Andy Thornley

Planning In A Global Erahc2002:

Planning in a Global Era Andy Thornley, 2017-03-02 Globalization was the buzzword of the last decade Advances in communication technology computing and air travel have all contributed to the establishment of what has been referred to as a network society that encompasses the globe Such arguments clearly have a significance on planning an activity which has been concerned with controlling and shaping the use of space This volume brings together contributions from across the world in order to address some of the questions that arise from such global changes The opening section addresses the globalization debate directly raising some theoretical issues and exploring the planning implications across a range of world cities This is followed by an exploration of the way the theoretical debate about planning may need to advance to encompass contemporary forces A number of more specific accounts addressing the need for adaptation are offered The final section focuses on two aspects housing and sustainability which persist as wicked problems and are likely to remain at the top of the agenda in the third millennium

The Routledge Companion to Planning in the Global South Gautam Bhan, Smita Srinivas, Vanessa Watson, 2017-09-11 The Routledge Companion to Planning in the Global South offers an edited collection on planning in parts of the world which more often than not are unrecognised or unmarked in mainstream planning texts In doing so its intention is not to fill a gap that leaves this mainstream unquestioned but to re theorise planning from a deep understanding of place as well as a commitment to recognise the diverse modes of practice that come within it The chapters thus take the form not of generalised universal analyses and prescriptions but instead are critical and located reflections in thinking about how to plan act and intervene in highly complex city regional and national contexts Chapter authors in this Companion are not all planners or are planners of very different kinds and this diversity ensures a rich variety of insights primarily based on cases to emphasise the complexity of the world in which planning is expected to happen The book is divided into a framing Introduction followed by five sections planning and the state economy and economic actors new drivers of urban change landscapes of citizenship and planning pedagogy This volume will be of interest to all those wanting to explore the complexities of planning practice and the need for new theories of knowledge from which to draw insight to face the challenges of the 21st century

Global Strategy Andrew Inkpen, Kannan Ramaswamy, 2005-11-24 There are few industries if any untouched by global competitive forces Firms and countries long accustomed to dominance in their respective international markets must now reckon with aggressive and innovative competitors from all corners of the world As the cross border flow of people knowledge ideas products services and management practices accelerates the notion of home based advantage is becoming weaker Unlike their domestic counterparts firms competing across borders must deal with differences in political legal financial cultural governance and macroeconomic contexts These contextual differences shape competition in international strategy and make the study of international strategy more than just a simple extension of classic strategic analysis Global Strategy deals with the question of how firms can compete in a global environment Andrew Inkpen and Kannan Ramaswamy examine the issues considered central to the study of strategic management in a global context such as the nature of global advantage strategic alliances competing in emerging markets international corporate governance global knowledge management and ethical issues in international business Much as been written about the relevance of global regional and domestic strategies to counter competition from overseas and as a means to enter foreign markets However lobal Strategy takes a broader view organizing itself around a set of strategic management issues that arise specifically because a firm is international While there is obviously some overlap between domestic strategic management and global strategic management it is Inkpen and Ramaswamy s contention that the differences between domestic and global strategy warrant specific attention By integrating academic research with practical examples and case studies they inform students and managers of global business about a diverse set of important strategic issues Strategic and Long-range Planning for the Multinational Corporation John Snow Schwendiman,1973 Innovative Strategic Planning and International Collaboration for the Mitigation of Global Crises Gabriela Antošová,2022 This book is for professionals and academic researchers findings in the field of international strategic management to improve their understanding of the innovative strategic planning at different levels of the multidisciplinary context of globalization internationalization education tourism aviation digitalization regional economics and statistics management and marketing religion public policy and society Strategic Planning Report United Methodist Church (U.S.).
