Margins Of Insecurity Minorities And International Security:

Margins of Insecurity Sam C. Nolutshungu, 1996 A number of crises since the end of the Cold War have demonstrated the insecurity of ordinary people in circumstances where states are either unable to provide protection or are themselves the principle sources of violence Public opinion has provoked international politicians to recognise a problem in which they should intervene but it is rare for effective policies to be implemented Emerging from a series of workshops on the International Security of Marginal Populations the essays seek solutions which go beyond the traditional emphasis on the interests of the state and give due weight to the needs of minority populations SAM C NOLUTSHUNGU was Professor of Political Science in the Frederick Douglass Institute of African and African American studies at the University of Rochester Contributors DAVID LAITIN KIM HOPPER ZOLTAN BARANY JONATHAN BOYARIN REMY LEVEAU ALFRED DARNELL CHARLES R HALE ANTHONY ASIWAJU SAM NOLUTSHUNGU Security and Sustainable Development in Myanmar

Helen James, 2006-09-27 Helen James considers security in Myanmar Burma She uses the ideas put forward in the United Nations Development Programme's 1994 report of human as opposed to state and security going on to argue that freedom from want and freedom from fear of the regime are in fact mutually supportive ideas and that the security of the people and the security of the state are in fact in a symbiotic relationship with each other Presenting new and significant information of the security concept of Myanmar Burma James original work considers economic development health education environmental issues the drugs trade human rights minority peoples and political social and economic reforms arguing that improved governance the development of civil society and economic development would both strengthen the state and ensure the security and well being of its citizens I William Zartman: A Pioneer in Conflict Management and Area Studies

I. William Zartman, 2019-05-13 The work draws on wide ranging area analysis to develop inductively new concepts and approaches for further use in explanation and application Divided into two parts it begins with analysis of revolution and socio political unrest followed by models of ethnic conflict and elite circulation in developing societies It presents the cultural dialectic present in Islam It then lays out the patterns of mediation and negotiation in managing and resolving conflict culminating with an analysis of intractables Part two on governance lays out the nature of world order cooperation and conciliation It then turns to the challenges of identity ideology and interest with some specific attention to the nature of borders and borderlands and focuses on governance as conflict management and as negotiation This book encompasses a new analysis of a neglected part of International Relation the prevention and management of conflict The book confronts sources and patterns of contentious politics with systems and methods of governance The book lays out a comprehensive conceptualization of the process of conflict management and negotiation including questions of when as well as how The African Diaspora Toyin Falola, 2013 The African diaspora is arguably the most important event in modern African history From the fifteenth century to the present millions of Africans have been dispersed many of them forcibly others driven by economic need or political persecution to other continents creating large communities with African origins living outside their native lands. The majority of these communities are in North America. This historic displacement has meant that Africans are irrevocably connected to economic and political developments in the West and globally. Among the known legacies of the diaspora are slavery, colonialism, racism, poverty, and underdevelopment, yet the ways in which these same factors worked to spur the scattering of Africans are not fully understood by those who were part of this migration or by scholars, historians, and policymakers. In this definitive study of the diaspora in North America, Toyin Falola offers a causal history of the western dispersion of Africans and its effects on the modern world. Reengaging old and familiar debates and framing new ones that enrich the discourse surrounding Africa, Falola isolates the thread running nearly six centuries that connects the history of slavery, the transatlantic slave trade, and current migrations. A boon to scholars and policymakers and accessible to the general reader, the book explores diverse narratives of migration and shows that the cultures that migrated from Africa to the Americas have the capacity to unite and create a new pan-Africanist movement within the globalized world. Toyin Falola is the Jacob and Frances Sanger Mossiker Chair in the Humanities and University Distinguished Teaching Professor at the University of Texas at Austin. He is the 2011 recipient of the Distinguished Africanist Award from the African Studies Association and serves as the vice president of the International Scientific Committee of the UNESCO Slave Route Project. His previous books published by the University of Rochester Press include The Power of African Cultures and Nationalism and African Intellectuals.

