Talking Books James Carter, 2013-01-11 Talking Books sets out to show how some of the leading children's authors of the day respond to these and other similar questions. The authors featured are Neil Ardley, Ian Beck, Helen Cresswell, Gillian Cross, Terry Deary, Berlie Doherty, Alan Durant, Brian Moses, Philip Pullman, Celia Rees, Norman Silver, Jacqueline Wilson, and Benjamin Zephaniah. They discuss with great enthusiasm their childhood reading habits, how they came to be published, how they write on a daily basis, how a particular book came together, a type of writing that they are especially known for. Through in-depth interviews, they each reveal their approach to their craft. Much is known and spoken of the product that is the children's book, but it is rare that writers are given the opportunity to talk at length about the process of writing for children. Talking Books redresses the balance by presenting a wide selection of authors of fiction, non-fiction, and poetry reflecting upon the joys and challenges of the craft, creativity, and process of writing for children.

Making Progress in English Eve Bearne, 2006-09-07. This manual is designed to help teachers establish a principled framework for developing English at Key Stages 1 and 2. Covering all aspects of English, it will help teachers raise standards of achievement in pupils at all levels of fluency and confidence. The author uses case study material to relate theory to practice, covering issues such as classroom organization and management. She also provides guidance for planning and developing ideas with colleagues and with children, and offers suggestions for teaching strategies with photocopiable sheets and formats, and ways to evaluate teaching. Separate sections deal with reading, writing, speaking, and listening, and these different threads are drawn together in sections on knowledge about language, including spelling, grammar, and punctuation, and study of texts, including media, poetry, drama, response to literature, and the use of non-fiction texts. The final section deals with policy and schemes of work. Each chapter also offers information on assessment, recording, and reporting, linked to scales of progression, frameworks for screening, and supporting children who have difficulties with English, gender, working with parents, linguistic and cultural diversity. Eve Bearne teaches at Homerton College, Cambridge.

American Book Publishing Record, 2004. Horror Literature and Dark Fantasy Mark A. Fabrizio, 2018-05-16. Horror Literature and Dark Fantasy: Challenging Genres is a collection of scholarly essays intended to address the parent whose unreasoning opposition to horror entails its removal from a school curriculum, the school administrator who sees little or no redeeming literary value in horror, and the teacher who wants to use horror to teach critical literacy skills but does not know how to do so effectively. The essays herein are intended to offer opportunities for teachers in secondary schools and higher education to enrich their classes through a non-canonical approach to literary study. This book is a deliberate attempt to enlarge the conversation surrounding works of horror and argue for their inclusion into school curricula to teach students critical literacy skills      Getting the Buggers to Read 2nd Edition Claire Senior,2008-08-20 This is a fully up dated guide for teachers and trainees containing a new chapter on getting boys into books plus an extended directory and plenty suggestions for further reading Although reading is essential for every subject very little attention has been paid to how it is taught especially in secondary schools This practical guide shows teachers how they can improve their students reading skills using a variety of strategies including setting up reading clubs celebrating world book day and creating a reader friendly school Brimming with top tips and innovative advice this book will prove invaluable to teachers everywhere      Bird Spotting in a Small Town Sophie Morton-Thomas,2024-02-08 My feet are itching to walk to the shore to leave the kids again to sit with the birds and pretend none of this has happened In a small isolated town on the North Norfolk coast Fran s life is unravelling As she fills her days cleaning the caravan park she owns she is preoccupied by worry about the behaviour of her son the growing absence of her husband and the strained relationship with her sister Her one source of solace is slipping out to the beach early in the morning to watch the birds Small town tension simmers when a new teacher starts at the local school and a Romany community settle in the field adjoining Fran s caravan park From the distance of his caravan seventy year old Tad quietly watches the townspeople mainly Fran s family When the schoolteacher and Fran s brother in law both go missing on the same night accusations fly Yet all Fran can seem to care about is the birds An eerie and unsettling novel Bird Spotting in a Small Town perfectly encapsulates the intensity of rural claustrophobia when you don t know who you can trust A haunting disquieting novel exquisitely written The detail throughout is like acupuncture and the whole thing is difficult to pull away from I read it in short bursts because each sitting left me with something new to think about IAN MOORE author of Death and Croissants The kind of book that gets under your skin hugely atmospheric and dark in the best possible way JENNIE GODFREY author of The List of Suspicious Things Perfect for fans of Francine Toon s Pine and hit British crime dramas like Broadchurch and Hollington Drive      Comic Books and Juvenile Delinquency United States. Voices Off Morag Styles,Eve Bearne,Victor Watson,1996 The culmination of a trilogy on children literature that began with After Alice and The Prose and the Passion The 20 essays address a variety of genres and issues both in contemporary contexts and in the past Among the contributors are novelists Jan Mark Jill Paton Walsh and John Rowe Townsend others include artists and booksellers Their topics range from a bookseller s view of wasting money the revenge of the teenage horror and Aesop for children to reading picture books letter writing picture books as small portable galleries the masks of the narrator and critical literacy as a dangerous underground movement      Literacy and Popular Culture Jackie

Marsh, Elaine Millard, 2000-12-22 Most children engage with a range of popular cultural forms outside of school. Their experiences with film, television, computer games and other cultural texts are very motivating but often find no place within the official curriculum where children are usually restricted to conventional forms of literacy. This book demonstrates how to use children's interests in popular culture to develop literacy in the primary classroom. The authors provide a theoretical basis for such work through an exploration of related theory and research drawing from the fields of education, sociology and cultural studies. Teachers are often concerned about issues of sexism, racism, violence and commercialism within the discourse of children's media texts. The authors address each of these areas and show how such issues can be explored directly with children. They present classroom examples of the use of popular culture to develop literacy in schools and include interviews with children and teachers regarding this work. This book is relevant to all teachers and students who want to develop their understanding of the nature and potential role of popular culture within the curriculum. It will also be useful to language coordinators, advisers, teacher educators and anyone interested in media education in the 5-12 age range.
