Political Campaign Communication Larry

Powell, Joseph Cowart, 2015-08-07. Political Campaign Communication Inside and Out examines the ins and outs of political campaigning through the eyes of both an academic and a political consultant. This text takes a unique approach to the subject of campaign communication by examining its intricacies from views both inside and outside of the process. Unlike many texts in this field, Political Campaign Communication Inside and Out takes a broad view of political campaigning, discussing theories and principles along with topics such as political socialization, the role of money, ethics and critical events.

Televised Presidential Debates and Public Policy Sidney Kraus, 2013-10-11. With this second edition, Kraus continues his examination of formal presidential debates, considering the experience of television in presidential elections, reviewing what has been learned about televised debates and evaluating that knowledge in the context of the election process, specifically and the political process generally. He also examines the media and the role they occupy in presidential elections. Because critics often refer to the Lincoln-Douglas debates when reproaching presidential debates, comparisons of the two are discussed throughout the book. Much of the data and information for this accounting of televised presidential debates comes from the author's first-hand experience as one who was involved with these debates as a participant-observer on site at nearly all of the debates discussed. Throughout these discussions, emphasis is placed on the implications for public policy. To suggest policy that will be accepted and adopted by politicians and the public is at best difficult. Proposals for changes in public policy based on experience, even when scientific data support those changes, must be subjected to an assessment of the values and predispositions of the proponent. These values and predispositions, however, may not necessarily inhibit the proponent's objectivity. As such, this review of television use in the presidential election process provides the context for examining televised debates.

Strategic Maneuvering for Political Change Ahmed Abdulhameed Omar, 2019-02-15. In Strategic Maneuvering for Political Change, the author analyzes five political columns written before 2011 by Al Aswany, a prominent Egyptian novelist, using the lens of the extended pragma-dialectical theory of argumentation. What these texts have in common is the use of narrative, fictional and semi-literary techniques to strategically maneuver in supporting the feasibility of political change. It is a contribution to explain how an anti-regime writer paved the way to the Arab Spring in Egypt and thus goes against a common opinion that the Arab Spring in Egypt was fortuitous or a wholly social media-based movement. This monograph is an attempt to help argumentation theorists, linguists, analysts of narratives and political scientists better understand and evaluate how fiction and narration can be effective means of persuasion in the domain of political communication It therefore reconsiders the non straightforward and artistic variants of the language of politics U.S. Presidents as Orators Halford R. Ryan,1995-06-27 This first systematic critique on the rhetoric of 21 presidents shows how political constraints shaped rhetoric and how oratory shaped politics An introduction places American public address in the context of classical rhetorical practices and theory and sets the stage for the bio critical essays about presidents ranging from Washington to Clinton Experts analyze the style and use of language important speeches and their impact and their ethical ramifications Each essay on a president also keys major speeches to authoritative texts and offers a chronology and bibliography of primary and secondary sources For students teachers and professionals in American public address political communication and the presidency Getting It Wrong W. Joseph Campbell,2017 Many of American journalism s best known and most cherished stories are exaggerated dubious or apocryphal They are media driven myths and they attribute to the news media and their practitioners far more power and influence than they truly exert In Getting It Wrong writer and scholar W Joseph Campbell confronts and dismantles prominent media driven myths describing how they can feed stereotypes distort understanding about the news media and deflect blame from policymakers Campbell debunks the notions that the Washington Post s Watergate reporting brought down Richard M Nixon s corrupt presidency that Walter Cronkite s characterization of the Vietnam War in 1968 shifted public opinion against the conflict and that William Randolph Hearst vowed to furnish the war against Spain in 1898 This expanded second edition includes a new preface and new chapters about the first Kennedy Nixon debate in 1960 the haunting Napalm Girl photograph of the Vietnam War and bogus quotations driven by the Internet and social media Reasonableness and Effectiveness in Argumentative Discourse Frans H. van Eemeren,2015-08-27 This volume presents 50 contributions on the themes of reasonableness and effectiveness and their connections which are central issues in argumentation theory It discusses van Eemeren s views on the study of argumentation the approach to argumentation adopted in pragma dialectics pragma dialectical perspectives on the dialectical and pragmatic dimensions of argumentative discourse the notion of strategic maneuvering the pragma dialectical method of analyzing argumentative discourse the treatment of fallacies as violations of rules for critical discussion pragma dialectical views on context the role of logic verbal indicators of argumentative moves and argument schemes and the process of writing and rewriting argumentative texts The pragma dialectical quantitative approach to empirical research on argumentative discourse is illustrated by reporting on selected illustrative experimental studies as well as qualitative studies of historical cases