Those Who Stayed, 1922 Angelos Dalachanis, Alexis Rappas, 2025-09-30. The year 1922 marks a major turning point in Eastern Mediterranean history with the abolition of the Ottoman Sultanate concluding a long period of upheaval known as the Eastern Question. As the empire gave way to European colonization and the nation-state model, its once multicultural societies were homogenized through violence, population transfers, and treaties. The liberal principle of national self-determination often led to devastating human costs as populations were either massacred, forcibly exchanged, or reduced to minorities within new political entities. While scholarship has thoroughly documented the demographic changes that accompanied the post-Ottoman transition, this volume focuses on a less explored dimension: the agency of those labeled as minorities. It examines how these communities navigated their new reality within emerging nation-states or League of Nations mandates. Adopting a broad and situational understanding of minority, it includes both legally defined groups and those marginalized in practice, such as Muslims in Western Thrace, Christians in Istanbul, Armenians in Jerusalem, Muslims in Serbia, and Jews in Salonica. The volume uses diverse methodologies: archival research, network analysis, microhistory, and translocal perspectives to investigate the lived experiences of entrenched minorities. It offers new insights into both lesser-known and familiar minority groups while engaging critically with existing literature. By emphasizing these groups' strategies and resilience, the volume challenges narratives dominated by violence and nostalgia, offering a more nuanced understanding of post-1922 Eastern Mediterranean history. It will appeal not only to scholars of minority studies but to anyone interested in the region's modern past Controlling Frontiers Elspeth Guild, 2017-05-15 Focusing in particular on the European borders this volume brings together an interdisciplinary group of academics to consider questions of immigration and the free movement of people linking control within the state to the role of the police and internal security The contributors all take as the point of departure the significance of European governmentality within the Foucauldian meaning as opposed to the European governance perspective which is already well represented in the literature They discuss the relation between control of borders introduction of biometrics and freedom The book makes available in English an analysis of an important and politically highly charged field from a major French critical perspective It draws on different disciplines including law politics international relations and philosophy War, Hunger, and Displacement: E. Wayne Nafziger, Frances Stewart, Raimo Väyrynen, 2000-10-19 Since the end of the cold war the number of civil wars in developing countries has escalated to the point where they are the most significant source of human suffering in the world today Although there are many political analyses of these emergencies this two volume work is the first comprehensive study of the economic social and political roots of humanitarian emergencies identifying early measures to prevent such disasters Nafziger Stewart and Väyrynen draw on a wide range of specialists on the political economy of war and on major conflicts to show the causes of conflict The first volume provides a general overview of the nature and causes of the emergencies including economic political and environmental factors The second volume provides detailed case studies of thirteen conflicts including Rwanda Burundi the Congo Afghanistan and the Caucasus that originated in the weakness of the state or where economic factors predominate The volumes emphasize the significance of protracted economic stagnation and decline high and increasing inequality government exclusion of distinct social groups state failure and predatory rule They debunk beliefs recurrent in the literature that emergencies are the result of deteriorating environmental conditions structural adjustment and deep seated ethnic animosity By analysing the causes and prevention of war and humanitarian emergencies in developing countries this work outlines a less costly alternative to the present strategy of the world community of spending millions of dollars annually to provide mediation relief and rehabilitation after the conflict occurs The Frontiers of Europe Malcolm Anderson, Eberhard Bort, 1998-01-01 The political geography of Europe and consequentially the issues confronting the European Union have changed radically since 1989 Understanding the complex nature of international frontiers in Europe is essential in contemporary politics European Integration and the Postmodern Condition Peter Van Ham, 2013-02-01 This is the first book to look at the process of European integration by drawing on both established and new trends in postmodern thinking and analysis The book asks how we can study the process of European integration in the current climate and maps out the central elements of the academic debate dealing with the future of integration and Europe in general The author stimulates fresh readings of the European issue encouraging the development of new analytical horizons This is a significant cutting edge contribution to debates in politics comparative politics and European studies

Fragments of Democracy Gavin Williams, 2003 Originally presented as a lecture this occasional paper argues that definitions of democracy are incomplete and their meanings dependent on their historical context

