The Politics of Heritage in Indonesia Marieke Bloembergen, Martijn Eickhoff, 2020-01-16 Presents a new approach to heritage formation in Asia conveying the power of the material remains of the past The Politics of Heritage in Africa Derek R. Peterson, Kodzo Gavua, Ciraj Rassool, 2015-03-02 Heritage work has had a uniquely wide currency in Africa's politics Secure within the pages of books encoded in legal statutes encased in glass display cases and enacted in the panoply of court ritual the artefacts produced by the heritage domain have become a resource for government administration a library for traditionalists and a marketable source of value for cultural entrepreneurs The Politics of Heritage in Africa draws together disparate fields of study history archaeology linguistics the performing arts and cinema to show how the lifeways of the past were made into capital a store of authentic knowledge that political and cultural entrepreneurs could draw from This book shows African heritage to be a mode of political organisation a means by which the relics of the past are shored up reconstructed and revalued as commodities as tradition as morality or as patrimony The Politics of World Heritage David Harrison, Michael Hitchcock, 2005-01-01 This collection of papers discuss World Trade Law and focus on the contested nature of World Heritage at sites as diverse as The Netherlands Ellis Island USA post colonial Mesoamerica Cambodia Fiji Kyrgyzstan and Vietnam In addition eight research notes explore heritage interpretation in the USA Lebanon Peru Indonesia Singapore Tasmania and India The Politics of Heritage Tourism in China Xiaobo Su, Peggy Teo, 2009-09-11 The book unravels the politics surrounding the hegemonic project of tourism development through the example of Lijiang Ancient Town a mature destination that has been used by the Chinese state as exemplary policy making The authors examine the dialectical relationships between global and domestic capital the state tourists and locals as they collude collaborate and contest one another to ready Lijiang for tourist consumption A New Politics of Heritage Reconstruction in Afghanistan Constance Wyndham, 2023-12-22 A New Politics of Heritage Reconstruction in Afghanistan investigates the politics of cultural heritage preservation in Afghanistan between 2008 and 2015 Based on several periods of ethnographic fieldwork and the author's direct employment on several internationally sponsored heritage projects this book studies the new and complex intersections between cultural heritage and politics in Afghanistan Wyndham argues that a particular configuration of heritage and politics has emerged after the destruction of the Buddhas at Bamyān and demonstrates how the characteristics of this post Bamyān heritage paradigm are revealed through a number of case studies of internationally sponsored heritage work. These case studies reveal how politics and heritage are currently configured across a diverse range of governments, state and non-state actors, NGOs, individuals, and forms of expertise, and why such intersections matter. The book responds to a call from across the discipline of Heritage Studies to look more closely at the relationships between heritage, power, and politics. A New Politics of Heritage: Reconstruction in Afghanistan provides a fascinating case study on the intersection of heritage and politics that will be of interest to students and scholars of heritage as well as to professionals working on heritage preservation both within and outside of government.

The Politics of Heritage from Madras to Chennai Mary E. Hancock, 2008-10-29 In this anthropological history Mary E. Hancock examines the politics of public memory in the southern Indian city of Chennai. Once a colonial port, Chennai is now poised to become a center for India's new economy of information technology, export processing, and back office services. State and local governments promote tourism and a heritage-conscious cityscape to make Chennai a recognizable brand among investment and travel destinations. Using a range of textual, visual, architectural, and ethnographic sources, Hancock grapples with the question of how people in Chennai remember and represent their past, considering the political and economic contexts and implications of those memory practices. Working from specific sites, including a historic district created around an ancient Hindu temple, a living history museum, neo-traditional and vernacular architecture, and political memorials, Hancock examines the spatialization of memory under the conditions of neoliberalism.

