrontations man has engineered with nature irrigation systems have had the most widespread and far reaching impact on the natural environment Over a quarter of a billion hectares of the planet are irrigated and entire countries depend on irrigation for their survival and existence Considering the importance of irrigation schemes it is unfortunate that until recently the technology and principles of design applied to their construction has hardly changed in 4 000 years Modern thinking on irrigation engineering has benefited from a cross fertilization of ideas from many other fields including social sciences control theory political economics and agriculture However these influences have been largely ignored by irrigation engineers Drawing on almost 40 years of experience of irrigation in the developing world Laycock introduces new ideas on the design of irrigation systems and combines important issues from the disciplines of social conflict management and political thinking

Management of Irrigation and Drainage Systems Hector M. Malano,Paul van Hofwegen,2018-05-02 This monograph provides an overview of the principles required for a service orientation in the management of irrigation and drainage systems The material covered is designed to emphasize an area largely neglected in the irrigation and drainage management literature The dominating philosophy underlying this book is that irrigation and drainage systems must be managed as a service business responsive to the needs and changing requirements of its customers It is postulated that this service approach to the management of irrigation and drainage systems constitutes a key element of the strategy that is needed to improve the current level of performance of many irrigation and drainage systems worldwide. Enhanced performance of irrigation is a prerequisite if we are to face the enormous challenge of producing greater quantities of food to meet the demand of a growing population. This is particularly the case in an environment with increasing competition for water from industry and urban water users set against mounting concerns about environmental sustainability.

Modernizing Irrigation Management Daniel Renault, Thierry Facon, Robina Wahaj, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2007-01-01. This publication describes the MASSCOTE methodology illustrated by several applications in Asia. MASSCOTE is a comprehensive methodology for analysing the modernization of canal operation. The aim is to enable experts to work together with users in determining improved processes for cost effective service oriented management. It is based on previous tools and approaches widely used in Asia by FAO in its modernization training programme: rapid appraisal procedures and benchmarking. From diagnosis through the formulation of operational units and the planning of a service based on the vision agreed upon with the users, MASSCOTE entails a systematic ten step mapping exercise. The accompanying CD ROMs contain the full document in English, excerpts in French, a draft version in Arabic and Chinese training presentations and material and a number of documents and references on irrigation system operation and management. System requirements: PC with Intel Pentium 4 processor and Microsoft Windows 95/98/2000/Me/NT/XP, 256 MB of RAM, 50 MB of available hard disk space, SuperVGA monitor, 256 colours at 1024x768. Adobe Acrobat 4.0 Reader not included on CD ROM.

Moving Towards Demand-based Operations in Modernized Irrigation Systems in Pakistan, Agricultural Water Management Research Workshop Brent Mefford, 1992. Mapping System and Services for Pressurized irrigation systems - MASSPRES Lamaddalena, N., Salman, M., Pek, E., Ahmad, W., Lebdi, F., Wahaj, R., 2024-05-22. FAO's Irrigation and Drainage Paper No. 63 introduced the MASSCOTE methodology in 2007 tailored for modernizing large scale canal irrigation systems. Author. With global interest shifting towards pressurized pipe systems particularly in water scarce regions the need for a similar methodology became apparent. Author. Pressurized systems offer advantages like on demand irrigation, reduced water wastage and environmental impact. Author. However they require complex management due to changing water demands. Author. To address this FAO developed the MASSPRES approach building on MASSCOTE's principles. Author. MASSPRES aims to assess and enhance the performance of pressurized irrigation schemes introducing steps like the Rapid Appraisal Procedure (RAP) for system mapping. Author. It offers innovative methods for evaluating pressures and discharges at farm hydrants under various operating conditions replacing earlier statistical analysis approaches. Author. MASSPRES incorporates indicators for capacity, reliability, distribution, equity, sensitivity to change and perturbation risks into user friendly software. Author. Practical examples from Egypt, Italy, Spain and Tunisia showcase its effectiveness. Author. As governments seek to improve water and food production amidst increasing water scarcity, adopting technologies like pressurized irrigation becomes crucial. Author. MASSPRES provides a systematic framework for both upgrading existing systems and designing future ones addressing the complexities of managing pressurized irrigation efficiently Author Performance Measurement in Farmer-managed Irrigation Systems Shaul Manor, Jorge Chamboleyron, 1993 Farmer managed irrigation systems Performance evaluation Performance indexes Irrigation management Case studies Water distribution Social aspects Water users associations Tube wells Indonesia Pakistan Bolivia Israel Mexico Peru Venezuela Andean Region Philippines Nepal Sri Lanka India Egypt Portugal Tanzania Argentina China Bangladesh Water, Technology and Development Martin Hvidt, 1998-12-31 Egyptian agriculture is uniquely dependent on water with over 95 per cent of agricultural production originating from land irrigated by the Nile The improvement of irrigation systems and better control over water by farmers is therefore crucial to the drive to raise productivity in the current context of scarce water resources rich but underutilized land and changes in the institutional environment of the economy after liberalization This text evaluates the ambitious state of the art Irrigation Improvement Project IIP and should be of interest to all those concerned with issues of water and development in the Middle East

physicists

Performance Analysis of On-demand Pressurized Irrigation Systems Nicola Lamaddalena, J. A.

Sagardoy, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2000-01-01 With the strong competition that is arising for water resources the modernisation of irrigation systems is becoming a critical issue One of the alternatives to modernisation is the use of pressurised systems to replace part of the existing networks This publication analyses the performance of pressurised irrigation systems operating on demand and provides revised criteria for the design of such irrigation networks For this purpose new approaches and a computer program have been developed The program has been tested in several field situations in the Mediterranean Basin and has demonstrated its usefulness not only by quickly identifying weak points in irrigation networks but also by identifying the power requirements of pumping stations needed to satisfy varying demand situations
