Political Construction Sites Nation Building In Russia And The Post Soviet States:

Political Construction Sites Pal Kolsto, 2018-02-19 The dissolution of the Soviet Union has provided scholars with tremendously rich material for the study of comparative nation building Not since the decolonization of Africa in the 1960s have so many new states been established in one stroke in one region The post Soviet states moreover have all the necessary prerequisites for fruitful comparison a number of similarities but also significant differences in terms of size culture and recent history In order to survive in the long run modern states normally must have a population that possesses some sense of unity Its citizens must adhere to some common values and common allegiance towards the same state institutions and symbols This does not mean that all inhabitants must necessarily share the same culture but they should at least regard themselves as members of the same nation Strategies to foster this kind of common nationhood in a population are usually referred to as nation building After a decade of post Soviet nation building certain patterns are emerging and not always the most obvious ones Some states seem to manage well against high odds while others appear to be disintegrating or sinking slowly into oblivion To a remarkable degree the former Soviet republics have chosen different models for their nation building This book examines the preconditions for these endeavors the goals the state leaders are aiming at and the means they employ to reach them

Nation-Building and Common Values in Russia Pål Kolstø, Helge Blakkisrud, 2005-11 Vladimir Putin has explicitly based his nation building initiatives on the assumption that there exists a vast pool of common values in Russia that cut across ethnic and regional divides Nation Building and Common Values in Russia explores whether Putin is correct in his assumption and to what degree a commonality of values among the citizens of a country is a crucial element in the establishment of a common identity among them The study raises two basic questions Which values are actually common among various groups in Russia's population And which nation building strategies are the Russian authorities actually pursuing centrally and locally Sociological and political approaches to the study of nation building and national cohesion in Russia are employed to answer these questions and the findings contribute to a better understanding of nation building processes in post Communist Russia in general and of Putin's strategies in particular

Political Construction Sites Pal Kolsto, 2018-02-19 The dissolution of the Soviet Union has provided scholars with tremendously rich material for the study of comparative nation building Not since the decolonization of Africa in the 1960s have so many new states been established in one stroke in one region The post Soviet states moreover have all the necessary prerequisites for fruitful comparison a number of similarities but also significant differences in terms of size culture and recent history In order to survive in the long run modern states normally must have a population that possesses some sense of unity Its citizens must adhere to some common values and common allegiance towards the same state institutions and symbols This does not mean that all inhabitants must necessarily share the same culture but they should at least regard themselves as members of the same nation Strategies to foster this kind of common nationhood in a population are usually referred to as nation building After a decade of post Soviet nation building certain patterns are emerging and not always the most obvious ones Some states seem to manage well against high odds while others appear to be disintegrating or sinking slowly into oblivion To a remarkable degree the former Soviet republics have chosen different models for their nation building This book examines the preconditions for these endeavors the goals the state leaders are aiming at and the means they employ to reach them

Nation-Building and Identity in the Post-Soviet Space Rico Isaacs, Abel Polese, 2016-04-14 Nation building as a process is never complete and issues related to identity nation state and regime building are recurrent in the post Soviet region This comparative inter disciplinary volume explores how nation building tools emerged and evolved over the last twenty years Featuring in depth case studies from countries throughout the post Soviet space it compares various aspects of nation building and identity formation projects Approaching the issue from a variety of disciplines and geographical areas contributors illustrate chapter by chapter how different state and non state actors utilise traditional instruments of nation construction in new ways while also developing non traditional tools and strategies to provide a contemporary account of how nation formation efforts evolve and diverge

Religion, Politics and Nation-Building in Post-Communist Countries Greg Simons, David Westerlund, 2016-03-03 The increasing significance and visibility of relationships between religion and public arenas and institutions following the fall of communism in Europe provide the core focus of this fascinating book Leading international scholars consider the religious and political role of Christian Orthodoxy in the Russian Federation Romania Georgia and Ukraine alongside the revival of old indigenous religions often referred to as shamanistic and look at how despite Islam s long history and many adherents in the south Islamophobic attitudes have increasingly been added to traditional anti Semitic anti Western or anti liberal elements of Russian nationalism Contrasts between the church s position in the post communist nation building process of secular Estonia with its role in predominantly Catholic Poland are also explored Religion Politics and Nation Building in Post Communist Countries gives a broad overview of the political importance of religion in the Post Soviet space but its interest and relevance extends far beyond the geographical focus providing examples of the challenges in the spheres of public religious and social policy for all transitional countries

