Wingfield, 2017-06-23 This study of prostitution addresses issues of female agency and experience as well as contemporary fears about sexual coercion and the forced movement of girls women and police surveillance Rather than treating prostitutes solely as victims or problems to be solved as so often has been the case in much of the literature Nancy M Wingfield seeks to find the historical subjects behind fin de si cle constructions of prostitutes to restore agency to the women who participated in commercial sex illuminate their quotidian experiences and to place these women some of whom made a rational economic decision to sell their bodies in the larger social context of late imperial Austria Wingfield investigates the interactions of both registered and clandestine prostitutes with the vice police and other supervisory agents including physicians and court officials as well as with the inhabitants of these women s world including brothel clients and madams and pimps rather than focusing top down on the state constructed apparatus of surveillance Close reading of a broad range of primary and secondary sources shows that some prostitutes in late imperial Austria took control over their own fates at least as much as other working class women in the last decades before the end of the Monarchy And after 1918 bureaucratic transition did not necessarily parallel political transition Thus there was no dramatic change in the regulation of prostitution in the successor states Legislation which changed regulation only piecemeal after the war often continued to incorporate forms of control reflecting continuity in attitudes about women s sexuality      Kenya National Assembly Official Record (Hansard) , 1981-06-09 The official records of the proceedings of the Legislative Council of the Colony and Protectorate of Kenya the House of Representatives of the Government of Kenya and the National Assembly of the Republic of Kenya      Traffic Conditions in D.C. United States.
