Gormley Jr.,David L. Weimer,1999-03 In recent years consumers professional organizations government officials and third party payers have become increasingly concerned about how to assess the quality of the services provided by organizations in both the private and the public sectors One new approach is the organizational report card which compares the performance of organizations such as public schools colleges hospitals and HMOs This book offers the first comprehensive study of such instruments It discusses the circumstances under which they are desirable alternatives to other policy instruments such as regulation how they should be designed who is likely to use them and for what purpose and what role if any government should have in their creation Informed by cases drawn from education health and other policy areas this book develops a conceptual framework for analyzing these issues It explores the tradeoffs in measuring performance the methods of communicating results effectively to mass and elite audiences and the ways in which organizations respond to the data gathered Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report ,1999 The Experimenting Society William N. Dunn,2024-11-01 An experimenting society is one in which policy relevant knowledge is created It is then critically assessed and communicated in real life or natural settings with the aim of discovering new forms of public action to improve the problem solving capacities of society This latest volume of the distinguished Policy Studies Review Annual series probes evaluates and augments the work of Donald T Campbell on an experimental societies A basic assumption of this volume is that Campbell s perspective supplies a useful way to address increasingly complex and seemingly unmanageable problems facing the United States and other postindustrial societies This volume is also the fourteenth festschrift to be issued by Transaction The focus is on theoretical as well as practical options for creating an experimenting society The rationale for this focus is the belief increasingly shared in the social science and policy making communities alike that researchers are essentially ignorant about how to solve many of the most pressing larger problems of this epoch This frank recognition of ignorance is a prerequisite of genuine scientific and professional curiosity without which knowledge gains are next to impossible to achieve and a precondition of an experimenting society Contributors to this original volume include Steve Fuller Duncan MacRae Jr Anthony S Bryk Robert A Beauregard Rita Mae Kelly Peter Gregware Burkart Holzner B Guy Peters C West Churchman and Ian I Mitroff Their multidisciplinary competencies are at once philosophical methodological and substantive They address such questions as What new or bold policies are available in domains such as education science and urban development In what ways can theoretical knowledge and practical action be fused so as to illuminate or alleviate policy problems What should be done Included are excerpts from Campbell s foundational paper The Experimenting Society as well as a recent article entitled Methods for the Experimenting Society which circulated in unpublished form for many years An unusual feature of the book is Campbell s responses to those who have addressed his work with candor and intelligence It will be of interest to policy studies scholars sociologists and social scientists

International Poverty Law Lucy Williams, 2013-07-04 This book seeks to advance the emerging field of international poverty law While law and development discourse has dealt with international poverty advocates of poverty reduction customarily operate within a nation state context The contributors to this volume while largely although not exclusively relying on human rights discourse and United Nations International Labour Organization and World Trade Organization initiatives as their primary legal sources begin to position international poverty law as a legitimate field for transnational multidisciplinary legal research and dialogue While critiquing both legal theory and current policy they nevertheless open up a constructive prospect of specific arenas in which the development of international poverty law can contribute to addressing poverty reduction The opening chapters of this volume provide a framework within which to position the future theoretical development of international poverty law The rest of the book explores specific human rights initiatives that address particular aspects of poverty These include an overview of human rights conventions and how they can be connected to international poverty law measures required to counter the tendency of intellectual property law as applied to biological products and processes to undermine food security the right to food as framed in United Nations development documents the potential role that voluntary codes of conduct currently being adopted by some transnational corporations might play in poverty reduction and the startlingly important development in the new South Africa of an alternative vision of constitutional law that takes account of international human rights instruments in moving towards rendering social and economic rights justifiable The Policy Analyst's Handbook Lewis G.
