Barbara Ehrenreich Modern Political Economics Yanis Varoufakis, Joseph Halevi, Nicholas Theocarakis, 2012-03-29

Once in a while the world astonishes itself. Anxious incredulity replaces intellectual torpor and a puzzled public strains its antennae in every possible direction desperately seeking explanations for the causes and nature of what just hit it. 2008 was such a moment. Not only did the financial system collapse and send the real economy into a tailspin but it also revealed the great gulf separating economics from a very real capitalism. Modern Political Economics has a single aim: To help readers make sense of how 2008 came about and what the post 2008 world has in store. The book is divided into two parts. The first part delves into every major economic theory from Aristotle to the present with a determination to discover clues of what went wrong in 2008. The main finding is that all economic theory is inherently flawed. Any system of ideas whose purpose is to describe capitalism in mathematical or engineering terms leads to inevitable logical inconsistency, an inherent error that stands between us and a decent grasp of capitalist reality. The only scientific truth about capitalism is its radical indeterminacy, a condition which makes it impossible to use science's tools, e.g. calculus and statistics, to second-guess it. The second part casts an attentive eye on the post-war era, on the breeding ground of the Crash of 2008. It distinguishes between two major post-war phases: The Global Plan (1947-1971) and the Global Minotaur (1971-2008). This dynamic new book delves into every major economic theory and maps out meticulously the trajectory that global capitalism followed from post-war almost centrally planned stability to designed disintegration in the 1970s to an intentional magnification of unsustainable imbalances in the 1980s and finally to the most spectacular privatisation of money in the 1990s and beyond. Modern Political Economics is essential reading for Economics students and anyone seeking a better understanding of the 2008 economic crash.

Encyclopedia of Political Economy Phillip O'Hara, 1999-02-04. Content Description: Includes bibliographical references and index.

Political Economy for the 21st Century Charles J. Whalen, 1995-12-26. Provides a coherent and practical alternative to conventional economics, one that draws on neoclassical and non-neoclassical insights into a coherent and practical alternative to conventional economics. The book brings together Lester Thurow, Robert Heilbroner, Alice Amsden, Barry Bluestone, and 11 other prominent economists from America and England to revitalize economic theory and policy in light of the pressing issues of the 1990s and to provide a starting point for research into the real-world challenges to be confronted in the rapidly approaching third millennium. Four main sections: Provisioning, Ethics and Gender, Firms, Human Resources, and Money, and Macroeconomics, Structural Change, and Distribution, Competitiveness, Trade, and Development include original essays by prominent economists from America and England, including Lester Thurow, Robert Heilbroner, Alice Amsden, and Barry Bluestone. The book considers the future shape of economics from an explicitly non-neoclassical perspective, synthesizes neoclassical and non-neoclassical insights into a coherent and practical alternative to standard economics, a political economy that is both capable of addressing the real-world challenges of the late 1990s and useful as a starting point for the 21st century, demonstrates how the redefinition of economics found at the core of this political economy

Incentives and Political Economy Jean-Jacques Laffont, 2000-03-30 Mainstream economics has recognized only recently the necessity to incorporate political constraints into economic analysis intended for policy advisors Incentives and Political Economy uses recent advances in contract theory to build a normative approach to constitutional design in economic environments The first part of the book remains in the tradition of benevolent constitutional design with complete contracting It treats politicians as informed supervisors and studies how the Constitution should control them in particular to avoid capture by interest groups Incentive theories for the separation of powers or systems of checks and balances are developed The second part of the book recognises the incompleteness of the constitutional contract which leaves discretion to the politicians selected by the electoral process Asymmetric information associates information rents with economic policies and the political game becomes a game of costly redistribution of those rents Professor Laffont investigates the trade offs between an inflexible constitution which leaves little discretion to politicians but sacrifices ex post efficiency and a constitution weighted towards ex post efficiency but also giving considerable discretion to politicians to pursue private agendas The final part of the book reconsiders the modeling of collusion given asymmetric information It proposes a new approach to characterizing incentives constraints for group behaviour when asymmetric information is non verifiable This provides a methodology to characterise the optimal constitutional response to activities of interest groups and to study the design of any institution in which group
