Impure Cultures Daniel Lee Kleinman, 2003-10-15 How are the worlds of university biology and commerce blurring Many university leaders see the amalgamation of academic and commercial cultures as crucial to the future vitality of higher education in the United States In Impure Cultures Daniel Lee Kleinman questions the effect of this blending on the character of academic science Using data he gathered as an ethnographic observer in a plant pathology lab at the University of Wisconsin Madison Kleinman examines the infinite and inescapable influence of the commercial world on biology in academia today Contrary to much of the existing literature and common policy practices he argues that the direct and explicit relations between university scientists and industrial concerns are not the gravest threat to academic research Rather Kleinman points to the less direct but more deeply rooted effects of commercial factors on the practice of university biology He shows that to truly understand research done at universities today it is first necessary to explore the systematic pervasive and indirect effects of the commercial world on contemporary academic practice Europe's Green Revolution and Others Since Jonathan Harwood, 2012-05-04 How best to foster agricultural development in the Third World has long been a subject of debate and from a European perspective the persistent failure to design peasant friendly technology is puzzling From the late 19th century for example various western European countries also underwent green revolutions in which systematic attempts were made to promote the adoption of technological innovation by peasant farmers This book focuses on the development of public sector plant breeding in Germany from the late nineteenth century through its fate under National Socialism Harwood uses this historical case study in order to argue that peasant friendly research has an important role to play in future Green Revolutions Global food security: ethical and legal challenges Carlos M. Romeo Casabona, Leire Escajedo San Epifanio, Aitziber Emaldi Ciri3n, 2023-09-04 Food security will exist when all people at all times have physical and economic access to sufficient safe and nutritious food to meet their dietary needs and food preferences for an active and healthy life as stated in the Rome Declaration in 1996 Given the dimension of the current global food crisis food security means adopting effective and specific actions at individual household national regional and global levels Food security invites us to reflect upon ethical principles like human equity justice between current and future generations respect for human dignity and sustainable food production We strive to maintain our basic ethical convictions and engage in societal debates about other important values While we do this we may have to change our ways of life and learn to create new priorities in the face of global responsibility Science and technology are key tools to reach the Millenium Goals providing both society and decision makers alike with relevant information and new options within an ethical framework The contributions found in this publication bring together the perspectives of a diverse group of authors Coming from the academic world the public sector and non governmental organisations NGOs they provide the latest views on Global food security ethical and legal challenges Biotechnology and Bioethics , 1996 Science, Technology, and Society Sal P. Restivo, 2005 Emphasizing an interdisciplinary and international coverage of the functions and effects of science and technology in society and culture Science Technology and Society B contains over 130 A to Z signed articles written by major scholars and experts from academic and scientific institutions and institutes worldwide Each article is accompanied by a selected bibliography Other features include extensive cross referencing throughout a directory of contributors and an extensive topical index

Biotechnology and Bioethics Daniel Cabirac,1993 Landscape, Process and Power Serena Heckler,2012 In recent years the field of study variously called local indigenous or traditional environmental knowledge TEK has experienced a crisis brought about by the questioning of some of its basic assumptions This has included reassessing notions that scientific methods can accurately elicit and describe TEK or that incorporating it into development projects will improve the physical social or economic well being of marginalized peoples The contributors to this volume argue that to accurately and appropriately describe TEK the historical and political forces that have shaped it as well as people s day to day engagement with the landscape around them must be taken into account TEK thus emerges not as an easily translatable tool for development experts but as a rich and complex element of contemporary lives that should be defined and managed by indigenous and local peoples themselves Ethics and the Profession of Anthropology Carolyn Fluehr-Lobban,2003

This revised second edition of Ethics and the Profession of Anthropology renews the challenge to anthropologists to engage in a dialogue concerning their commitment to professional ethical conduct Containing a majority of new chapters the authors redefine what it means to conduct anthropological research ethically in a discipline that is now less isolated from allied fields in the physical and behavioral sciences and coming to terms with the global changes that affect its practice Fluehr Lobban provides an overview of issues from the past 110 years drawing attention to the need for maintaining the ethical core of the discipline and a code of professional responsibility The contributors describe a series of crises in the discipline involving clandestine research and other questionable actions by anthropologists including secret research and intelligence work by academics the ethical problems of medical work among native people the evolution of cyber ethics and the changing relationships between indigenous people archaeologists and museums as a result of the 1990 NAGPRA repatriation legislation The book offers an excellent model for integrating ethics education at all levels of instruction and for empowering and engaging communities It will be a valuable tool for anthropological researchers instructors and fieldworkers as they transform their professional practice Ubervveillance and the Social Implications of Microchip Implants: Emerging Technologies Michael, M.G.,2013-09-30 This book presents case studies literature reviews ethnographies and frameworks supporting the emerging technologies of RFID implants while also highlighting the current and predicted social implications of human centric technologies Provided by publisher Science, Technology, and Society Sal Restivo,2005-05-19

