Risk Benefit Analysis In Water Resources Planning And Management:

Risk/Benefit Analysis in Water Resources Planning and Management Yacov Haimes, 2013-06-29 Ronald M North President Universities Council on Water Resources People sense intuitively that the world in which we live is not free of risk Every decision every action even the refusal to either act or decide involves some element of risk Perhaps because we accept relatively low levels of risk in our daily activities we tend to minimize the existence of risk and thereby fail to include risk assessment in those decisions and actions which could be improved through a risk assessment process However our casual approach to risk assessment seems to stem largely from the difficulties inherent in measuring risk rather than from any lack of cognizance of the existence of risk This conclusion is evidenced by the many statements in official documents relating to planning and evaluation which suggest that risk assessments should be conducted but do not provide the mechanism for such assessments nor do they encourage their consideration in the decision making process This conference on Risk Benefit Analysis in Water Resources Planning and Management is notable because it attempts to identify and evaluate the mechanisms available for risk assessment which might be useful in water resources planning and management efforts These proceedings bring together the thoughts of professional persons who have struggled with the problems of risk assessment and who have contributed to the refinement of both theoretical and pragmatic solutions for the improvement of risk assessment processes

Stormwater Runoff and Receiving Systems Edwin Herricks, 1995-07-25 The primary focus of stormwater and urban runoff research during the past twenty five years has been on the physical description and the chemical quality assessment of runoff events and the design and implementation of the best management practices to control these events There is a definite need for more effective integration of receiving system issues in the management and regulation of stormwater runoff This book successfully brings together a diverse group of environmental specialists to address the issues surrounding the assessment management and control of stormwater and more specifically urban runoff from a receiving system perspective The book's emphasis on the receiving system is timely coming during a period when the U S Environmental Protection Agency is placing increasing emphasis on wet weather conditions through a new permit program for stormwater runoff and a policy on combined sewer overflows Stormwater Runoff and Receiving Systems covers biocriteria assessment of receiving water integrity and integrated watershed analysis all aspects of current water quality management programs for both industrial and municipal areas More than thirty chapters are divided into six sections offering in depth discussions on various issues relating to stormwater urban runoff and receiving systems impacts uncertainty and risk study design impact mitigation and issues analysis Anyone who deals with regulatory programs requiring stormwater effect assessment including more than sampling and analysis of chemical water quality parameters in effluents will find this reference particularly useful Selected Water Resources Abstracts ,1988 Proceedings R. William De Vore,1983 New Directions in Water Resources Planning for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers National Research Council,Division on Earth and Life Studies,Commission on Geosciences, Environment and Resources,Committee to Assess the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Water Resources Project Planning Procedures,1999-04-29 The U S Army Corps of Engineers has long been one of the federal government s key agencies in planning the uses of the nation s waterways and water resources Though responsible for a range of water related programs the Corps s two traditional programs have been flood damage reduction and navigation enhancement The water resource needs of the nation however have for decades been shifting away from engineered control of watersheds toward restoration of ecosystem services and natural hydrologic variability In response to these shifting needs legislation was enacted in 1990 which initiated the Corps s involvement in ecological restoration which is now on par with the Corps s traditional flood damage reduction and navigation roles This book provides an analysis of the Corps s efforts in ecological restoration and provides broader recommendations on how the corps might streamline their planning process It also assesses the impacts of federal legislation on the Corps planning and projects and provides recommendations on how relevant federal policies might be altered in order to improve Corps planning Another important shift affecting the Corps has been federal cost sharing arrangements enacted in 1986 mandating greater financial participation in Corps water projects by local co sponsors The book describes how this has affected the Corps sponsor relationship and comments upon how each group must adjust to new planning and political realities Multiojective Decision Making Vira Chankong,Yacov Y Haimes,2008-02-04 This first rate text explores the theory and methodology of systems engineering in evaluating alternative courses of action and associated decision making policies It treats criteria as multidimensional rather than scalar in the development of normative theories These contribute to a behavioral theory of decision making and provide guidance for exercising judgment An introductory discussion of the systemic approach to judgment and decision is followed by explorations of psychological value measurements utility classical decision analysis and vector optimization theory The second section chiefly deals with methods of assessing and evaluating alternatives including both noninteractive and interactive methods A taxonomy and a comparative evaluation of methods conclude the text Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis ,1977-07 Decision Making with Multiple Objectives Yacov Y. Haimes, Vira Chankong, 2012-12-06 The Sixth International Multiple Criteria Decision Making MCDM Conference is one of a biennial series that serve as a forum for exchange of the latest information and new developments in this rapidly growing field. Participants are carefully chosen from among scholars and practitioners so that widely ranging perspectives and disciplines are represented; this insures the dissemination of valuable new knowledge to those scholars, policy makers and industrial analysts who will best utilize and share it both in developed and in third world countries. The Sixth International MCDM Conference was held from June 4 to 8 1984 at Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. The Conference program reflects the evolution of the field from infancy through adolescence to maturity as marked by the progression from single objective modeling and optimization to multiple objective decision making. Because the theoreticians, practitioners and students who attend these MCDM conferences necessarily have different needs and expectations, the program now offers fewer monologues and more panels, overview papers and tutorial sessions focusing on case studies and other practical experiences.

The Analysis of Actual Versus Perceived Risks V.T. Covello, W. Gary Flamm, Joseph V. Rodricks, Robert G. Tardiff, 2012-12-06 In 1980 a group of scientists from national laboratories, universities and other research organizations gathered informally in a series of meetings to consider the state of research on risks to health, safety and the environment. Each scientist had conducted research on the subject. All felt that the traditional disciplines and professional societies to which they belonged were neither adequate nor appropriate for addressing the extraordinarily complex problems of assessing the risks inherent in modern society. The consensus of the group was that a new society was needed to address these problems in a scientific and objective way. From these initial meetings the Society for Risk Analysis was formed. The major aims of the Society for Risk Analysis as stated in its constitution are to promote knowledge and understanding of risk analysis techniques and their applications; to promote communication and interaction among those engaged in risk analysis; and to disseminate risk analysis information and promote the advancement of all aspects of risk analysis. Members of the Society are drawn from a variety of disciplines including the health sciences, engineering, the physical sciences, the humanities and the behavioral and social sciences. An important function of the Society is the annual meeting at which various aspects of risk analysis are discussed. The first annual meeting represented by this volume was the International Workshop on the Analysis of Actual vs Risk-based Decision Making in Water Resources VIII Yacov Y. Haimes, David A. Moser, Eugene Z. Stakhiv, 1998. Comprises edited papers from the proceedings of the Eighth Engineering Foundation Conference held in Santa Barbara, California on October 12-17 1997. This work discusses legislative initiatives and risk assessment, climate change, El Niño maintenance and rehabilitation, reliability of physical infrastructure and the risk of extreme events.
