

This irregularly shaped canvas, whose bottom edge is parallel with the floor, has been painted with a roller. One of a series of twenty-eight and named after the Greek poet in the Metropolitan Museum in New York, this Minimalist work has no image, suggests no emotion and is without movement. Mangold deliberately obscures a precise geometric form to question the way in which we perceive things. Often more interested in the preparation of an idea than in carrying it into a work of art, Mangold is fascinated by works made up of sections put together to make a whole, and he likes an element of visual illusion. Through the years Mangold's painting has been highly varied and has included spray-painted visual puns and works on canvas which explore geometric proportions in natural shape and motion. In the 1970s he took on a more lyrical palette reminiscent of Piet Mondrian.
