Reconstructions in Middle East Economic History Don Babai, 2024-10-24 This volume explores major theoretical and empirical themes in the study of the economic history of the Middle East. Despite the relative neglect of economic history in Middle Eastern studies, this book makes a case for its importance as a discipline of study. On the one hand, it shows promise in illuminating the economic base of historical trends and events; on the other, it can elucidate the historical foundations of economic continuity and change. The chapters employ an array of theoretical and methodological approaches and ultimately demonstrate how economics and history, along with political economy, complement each other in studying the Middle East. Among the substantive topics explored are the trajectories of the Arab Spring, institutional change, and economic development in the early Ottoman Empire; the destructive effects of the reordering of property rights in Iraq by the American-led occupation authority; the evolution of the political economy of the Islamic Republic of Iran; and the determinants of movements in the yields of Egyptian and Ottoman sovereign debt following political and economic crises in the 19th and early 20th centuries. The book will be of interest to scholars and students of economic history, political economy, and the Middle East.

The Political Economy of Muslim Countries Özgür Ünal Eriş, Ahmet Salih İkiz, 2018-07-27 The book looks in detail at the economic conditions of Muslim countries, specifically offering a thorough political analysis at the same time. It focuses on a broad range of economic factors and takes into consideration reports such as the World Development Index. It explores striking differences and similarities among carefully chosen Muslim countries. Mainly because of its broad use of different disciplines, it will be of interest to students of political science, economics, and history.
