Ansell,1995 Marine Mammals: the Evolving Human Factor Giuseppe Notarbartolo di Sciara,Bernd Würsig,2022-06-08 The seventh volume in the series Ethology and Behavioral Ecology of Marine Mammals describes aspects of the often complex relationship between humans and marine mammals From a primeval condition of occasional predators during the last century humans have become a major factor negatively affecting the status of most marine mammals through over hunting habitat encroachment and environmental degradation This has led to the extirpation of many marine mammal populations and even to the extinction of species However in parallel to this destructive drive since antiquity humanity has been influenced by a strong fascination for marine mammals which contributes today to an increased human appreciation of the natural world admixed with widespread concern for its degrading condition The special status occupied by marine mammals in human imagination and affection stands in stark contrast with the current predicament of many populations still threatened by the doings of Homo sapiens a condition emblematic of the relationship of humanity with nature and key to understanding where humanity is heading The American News Trade Journal ,1924 Railway and Marine News ,1914 Securitizing Marine Protected Areas Elizabeth M. uncertainty and the necessity of well designed and precautionary science advisory processes While the ecological contribution of MPAs is paramount social issues and geopolitical considerations are often less obvious in the discourse underpinning MPAs and the resulting tensions can undermine long term conservation objectives By applying the three lenses of geopolitics environmental justice and science this book provides key insights to help the international community moving past the 2030 biodiversity targets and beyond towards a future of meaningful equitable and effective conservation approaches This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of biodiversity conservation marine studies political geography environmental governance and science policy studies It will also be of interest to marine conservation governance professionals and policymakers