Migration, Refugee Policy, and State Building in Postcommunist Europe Oxana Shevel, 2011-10-24 Why do similar postcommunist states respond differently to refugees Why do some states privilege certain refugee groups while other states do not This book presents a theory to account for this puzzle and it centers on the role of the politics of nation building and of the office of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees UNHCR A key finding of the book is that when the boundaries of a nation are contested and thus there is no consensus on which group should receive preferential treatment in state policies a political space for a receptive and nondiscriminatory refugee policy opens up The book speaks to the broader questions of how nationalism matters after communism and under what conditions and through what mechanisms international actors can influence domestic policies The analysis is based on extensive primary research the author conducted in four languages in the

Czech Republic Poland Russia and Ukraine Media and Nation Building John Postill, 2006 With the end of the Cold War and the proliferation of civil wars and regime changes the question of nation building has acquired great practical and theoretical urgency From Eastern Europe to East Timor Afghanistan and recently Iraq the United States and its allies have often been accused of shirking their nation building responsibilities as their attention and that of the media turned to yet another regional crisis While much has been written about the growing influence of television and the Internet on modern warfare little is known about the relationship between media and nation building This book explores for the first time this relationship by means of a paradigmatic case of successful nation building Malaysia Based on extended fieldwork and historical research the author follows the diffusion adoption and social uses of media among the Iban of Sarawak in Malaysian Borneo and demonstrates the wide ranging process of nation building that has accompanied the Iban adoption of radio clocks print media and television In less than four decades Iban longhouses villages under one roof have become media organizations shaped by the official ideology of Malaysia a country hastily formed in 1963 by conjoining four disparate territories The Soviet Union - Federation or Empire? Tania Raffass, 2012-06-14 The Soviet Union is often characterised as nominally a federation but really an empire liable to break up when individual federal units which were allegedly really subordinate colonial units sought independence This book questions this interpretation revisiting the theory of federation and discussing actual examples of federations such as the United States arguing that many federal unions including the United States are really centralised polities It also discusses the nature of empires nations and how they relate to nation states and empires and the right of secession highlighting the importance of the fact that this was written in to the Soviet constitution It examines the attitude of successive Soviet leaders towards nationalities and the changing attitudes of nationalists towards the Soviet Union Overall it demonstrates that the Soviet attitude to nationalities and federal units was complicated wrestling in a similar way to many other states with difficult questions of how ethno cultural justice can best be delivered in a political unit which is bigger than the national state Metaphor, Nation and Discourse Ljiljana Šarić, Mateusz-Milan Stanojević, 2019-05-20 This edited volume examines how metaphors and related phenomena metonymies symbols cultural models stereotypes lead to the discursive construal of a common element that brings the nation together The central idea is that metaphor use must be questioned to lay bare the processes and the discursive power behind them The chapters examine a range of contemporary and historical monomodal and multimodal discourses including politicians discourse presidential speeches newspapers TV series Catholic homilies colonialist discourse and various online sources The approaches taken include political science international relations cultural studies and linguistics All contributions feature discursive constructivist views of metaphor with clear sociocultural grounding and the notion of metaphor as a framing device in constructing various aspects of nations and national identity The volume will appeal to scholars in discourse analysis metaphor studies media studies nationalism studies and political science Globalization, the Nation-State and the Citizen

Alan Reid, Judith Gill, Alan Sears, 2013-03-01 The past decade has seen an explosion of interest in civics and citizenship education. There have been unprecedented developments in citizenship education taking place in schools, adult education centers or in the less formally structured spaces of media images and commentary around the world. This book provides an overview of the development of civics and citizenship education policy across a range of nation states. The contributors, all widely respected scholars in the field of civics and citizenship education, provide a thorough understanding of the different ways in which citizenship has been taken up by educators, governments and the wider public. Citizenship is never a single, given, unproblematic concept but rather its meanings have to be worked through and developed in terms of the particularities of socio-political location and history. This volume promotes a wider and more grounded understanding of the ways in which citizenship education is enacted across different nation states in order to develop education for active and participatory citizenry in both local and global contexts. Identities, Nations and Politics after Communism Roger E. Kanet, 2013-10-18

This book focuses on questions of identity that have confronted the countries of Central and Eastern Europe after the collapse of the communist system that had previously provided them with an identity. This development both facilitated and necessitated a reassessment of the now independent nations' history, orientation, symbols and identity. In some cases, new states were created without a clear national identity, while in others the nation was regaining statehood but not always within borders that had an historical association with the nation concerned. The multiethnic character of the space of the former Soviet Union and its erstwhile satellites and the long historical legacy of complex relations, boundary changes, population migration and economic and social changes presented different challenges to the various nations and states concerned. The essays in this volume attempt to elucidate and understand the issues of ethnic and national identity and their relationship to the emerging statehood in various regions of the post-communist world. This study makes clear that some nation states were far better prepared to handle these issues than others and that the longer term impact of the communist experience has varied. This book was previously published as a special issue of Nationalities Papers. Minority Rights and Minority

