'Blackwood's magazine'). Anthony Trollope, 1867 Nina Balatka , 2020-07-13 Excerpt I thought I might succeed in impregnating the mind of the novel reader with a feeling that honesty is the best policy that truth prevails while falsehood fails that a girl will be loved as she is pure and sweet and unselfish that a man will be honoured as he is true and honest and brave of heart that things meanly done are ugly and odious and things nobly done beautiful and gracious There are many who would laugh at the idea of a novelist teaching either virtue or nobility those for instance who regard the reading of novels as a sin and those also who think it to be simply an idle pastime They look upon the tellers of stories as among the tribe of those who pander to the wicked pleasures of a wicked world I have regarded my art from so different a point of view that I have ever thought of myself as a preacher of sermons and my pulpit as one which I could make both salutary and agreeable to my audience I do believe that no girl has risen from the reading of my pages less modest than s Nina Balatka Anthony Trollope, 1946 Linda Tressel The heroine is pressured by her religious zealot aunt to marry an unpleasant man she finds repulsive The story unfolds in some caricature and melodrama yet remains an interesting study of Victorian social mores and relationships Nina Balatka (Esprios Classics) Anthony Trollope, 2021-12-20 Anthony Trollope 1815 1882 was one of the most successful prolific and respected English novelists of the Victorian era He wrote penetrating novels on political social and gender issues and conflicts of his day In 1867 Trollope left his position in the British Post Office to run for Parliament as a Liberal candidate in 1868 After he lost he concentrated entirely on his literary career While continuing to produce novels rapidly he also edited the St Paul s Magazine which published several of his novels in serial form His first major success came with The Warden 1855 the first of six novels set in the fictional county of Barsetshire The comic masterpiece Barchester Towers 1857 has probably become the best known of these Nina Balatka Anthony
