Maurice Blanchot

Sade Et Restif De La Bretonne:

Sade et Restif de la Bretonne Maurice Blanchot, 1986-01-01 , The Marquis de Sade; with a Postscript on Restif de la Bretonne Otto Flake, 1931 Seducing the Eighteenth-Century French Reader Paul J. Young, 2016-12-05

As he demonstrates that narratives of seduction function as a master plot for French literature in the eighteenth century Paul Young argues that the prevalence of this trope was a reaction to a dominant cultural discourse that coded the novel and the new practice of solitary reading as dangerous seductive practices. Situating his study in the context of paintings, educational manuals and criticism that caution against the act of reading, Young considers both canonical and lesser known works by authors that include Rousseau, Sade, Bastide, Laclos, Crillon, and the writers of two widely read libertine novels. How these authors responded to a cultural climate that viewed literature and especially the novel as seductive sheds light on the perils and pleasures of authorship, the ways in which texts interact with the larger cultural discourse, and what eighteenth century texts tell us about the dangers of reading or writing. Ultimately, Young argues, the seduction not in the text but by the text raises questions about the nature of pleasure in eighteenth century French literature and culture.

Sade's Sensibilities Kate Parker, Norbert Schlipa, 2014-11-20. Sade's Sensibilities tells a new story of one of the most enduring and controversial figures in European literature. Blending ideas about subjectivity, identity and natural philosophy with politics and pornography, D A F de Sade has fascinated writers and readers for two hundred years, and his materialist account of the human condition has been widely influential in post-structuralism, nihilism and feminism. This new collection of essays considers Sade's Enlightenment legacy both within and beyond the narratives of radicalism and aberration that have historically marked the study of his oeuvre. From different points of view, these essays argue that Sade engaged with and influenced traditional Enlightenment paradigms, particularly those related to sensibility, subjectivity and philosophy, as much as he resisted them. They thus recover a Sade more relevant even foundational to our twenty-first century understanding of modernity, selfhood and community. In Sade's Sensibilities, Sade is no longer a solitary peripheral radical but an Enlightenment philosopher in his own right.

Blanchot Leslie Hill, 2002-01-04. Blanchot provides a compelling insight into one of the key figures in the development of postmodern thought. Although Blanchot's work is characterised by a fragmentary and complex style, Leslie Hill introduces clearly and accessibly the key themes in his work. He shows how Blanchot questions the very existence of philosophy and literature and how we may distinguish between them, stresses the importance of his political writings and the relationship between writing and history that characterised Blanchot's later work, and considers the relationship between Blanchot and key figures such as Emmanuel Levinas and Georges Bataille, and how this impacted on his work. Placing Blanchot at the centre stage of writing in the twentieth century, Blanchot also sheds new light on Blanchot's political activities before and after the Second World War. This accessible introduction to Blanchot's thought also includes one of the most comprehensive bibliographies of his writings of the last twenty years.
