The Unification of German Education Val Dean Rust, Diane Rust, 1995 This study of the integration of East and West German education following the collapse of the German Democratic Republic in 1989 focuses on policy formation and implementation during this period of great social and political turbulence It is the result of a research project undertaken shortly after the unification The authors lived in East Germany for a full year looking carefully at individual schools vocational training centers teacher colleges and universities They asked macro analytic questions What are the conditions in which educational policy is successfully formulated How is this educational policy implemented What are the consequences of this policy From the start West Germany demanded a complete dismantling of the educational system in the former German Democratic Republic West German political leaders insisted as a condition of unification that all important agreements concerning education made by the GDR states be accepted by the new states The authors research shows that even before the unification East Germans had already opted for a system consistent with West German education law However the West Germans disregarded these changes and imposed their own version of reform on East Germany The study reveals that in this period of confusion the East Germans did not fully

The Institutions of Education William K. Cummings,2003-01-01 At many times in educational history including the past decade there are reports of crisis and cries for reform The successes of foreign competitors are pointed to new moneys are sought and laws passed Occasionally these reform efforts make a difference Just as often they end up as mere rhetoric and the educational indicators continue to slide Education is a dynamic sector with its ups and downs To understand these ups and downs and to gain a clearer grasp of the essentials of reform we need to look deeply into the origins and development of successful and failed reforms This book seeks to answer that need To do so it stresses two important themes First the essence of educational practice lies in the institutionalised ideals and norms of an educational system not in how much is spent on education or how many people are involved in education Second while many contemporary observers of education tend to think that sound educational practice is pretty much the same around the world this book argues that these are at least six distinctive educational InstitutionS currently in place in the modern world each with its unique strengths and weaknesses Each also has its own cycle of reform and renewal So the landscape of educational reform is much broader than most observers acknowledge The book is unique in highlighting the principle characteristics of Japanese education alongside those of Soviet Russia and the core educational systems of Western Europe and North America While the account focuses on national differences the analysis actually begins from the ground up looking at particular schools that emerged early in the six modernising experiences These early schools are described here as representative schools for the practices they initiated have had a profound influence on the direction of subsequent reforms in their respective national settings

Politics, Identity and Education in Central Asia Pınar Akçalı,Cennet Engin-Demir,2013 Focusing on the areas of politics identity and education this book looks at some of the most pressing and challenging issues that Kyrgyzstan faces in the post Soviet era It argues that Kyrgyzstan is challenged with oscillations between the old and the new on the one hand and domestic and international on the other The book analyses the process of post Soviet transition in today s Kyrgyzstan by focusing on the political elites some of the major identity problems and educational issues It discusses how Kyrgyzstan s first president in the post Soviet era had already been an exceptional leader even prior to the collapse of the Soviet Union in terms of his democratic and liberal tendencies The book goes on to look at how identity is a major factor in the country shaped to a large extent by genealogical factors and patron client mechanisms on the one hand and religious considerations on the other Finally it highlights how education has been perceived as a very influential agent of socialization that develops not only literacy and other skills but also common attitudes and values that are considered essential to any society By evaluating these three areas the book argues that Kyrgyzstan cannot isolate itself from the demands priorities and pressures of international actors which sometimes are in conflict with the country s domestic conditions It is of interest to students and scholars of Asian Studies Politics and International Relations
