Physical Characteristics of Early Films as Aids to Identification Camille Blot-Wellens,2022-01-19 Any archivists who have held a piece of fi lm in their hands wondering how to go about identifying it recognize the true value of fi lm preservationist Harold Brown s work In 1967 Brown delivered a pioneering lecture on the identification of early films at the annual Congress of the International Federation of Film Archives FIAF in East Berlin Years of working with Britain s National Film Archive collections and the close examination of thousands of nitrate prints of the silent period made Brown a leading authority on early fi lm identification and an unsurpassed model of methodological consciousness in the archival field In 1990 FIAF published Brown s Physical Characteristics of Early Films as Aids to Identification an updated version and a continuation of his 1967 lecture This publication has long been archivists trusted companion constituting a concentrated encyclopedia on all the information that can be discovered or verified through aspects of the fi lm other than the actual projected image such as perforation shapes embossed and punched marks stock manufacturers and producers edge marks frame characteristics title styles and production serial numbers It also included essays on key individual production companies of the silent era Over the last 30 years this manual a basic typewritten 100 page volume including 20 pages of black white illustrations with its easily recognizable red cover has been an invaluable reference for fi lm archivists and scholars However as Brown himself acknowledged in the 1990 edition the manual was far from definitive Camille Blot Wellens the editor of this new expanded edition of Brown's 1990 book belongs to the new generation of researchers who have used Physical Characteristics extensively in their work and have gathered considerable new information on the subject. This new edition is the result of a project she initiated in 2014 with FIAF's support. Brown's original text is now augmented with new original research on key film manufacturers and producers by Camille Bolt Wellens and other leading archivists and researchers in the field. Richly illustrated, the book contains over 900 images including 125 in full color. This new 336-page edition of Harold Brown's seminal manual will be welcomed by many and will no doubt become a must-have working tool for many in the film archiving and academic fields.

Pioneers in Neuroendocrinology Joseph Meites, 2012-12-06. In the middle and late 1960s when it was clear that neuroendocrinology was established as a discipline in its own right, it occurred to us that autobiographical accounts of the pioneer work in this field by the major participants would provide a highly interesting and informative account of his story in the making. With the death of G. W. Harris in late 1971 and the loss thereby of an outstanding pioneer and personality in neuroendocrinology, it appeared to us to be even more urgent to undertake such a venture and collect as many stories as possible. The three of us agreed that initially we would limit our invitations to the senior investigators whose research careers lay mostly behind them with the hope that if this venture proved successful we could ask younger and still very active researchers in neuroendocrinology to contribute to a subsequent volume. Most of those invited to write for this book agreed to do so but regrettably there remain some notable absentees. The authors were requested to write a personal and even idiosyncratic account of the steps taken and the motivation and drive that led them to develop their interest in the relationship between the brain and the endocrine system.

Illuminated Paris S. Hollis Clayson, 2019-05-16. The City of Light. For many, these four words instantly conjure late nineteenth-century Paris and the garish colors of Toulouse-Lautrec's iconic posters. More recently, the Eiffel Tower's nightly show of sparkling electric lights has come to exemplify our fantasies of Parisian nightlife. Though we reflect longingly on such scenes in Illuminated Paris, Hollis Clayson shows that there's more to these clichés than meets the eye. In this richly illustrated book, she traces the dramatic evolution of lighting in Paris and how artists responded to the shifting visual and cultural scenes that resulted from these technologies. While older gas lighting produced a haze of orange, new electric lighting was hardly an improvement: the glare of experimental arc lights themselves dangerous, left figures looking pale and ghoulish. As Clayson shows, artists' representations of these new colors and shapes reveal a turn of the century concerned about modernization as electric lighting came to represent the harsh glare of rapidly accelerating social change. At the same time, in part thanks to American artists visiting the city, these works of art also produced our enduring romantic view of Parisian glamour and its Belle Époque.

Gaudreault, 2011. Establishing a new vision for film history. Film and Attraction: From Kinematography to Cinema urges readers to consider the importance of complex social and cultural forces in early film Andr Gaudreault argues that Edison and the Lumi res did not invent cinema they invented a device Explaining how this device the kinematograph gave rise to cinema is the challenge he sets for himself in this volume He highlights the forgotten role of the film lecturer and examines film s relationship with other visual spectacles in fin de si cle culture from magic sketches to fairy plays and photography to vaudeville In reorienting the study of film history Film and Attraction offers a candid reassessment of Georges M li s rich oeuvre and includes a new unabridged translation of M li s famous 1907 text Kinematographic Views A foreword by Rick Altman stresses the relevance of Gaudreault s concerns to Anglophone film scholarship