Frontiers of the European Union M. Anderson, E. Bort, 2001-03-30 Based on original research this book is a unique attempt at a general assessment of EU frontiers Internal frontiers are losing some of their key functions but there are many responses to the new situation as a case study of French frontiers abundantly illustrates An examination of the EU external frontier shows that the EU is acquiring some state like features but the eastern frontier provides abundant evidence of the external frontier's complexity The authors conclude that the increasing openness of national frontiers will continue but their effective abolition whether by European integration or through globalization is improbable

Eastern Europe Sabrina P. Ramet, 1998 Eastern Europe addresses the emergence of uncertain pluralism in the region following the disintegration of the communist regimes in 1989 Taking a broad historical approach the volume considers issues and challenges that have marked Eastern Europe from 1939 through World War II and the era of socialism up to the present Eight comprehensive country studies are augmented by detailed assessments of economic developments security issues religious currents cultural policies and gender relations in the region

Women and Gender in Central and Eastern Europe, Russia, and Eurasia Mary Zirin, Irina Livezeanu, Christine D. Manufacturing Terrorism in Africa Mohamed Natheem Hendricks, 2020-07-03 This book uses Securitisation Theory to explore how Muslims have been constructed as a security issue in Africa after the 9 11 attacks in the United States These attacks became the rationale for the US's Global War on Terror GWOT The centrality of Africa as an arena to execute the GWOT is the focus of this book This book explores particularly how western centred security discourses around Muslims has permeated South African security discourse in the post apartheid period It claims that the popular press and the local think tank community were critical knowledge sites that imported rather than interrogated debates which have underpinned policy initiatives such as the GWOT Such theorisation

seems contrary to the original architects of securitisation theory who maintain that issues become security concerns when institutional voices declare these as such. However, this book confirms that non-institutional voices have securitised the African Muslims by equating them with terrorism. This book illustrates that such securitisation reproduces partisan knowledge that promote Western interests. Raimo Väyrynen: A Pioneer in International Relations, Scholarship and Policy-Making Raimo Väyrynen, 2023-01-03. This book provides a broad overview of Professor Raimo Väyrynen's academic work, his role in international research organizations and his contributions to policy debates. It offers an interesting review of important political issues during the time span of half a century from disarmament in Europe to the changing relationship between state sovereignty and transnational forces. Väyrynen has dealt with the changing agenda of peace and international relations, security and the arms race and the world economy. This book provides comprehensive analyses of the regional and systemic structure of international relations with the emphasis on conflicts and warfare between nations. It argues that while states, even smaller ones, still matter, transnational issues are increasingly important. Taking a historical perspective, the articles suggest that large-scale violence and arms races have been recurrent and cyclical phenomena in international relations. These events reflect the deep-seated inequalities in the political and economic systems which moreover vary considerably between regions. The publication is important reading for any researcher as well as students, policy makers and the science-oriented public at large. It traces the changing agenda of international relations from disarmament and the world economy to the changing relationship between state sovereignty and transnational forces. It provides analyses of the regional and systemic structure in international relations with the emphasis on conflicts and warfare. It argues that large-scale violence and the arms race have been recurrent and cyclical phenomena in international relations. It reviews important political issues from peace and conflict in Europe to the changing power relationship in the world. International Relations Theory and the Politics of European Integration Morten Kelstrup, Michael Williams, 2006-12-05. International Relations Theory and the Politics of European Integration focuses on the roles of community power and security within the European Union. It features contributions from highly respected international scholars and covers subjects such as sovereignty and European integration, the EU and the politics of migration, the internationalisation of military security, the EU as a security actor, money, finance and power, the quest for legitimacy with regards to EU enlargement. Nordic Journal of African Studies, 2001. Security and Politics in South Africa Peter C. J. Vale, 2003. Exploring how the region is changing today as transnational solidarity and a single regional economy remove the distinctions between national and international politics, he asks whether South African domination can finally be overcome and considers what sort of cosmopolitan political arrangement will be appropriate for southern Africa in the new century. BOOK JACKET Governance and Border Security in Africa Celestine Oyom Bassey, Oshita O. Oshita, 2010. The need therefore for effective governance through border security regimes arises from the intractable challenges of conflict management as a core objective of multilateral institutions and non-governmental agencies.
