Marion Crawford, 2014-03 This Is A New Release Of The Original 1901 Edition

Marietta F. Marion Crawford, 2005-10-01 Very little was known about George the Dalmatian and the servants in the house of Angelo Beroviero as well as the workmen of the latter's glass furnace called him Zorzi distrusted him suggested that he was probably a heretic and did not hide their suspicion that he was in love with the master's only daughter Marietta All these matters were against him and people wondered why old Angelo kept the waif in his service since he would have engaged any one out of a hundred young fellows of Murano all belonging to the almost noble caste of the glass workers all good Christians all trustworthy and all ready to promise that the lovely Marietta should never make the slightest impression upon their respectfully petrified hearts But Angelo had not been accustomed to consider what his neighbours might think of him or his doings and most of his neighbours and friends abstained with singular unanimity from thrusting their opinions upon him For this there were three reasons he was very rich he was the greatest living artist in working glass and he was of a choleric temper MARIETTA F. from Marietta a Maid of Venice The glass house was guarded from outsiders as carefully as a nunnery and somewhat resembled a convent in having no windows so situated that curious persons might see from without what went on inside The place was entered by a low door from the narrow paved path that ran along the canal In a little vestibule ill lighted by one small grated window sat the porter an uncouth old man who rarely answered questions and never opened the door until he had assured himself by a deliberate inspection through the grating that the person who knocked had a right to come in Marietta remembered him in his den when she had been a little child and she vaguely supposed that he had always been there He had been old then he was not visibly older now he would probably never die of old age and if any mortal ill should carry him off he would surely be replaced by some one exactly like him who would sleep in the same box bed sit all day in the same black chair and eat bread shellfish and garlic off the same worm eaten table There was no other entrance to the glass house and there could be no other porter to guard it About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Marietta Francis Marion general get up had been limited A rift in the over hanging cloud wrack through which the low sunrays broke with a sudden gleam showed a darksome mountain range to the south with summit and sides snow clad and dazzling white The wayfarer stood up and stared at the apparition a good omen thought he perhaps a true landmark 2The fellows at the mail change told me to steer in a general way for the highest snow peak which they called the Bogong or some such name Though this track seems better marked these mountain roads as they call them goat paths would be the better name for there is not a wheel mark to be seen one needs the foot of a chamois and the eye of our friend up there Here he looked upward where one of the great birds of prey half hawk half eagle as the pioneers decided floated with moveless wing above crag and hollow Then rising with an effort and taking the bridle rein he began to lead the weary horse up the rocky ascent Poor old Gilpin he soliloquised you are more knocked up than I am and yet you have the look of a clever cob such as we should have fancied in England for a roadster or a covert hack But roads are roads there while in this benighted land people either don t know how to make them or seem to do their cross country work without them I wonder if I shall fall in with bed and board to night
