Obi, J.P. Auffret, N. Iwasaki, 2013-09-12 It is predicted that by 2050 22% of the world's population will be over 60 years of age This rapid shift in demographics calls for the development of coherent and forward looking policies to address the many challenges which will inevitably arise as a result This book presents 33 articles from the workshop jointly organized by APEC and OECD held in Waseda University Tokyo Japan in September 2012 At this workshop a group of international experts described a wide range of important issues associated with an aging population and discussed how both governments and the private sector can best mobilize innovation and research to transform this global challenge into an opportunity for active and productive aging and new sources of sustainable growth The authors call for a comprehensive approach to achieve policy coherence as well as for strengthening public private partnerships and promoting collaboration among multiple stakeholders and systems The book is divided into six chapters covering such subjects as lessons learnt from best practice solutions for the aging society policy initiatives health innovation smart communities and new services Innovation will be necessary to meet the challenges and to mitigate the health social and economic impacts of an aging population worldwide as well as unlocking the potential of ICTs through increased research and new models This book will be of interest to all those whose work involves the development of new services for older people in sectors such as health and nursing care education and training transportation community development and smart cities among others Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 2002 The Financial Problems of the Elderly Victor R. Fuchs, 2001 A holistic approach to the financial problems of the elderly focuses simultaneously on their expenditures that are self financed as well as those that are financed by transfers from the young under age65 It also focuses simultaneously on paying for health care and paying for other goods and services The income and health care expenditures not paid from personal income provides a useful framework for empirical application of the holistic approach In 1997 approximately 35 percent of the elderly's full income was devoted to health care 65 percent to other goods and services Approximately 56 percent of full income was provided by transfers from the young and 44 percent by the elderly themselves The paper shows how these percentages might change under alternative assumptions about the growth of health care relative to other goods and services and the effect of these changes on the need for more saving and more work prior to Working Paper Series, 2001 Advancing Aging Policy as the 21st Century Begins Francis G Caro, Jill retirement Norton, Robert Morris Deceased, 2023-04-28 By the end of the current decade many baby boomers will be senior citizens What policies should we enact to prepare for an aging society In the coming decade we have a unique opportunity to create new and better aging policies This collection of twenty essays by prominent educators researchers and policy analysts in the field of gerontology brings together innovative ideas from the United States Europe and Japan Instead of focusing on utopian dreams these exciting proposals are based on policy changes that may well be attainable in the next ten years The vital concerns addressed in Advancing Aging Policy as the 21st Century Begins include work and retirement issues the aging prison population long term care Latino elders transportation death and dying issues and the aging of the baby boom generation Advancing Aging Policy as the 21st Century Begins explores innovative policies and care arrangements around the world the importance of a strong economy that provides opportunities for seniors who seek them and support for those who need it the need for flexible retirement and employment policies for older adults the connections between family policy and aging policy the importance of improving training and compensation for workers in long term care the special needs of our diverse and rapidly growing population of older people the importance of focusing aging policy on people rather than on programsThis forward looking book on policy and aging in the coming decade puts the experience and insight of leaders in the field from around the world in your hands Policymakers educators and students of gerontology will find it an invaluable Winds of Change in the Kingdom Pasquale De Marco, 2025-05-15 In the tumultuous heart of 17th century resource England a nation teeters on the precipice of revolution As discontent festers beneath the heavy hand of monarchy a storm of change is brewing fueled by religious fervor social inequality and political tyranny Winds of Change in the Kingdom is a captivating narrative that delves into this transformative era shedding light on the events ideas and individuals that shaped the course of history Through the eyes of ordinary people and influential leaders we witness the rise of radical movements the clash of ideologies and the birth of new political and social systems From the depths of obscurity a new breed of leaders emerges rallying the oppressed under a common banner of defiance As the struggle for freedom and equality intensifies blood stains the fields and the fate of a nation hangs in the balance The seeds of democracy are sown watered by the blood of martyrs and nurtured by the unwavering determination of those who refuse to bow to oppression The echoes of the English Revolution reverberate across time inspiring hearts and minds in distant lands From the battlefields of England to the halls of power in far off colonies the ideals of liberty equality and justice spread like wildfire challenging the established order and igniting the flames of revolution This book is more than just a historical account it is a testament to the resilience of the human spirit a testament to our capacity for progress and a testament to the power of collective action As we journey through the pages of Winds of Change in the Kingdom we will gain a deeper understanding of the forces that drive societal change and the enduring impact of those who dare to challenge the status quo Join us on this captivating journey through a pivotal moment in history where the seeds of democracy are sown and the winds of change sweep across the land Winds of Change in the Kingdom is a powerful reminder of the indomitable spirit of humanity and the transformative power of revolution If you like this book write a review on google books Politics and Government in Hong Kong Ming Sing, 2009 This book examines the government of Hong Kong since its handover to mainland China in 1997 focusing in particular on the anti government mass protests and mobilisations in the years since 2003 It argues that Hong Kong has been poorly governed since transferring to Chinese rule and that public frustration with governmental performance including anti subversion laws and slow democratisation has resulted in the regular and massive protests which have been rare in Hong Kong s past political development The book then assesses different explanations for Hong Kong's government problems including lack of social cohesion incomplete economic restructuring structural budgetary deficit severe social inequality intensifying cronyism and deficiencies within the political system itself It goes on to discuss the implications of poor governance for legislative elections civil society and constitutional development and considers the prospects for the future It argues that although in the short term the Hong Kong government has managed to maintain its popular support ratings in the longer run it is unlikely to be able to maintain its legitimacy in dealing with the fundamental challenges of government unless the current system is replaced by popular election of the government with appropriate institutional capacity and political powers