Protection in Europe Timofey Agarin, Karl Cordell, 2016-03-24 In order to gain access to the EU, nations must be seen to implement formal instruments that protect the rights of minorities. This book examines the ways in which these tools have worked in a number of post-communist states and explores the interaction of domestic and international structures that determine the application of these policies. Using empirical examples and comparative cases, the text explores three levels of policy making: within sub-state and national politics and within international agreements, laws and policy blueprints. This enables the authors to establish how domestic policymakers negotiate various structural factors in order to interpret rights norms and implement them long enough to gain EU accession. Showing that it is necessary to focus upon the states of post-communist Europe as autonomous actors and not as mere recipients of directives and initiatives from the West, the book shows how underlying structural conditions allow domestic policy actors to talk the talk of rights protection without walking the walk of implementing minority rights legislation on their territories Force and Legitimacy in World Politics David Armstrong, Theo Farrell, Bice Maiguashca, 2005 A leading group of international authorities consider the issues surrounding the legitimization of force National Secession Philip G. Roeder, 2018-10-15 No detailed description available for National Secession Media Discourse and the Yugoslav Conflicts Pål Kolstø, 2016-04-29 In spite of the growing literature on discourse analysis the relationship of discourse to violent non violent outcomes of conflict is an under researched area This book combines theories on ethnic conflict identity construction and discourse analysis with a comprehensive and inclusive survey of the countries of the former Yugoslavia It presents an understanding of the interrelationship between words and deeds grounded through an extensively close analysis of film television and newspapers samples taken from the period This combination of ground breaking applications of theory with detailed empirical case studies will make Media Discourse and the Yugoslav Conflicts of key interest to scholars across a range of social sciences including sociology discourse analysis media conflict and peace studies as well as those concerned with ethnopolitical conflict New Russian Nationalism Pal Kolsto, 2016-03-24 Traces Russia s transforming nationalism from imperialism through ethnocentrism and migration phobia to territorial expansion This title was made Open Access by libraries from around the world through Knowledge Unlatched The Spectacular State Laura L. Adams, 2010-02-05 An analysis of how Uzbekistans cultural and political elites engaged in a program of nation building through culture particularly by staging spectacular mass events after the fall of the Soviet Union The Establishment of National Republics in Soviet Central Asia A. Haugen, 2003-10-16 After almost four centuries of expansion the Russian Empire at the beginning of the 20th century covered vast territories on the Eurasian continent and included an immensely diverse population How was the new Russian regime to deal with the complexity of its population This book examines the role of nation and nationality in the Soviet Union and analyzes the establishment of national republics in Soviet Central Asia It argues that the originally nationally minded Soviet communists with their anti nationalist attitudes came to view nation and national identity as valuable tools in state building Human Rights and International Criminal Law Borhan Uddin Khan, Md. Jahid Hossain Bhuiyan, 2022-03-16 This book examines the importance of international criminal law in promoting and defending human rights as well as its relationship with law and international politics It highlights criminal cases at the International Criminal Tribunals for the former Yugoslavia and the International Criminal Tribunals for Rwanda the International Criminal Court and the International Crimes Tribunal of Bangladesh The book considers human rights approaches to crimes from a theoretical and practical perspective analyses various crimes under international law and examines the application implementation and enforcement of international criminal law This book will serve as an important reference for students teachers scholars and lawyers specialising in international human rights international criminal law and international humanitarian law Sovereignty Suspended Rebecca Bryant, Mete Hatay, 2020-07-03 A journey into de facto state building based on ethnographic and archival research in the Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus What is de facto about the de facto state In Sovereignty Suspended this question guides Rebecca Bryant and Mete Hatay through a journey into de facto state building or the process of constructing an entity that looks like a state and acts like a state but that much of the world says does not or should not exist In international law the de facto state is one that exists in reality but remains unrecognized by other states Nevertheless such entities provide health care and social security issue identity cards and passports and interact with international aid donors De facto states hold elections conduct censuses control borders and enact fiscal policies Indeed most maintain representative offices in sovereign states and are able to unofficially communicate with officials Bryant and Hatay develop the concept of the aporetic state to describe such entities which project stateness and so seem real even as nonrecognition renders them unrealizable Sovereignty Suspended is based on more than two decades of ethnographic and archival research in one so called aporetic state the Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus TRNC It traces the process by which the island's north began to emerge as a tangible separate if unrecognized space following violent partition in 1974 Like other de facto states the TRNC looks and acts like a state appearing real to observers despite international condemnations denials of its existence and the belief of large numbers of its citizens that it will never be a real state Bryant and Hatay excavate the contradictions and paradoxes of life in an aporetic state arguing that it is only by rethinking the concept of the de facto state as a realm of practice that we will be able to understand the longevity of such states and what it means to live in them