The Fight Over Food Wynne Wright, Gerad Middendorf, 2015-06-17 One problem with the food system is that price is the bottom line rather than having the bottom line be land stewardship an appreciation for the environmental and social value of small scale family farms or for organically grown produce Interview with farmer in Skagit County Washington For much of the later twentieth century food has been abundant and convenient for most residents of advanced industrial societies The luxury of taking the safety and dependability of food for granted pushed it to the back burner in the consciousness of many Increasingly however this once taken for granted food system is coming under question on issues such as the humane treatment of animals genetically engineered foods and social and environmental justice Many consumers are no longer content with buying into the mainstream commodity driven food market on which they once depended Resistance has emerged in diverse forms from protests at the opening of McDonald s restaurants worldwide to ever greater interest in alternatives such as CSAs community supported agriculture fair trade and organic foods The food system is increasingly becoming an arena of struggle that reflects larger changes in societal values and norms as expectations are moving beyond the desire for affordable convenient foods to a need for healthy and environmentally sound alternatives In this book leading scholars and scholar activists provide case studies that illuminate the complexities and contradictions that surround the emergence of a new day in agriculture The essays found in The Fight Over Food analyze and evaluate both the theoretical and historical contexts of the agrifood system and the ways in which trends of individual action and collective activity have led to an accumulation of resistance that greatly affects the mainstream market of food production The overarching theme that integrates the case studies is the idea of human agency and the ways in which people purposefully and creatively generate new forms of action or resistance to facilitate social changes within the structure of predominant cultural norms Together these studies examine whether these combined efforts will have the strength to create significant and enduring transformations in the food system

Biotechnology and Communication Sandra Braman, 2004-04-26 This volume examines the convergence of biotechnology and communication systems and explores how this convergence directly influences our understanding of the nature of communication Editor Sandra Braman brings together scholars to examine this convergence in three areas genetic information and facticity social issues and implications and the economic and legal issues raised by the production and ownership of information The work highlights the sophisticated processes taking place as biotechnology and information technology systems continue to evolve The chapters in this book approach the complex history of this topic and the issues it raises from a number of directions It begins by examining the shared features and spaces of biotechnology and digital information technologies as meta technologies qualitatively distinct from both the tools first used in the premodern era and the industrial technologies that characterized modernity Next the book explores what is and is not useful in treating the types of information processed by the two meta technologies through a shared conceptual lens and looks at issues raised by the ownership of genetic and digital information The final chapters are concerned with relationships between information and power Defining a future research agenda for communication scholarship this work is beneficial to scholars and students in science communication cultural studies information technologies and sociology Biotechnology and Our Food Joan Nordquist,2000 Each bibliography includes a comprehensive list of the theorist s works and critical studies of these works in English Each bibliography contains approximately 600 to 900 entries Books journal articles essays within edited books in the manner of Essay and General Literature and dissertations are included References are provided from a wide variety of disciplines and bibliographic sources The primary purpose of each bibliography is to provide access to the widely reprinted primary works in English and the critical literature in a great variety of books and journals The topical bibliographies include the authoritative works on the subject and are arranged in useful categories The lively part of the modern post modern debate is generally taking place in alternative and left journals journals always included in the literature search in the compiling of the bibliographies Divided Planet Tom Athanasiou,1998 Global warming Soil loss Freshwater scarcity Extinction Overconsumption Toxic waste production Habitat and biodiversity erosion These are only a few of our most urgent ecological crises There are others as well and despite the popularity of good news environmentalism few of them are going away In this wide ranging grimly entertaining commentary on the environmental debate Tom Athanasiou finds that these problems are exacerbated if not caused by the planet s division into warring camps of rich and poor Writing with passionate intelligence Athanasiou proposes a simple yet radical solution stop indulging easy calming fantasies in which everything seems to change but nothing important changes at all Instead do what needs to be done now while there is still time and goodwill The bottom line he concludes is that there will be no sustainability without a large measure of justice Without profound political and economic change he argues there can be no effective global environmental action no real effort to save the planet Science, Seeds, and Cyborgs Finn Bowring,2003 Exploring the wide reach of modern biotechnology from the genetic modification of plants and animals to medical genetics assisted reproduction and human cloning it suggests that we are losing sight of the human being in favour of adapting that being to an inhuman world BOOK JACKET Family Agriculture David G. Francis,2023-07-26 Originally published in 1994 this book examines the importance of family agricultural systems in both the developed and the developing worlds Throughout the world and throughout history the family unit has been at the heart of agricultural systems Working together families not only furnish their own needs but form the basis for society itself they provide the labour population resources and the market to maintain much of the world s economic and social development But the global race for financial prosperity with its large scale intensive farming techniques is increasingly undermining the family s role in food production and social cohesion This book explores both traditional and modern farming techniques and looks at their different consequences for national agricultural resources and for rural societies Finally it suggests ways in which technology can be harnessed to meet the needs of the family rather than undermine it in order to achieve a viable and sustainable agriculture for the future Commercialization of Biotechnology