The Politics of World Heritage Elif Kalaycioglu, 2025-02-24 What does it take to construct humanity's cultural history, and what do these efforts produce in the world? In The Politics of World Heritage, Elif Kalaycioglu analyzes UNESCO's flagship regime, which seeks to curate a cultural history of humanity attached to outstanding universal value and tethered to goals of peace and solidarity. Kalaycioglu's analysis tracks that construction across fifty years of the regime and maps it onto three distinct visions of humanity: as a rarified transhistorical subject, as a diverse subject, and as a subject that is adequately represented by the community of nation-states. In each of these constructions, experts and states take up the cultural and historical resources that circulate within the regime to narrate a humanity into being and position themselves as its adjudicators, contributors, and custodians. Each construction comes with remainders: that is, parts of humanity excluded from this cultural history and internal hierarchies between those at its center and others that remain on the margins. These hierarchies challenge the aspiration to peace and solidarity. While these aspirations have changed across the three iterations of humanity, across the different forms the regime's structures and participants have been ill-equipped and hesitant to engage with the underbellies of humanity towards robust visions of peace and solidarity. In contrast to this general tendency, Kalaycioglu excavates from select nomination files nested constructions of humanity that hold onto the globality and unevenness of its political conditions and presents the possibility of robust visions of peace and solidarity and humanity's different futures The Routledge International Handbook of Heritage and Politics Gönül Bozoğlu, Gary Campbell, Laurajane Smith, Christopher Whitehead, 2024-04-02 The Routledge International Handbook of Heritage and Politics surveys the intersection of heritage and politics today and helps elucidate the political implications of heritage practices. It explicitly addresses the political and analyses tensions and struggles over the distribution of power. Including contributions from early career scholars and more established researchers, the Handbook provides global and interdisciplinary perspectives on the political nature, significance and consequence of heritage and the various practices of management and interpretation. Taking a broad view of heritage which includes not just tangible and intangible phenomena but the ways in which people and societies live with, embody, experience, value and use the past, the volume provides a critical survey of political tensions over heritage in diverse social and cultural contexts. Chapters within the book consider topics such as neoliberal dynamics, terror and mobilisations of fear and hatred, old and new nationalisms, public policy, recognition, denials, migration and refugeeism, crises, colonial and decolonial practice, communities, self and personhood, as well as international relations, geopolitics, soft power and cooperation to address global problems. The Routledge International Handbook of Heritage and Politics makes an intervention into the theoretical debate about the nature and role of heritage as a political resource. It is essential reading for academics and students working in heritage studies, museum studies, politics, memory studies, public history, geography, urban studies and tourism Archaeological Theory and the Politics of Cultural Heritage Laurajane Smith, 2004 This is a much needed survey of how relationships between indigenous peoples and the archaeological establishment have got into difficulties and a pointer towards how things could move forward Politics, Policy and the Discourses of Heritage in Britain E. Waterton, 2010-10-27 This book offers a critique of the dominant conceptualization of heritage found in policy which tends to privilege the white middle and upper classes. Using Britain as an illustration, Waterton explores how and why recent policies continue to lean towards the predictable melding of cultural diversity with tendencies of assimilation The Politics of Post-Conflict Heritage Reconstruction Nour A. Munawar, Gertjan Plets, 2025-07-14 This edited volume explores the politics and semantics of heritage rehabilitation practices such as conservation, archaeological excavation, memorialization and rebuilding programs. Recent conflicts in the Arab region and Ukraine have demonstrated how heritage is an intrinsic part of contemporary warfare. However, the politicization of heritage reconstruction after conflict receives less attention. While there is consensus on the benefits of reconstruction, a growing number of scholars are now exploring the political agendas encoded in reconstruction programs and their long-term negative effects on societal recovery. Faced with a contemporary heritage reconstruction wave in the Arab region but also in post-conflict zones like West Africa and Ukraine, it is important we are aware of the politicking encoded in many heritage aid programs. Through a series of co-authored studies by experts from different disciplines, this book aims to identify parameters, practices and institutional organizations that either promote or undermine long-term societal resilience. By combining insights from archaeology anthropology conflict and history this book will explore how heritage reconstructions help to re shape national and ethno religious identities and multi layered memories of affected communities Cultural Heritage Politics in China Tami Blumenfield, Helaine Silverman, 2013-05-14 This volume explores China's cultural heritage ideology and policies from three interrelated perspectives the State and World Heritage tourism cultural heritage tourism at undesignated sites and the cultural politics of museums and collections Something of a cultural heritage designation craze is happening in China This is new within even the last five to ten years Officials at many levels now see heritage preservation as a means for commoditizing their regions They are devoting new resources and attention to national and international heritage designations Thus addressing cultural heritage politics in a nation dedicated to designation is an important project particularly in the context of a rapidly growing economy This volume is also important because it addresses a very wide range of cultural heritage providing an excellent sample of case studies historic vernacular urban environments ethnic tourism scenic tourism