Police Supervisory Practice:

Police Supervisory Practice William J. Osterloh, 1975-01-01 A training manual written in informal factual style that is devoted to the attainment of proficiency for supervisors in a police or sheriff's department. The tenets of leadership, communication, morale, motivation, and decision making are all presented. The author strives to make his topics and approaches seem relevant to modern day police conditions and operations. Each chapter includes summaries using a set of single sentences which recapitulate the principal points that have been made. They in turn are categorized under simple headings in bold type.

Elements of Police Supervision William B. Melnicoe, Jan Mennig, 1978 This volume presents contemporary thinking in the field of police supervision and covers advances in supervisory techniques with special emphasis on the unique problems of police officers. Accordingly, the practical elements of the police supervisory function are outlined with attention to the police environment, the supervisor's role in management, the selection of supervisors, the psychological aspects of supervision, motivation, leadership, morale, the role of employee groups and organizations, discipline, communication, counseling, and interviewing, complaints and grievances, decision making and planning, work planning, performance appraisal, women supervisors, and the supervisory training function. The following materials are appended: an example of a general order regarding complaints of police misconduct, a complaint form used by the Oakland California Police Department, a personnel evaluation form, an example of a general order regarding permanent employment status, an outline of the supervisory training course used by the Municipal Police Training Council of the state of New York, a supervisor's rating scale, a form for rating supervisors, and a self-analysis questionnaire for supervisors used in a California program for police officers training a field training guide used by the Oakland California Police Department and course and program curriculums meeting training specifications and standards for California police officers. Reference notes and discussion questions are provided at the close of each chapter. An index is included.
