Innovative Measurement and Evaluation of Community Development Practices Norman Walzer,Jane Leonard,Mary Emery,2017-10-02 Finding innovative and useful measurement practices for community development projects is gaining in importance as policymakers increase the demands for accountability This book examines some of the latest efforts to document the effectiveness of local development efforts The types of documentation differ by types of project jurisdiction and country but they have a common focus of recognizing the importance of the Community Capitals framework Public agencies in the past have often measured development successes by the number of jobs created and or amount of private investment forthcoming However the impacts of community development reach much deeper than those indicators Strengthening local decision making capacity is a common component of development efforts as is engaging populations that in the past have not been active in decision making These and other considerations are explored in more detail by authors in this volume Local policymakers and practitioners will be continually pressured to provide more documentation of outcomes and readers will gain considerable insights into alternative approaches that can be included in projects but can also see the common elements needed to create a solid measurement system International insights are a special strength of the discussions in this book This book was published as a special issue of Community Development Poverty and Sustainable Development in Asia Armin Bauer,Myo Thant,2015-01-01 This joint publication from the Asian Development Bank and the Asian Development Bank Institute features selected papers from the September 2009 conference on the social and environmental impact of the global economic crisis on Asia and the Pacific especially on the poor and vulnerable The publication is designed with the needs of policy makers in mind utilizing field country and thematic background studies to cover a large number of countries and cases

This publication suggests that the crisis is an opportunity to rethink the model of development in Asia for growth to become more inclusive and sustainable. Issues that need to be more carefully considered include closing the gap of dualistic labor markets, building up social protection systems, rationalizing social expenditures, addressing urban poverty through slum upgrading, promoting rural development through food security programs in pro-poor growth potential areas, and concentrating climate change interventions on generating direct benefits for the environments of the poor.

Noncommunicable Disease and Poverty WHO Regional Office for the Western Pacific, Jude van Konkelenberg, World Health Organization. Regional Office for the Western Pacific, 2007. Based on a review of available literature, this monograph explores the links between poverty and noncommunicable diseases (NCDs) with particular reference to the Western Pacific Region. The project was specifically designed to stimulate discussion on the relationship between poverty and NCDs to contribute to the reduction of the impact of NCDs in developing countries and to foster an understanding of how to improve health outcomes for the poor or socially marginalized groups with NCDs.

Poverty and Sustainable Development in Asia Asian Development Bank, 2010-04-01. On 28-30 September 2009, the Asian Development Bank, the governments of the People's Republic of China and Viet Nam, and the ASEAN Secretariat jointly organized a high-level Asia-wide conference in Ha Noi on the social and environmental impact of the global economic crisis on Asia and the Pacific, especially on the poor and vulnerable. The conference also served as the 3rd China-ASEAN Forum on Social Development and Poverty Reduction and as the 4th ASEAN-3 High Level Seminar on Poverty Reduction. It was supported by various development partners. This book features selected papers from the Ha Noi conference. It is designed with the needs of policy makers in mind, utilizing field country and thematic background studies to cover a large number of countries and cases. It is complemented by a website comprising more information about the conference and all the papers presented there: www.adb.org/Documents/Events/2009/Poverty_Social_Development/default.asp.

The Greying of India Rajagopal D Chakraborti, 2004-06-30. This book argues cogently that India's policymakers need to urgently take up the cause of the elderly in order to create an environment that insures them against various risks and allows them to maintain as much economic independence and self-sufficiency as possible without disturbing the intergenerational balance. The first of its kind to be based on data from the National Sample Survey Organisation and providing a global perspective, this book constitutes the most comprehensive analysis of the causes and consequences of ageing in India. The major objectives of the book are to: Document the rapid growth of older populations in India; Address the key issues and topics related to ageing; Assess the implications of demographic changes for programmes and policies for the aged; Present an Elderly Status Index based on available data. Timely, stimulating and challenging, this book is packed with relevant and hitherto unanalysed data on ageing in India. In particular, it provides an exhaustive discussion on various conceptual and measurement issues relating to population ageing.

Vietnamese Health Care System in Change Kerstin Priwitzer,2003-08-01 Within the last twenty years a large scale bottom up privatization has taken place in Vietnam changing and dismantling the public health care system This process has led to severe tensions inherent in the transitional society of Vietnam between equity and access to health care support especially for the poor elderly migrants and ethnic minorities on the one hand and its efficiency on the other hand The book traces the reform efforts to modernize the health care system by the Communist Party of Vietnam and the Vietnamese government The author bases her findings on little known primary literature and interviews with key stakeholders of the policy network involved in the reform of the health care system thereby painting an authentic atmospheric picture of the profound changes in the health care system in Vietnam

Chronic Poverty In Asia: Causes, Consequences And Policies John Malcolm Dowling,Chin-fang Yap,2009-10-14 Asia contains the bulk of the world's poor as many as 500 million people. A significant fraction of these poor are chronically poor, which means that they and their families have been poor for years and will remain in poverty unless governmental policies are adopted which can lift them out of poverty. This book focuses on rural poverty and those countries in Asia with the largest number of chronically poor, including the two emerging superpowers of China and India, other countries of South Asia, and the Mekong region, as well as Indonesia and the Philippines in Southeast Asia. Systematic analysis of who is poor, where they live, and why they are poor is carried out. Microeconomic sector and macroeconomic policies which have been adopted to address this important social issue are also discussed. Through specific country analysis, the book outlines additional concrete measures that can be taken to reduce chronic poverty and improve the welfare of these people.