pilgrimage as tourism tourism and economic development museums border heritage underwater remains and the actual governance and management of the sites This volume is an outstanding introduction to cultural heritage issues in China while contributing to Chinese studies for those with greater knowledge of the area Arts, Heritage and Performative Politics Laima Nomeikaite, Michael Haldrup, 2025-08-11 This pioneering book analyzes the intersection of arts heritage and performative politics challenging traditional distinctions between these disciplines Highlighting the value of art based approaches to heritage research it outlines diverse artistic practices to expand the boundaries of the field Monumental Ambivalence Lisa C. Breglia, 2009-12-03 From ancient Maya cities in Mexico and Central America to the Taj Mahal in India cultural heritage sites around the world are being drawn into the wave of privatization that has already swept through such economic sectors as telecommunications transportation and utilities As nation states decide they can no longer afford to maintain cultural properties or find it economically advantageous not to do so in the globalizing economy private actors are stepping in to excavate conserve interpret and represent archaeological and historical sites But what are the ramifications when a multinational corporation or even an indigenous village owns a piece of national patrimony which holds cultural and perhaps sacred meaning for all the country's people as well as for visitors from the rest of the world In this ambitious book Lisa Breglia investigates heritage as an arena in which a variety of private and public actors compete for the right to benefit economically and otherwise from controlling cultural patrimony She presents ethnographic case studies of two archaeological sites in the Yucatán Peninsula Chichén Itz and Chunchucmil and their surrounding modern communities to demonstrate how indigenous landholders foreign archaeologists and the Mexican state use heritage properties to position themselves as legitimate heirs and beneficiaries of Mexican national patrimony Breglia's research masterfully describes the monumental ambivalence that results when local residents excavation laborers site managers and state agencies all enact their claims to cultural patrimony Her findings make it clear that informal and partial privatizations which go on quietly and continually are as real a threat to a nation's heritage as the prospect of fast food restaurants and shopping centers in the ruins of a sacred site

Tolia-Kelly, Emma Waterton, Steve Watson, 2016-07-01 Heritage and its economies are driven by affective politics and consolidated through emotions such as pride awe joy and pain In the humanities and social sciences there is a widespread acknowledgement of the limits not only of language and subjectivity but also of visibility and representation Social scientists particularly within cultural geography and cultural studies have recently attempted to define and understand that which is more than representational through the development of theories of affect assemblage post-humanism and actor network theory to name a few While there have been some recent attempts to draw these lines of thinking more forcefully into the field of heritage studies this book focuses for the first time on relating heritage with the politics of affect The volume argues that our engagements with heritage are almost entirely figured through the politics of affective registers such as pain loss joy nostalgia pleasure belonging or anger It brings together a number of contributions that collectively and with critical acuity question how researchers working in the field of heritage might begin to discover and describe affective experiences especially those that are shaped and expressed in moments and spaces that can be at times intensely personal intimately shared and ultimately social It explores current theoretical advances that enable heritage to be affected released from conventional understandings of both heritage as objects and objects as representations by opening it up to a range of new meanings emergent and formed in moments of encounter Whilst representational understandings of heritage are by no means made redundant through this agenda they are destabilized and can thus be judged anew in light of these developments Each chapter offers a novel and provocative contribution provided by an interdisciplinary team of researchers who are thinking theoretically about affect through landscapes practices of commemoration visitor experience site interpretation and other heritage work Heritage Politics in China Yujie Zhu, Christina Maags, 2020-01-02 Heritage Politics in China The Power of the Past studies the impact of heritage policies and discourses on the Chinese state and Chinese society It sheds light on the way Chinese heritage policies have transformed the narratives and cultural practices of the past to serve the interests of the present As well as reinforcing a collective social identity heritage in China has served as an instrument of governance and regulation at home and a tool to generate soft power abroad Drawing on a critical analysis of heritage policies and laws empirical case studies and interviews with policymakers practitioners and local communities the authors offer a comprehensive perspective on the role that cultural heritage plays in Chinese politics and policy They argue that heritage making appropriates international national and local values thereby transforming it into a public good suitable for commercial exploitation By framing heritage as a site of cooperation contestation and negotiation this book contributes to our understanding of the complex nature of heritage in the rapidly shifting landscape of contemporary China Heritage Politics in China The Power of the Past is essential reading for academics researchers and students in the fields of heritage studies cultural studies Asian studies anthropology tourism and politics Heritage, Culture, and Politics in the Postcolony Daniel Alan Herwitz, 2012 The postcolonial state like its European predecessor of the 18th and 19th centuries deploys heritage institutions and instruments museums courts of law and universities to empower itself with unity longevity exaltation of value origin and destiny This book reveals the febrile pitch at which heritage is staked by examining situations in South Africa India and the US to capture its perfect embodiment of the struggle to seize culture and society at moments of profound social change
