Marine Conservation Science And Policy:

Marine Conservation G. Carleton Ray, Jerry McCormick-Ray, 2013-10-11 Providing a guide for marine conservation practice Marine Conservation takes a whole systems approach covering major advances in marine ecosystem understanding Its premise is that conservation must be informed by the natural histories of organisms together with the hierarchy of scale related linkages and ecosystem processes The authors introduce a broad range of overlapping issues and the conservation mechanisms that have been devised to achieve marine conservation goals The book provides students and conservation practitioners with a framework for thoughtful critical thinking in order to incite innovation in the 21st century Marine Conservation presents a scholarly but eminently readable case for the necessity of a systems approach to conserving the oceans combining superb introductions to the science law and policy frameworks with carefully chosen case studies This superb volume is a must for anyone interested in marine conservation from students and practitioners to lay readers and policy makers Simon Levin George M Moffett Professor of Biology Department of Ecology Evolutionary Biology Princeton University

Coastal-Marine Conservation G. Carleton Ray, Jerry McCormick-Ray, 2009-04-01 Coastal Marine Conservation Science and Policy introduces students and managers to complex conservation and management issues facing coastal nations of the world their citizens and international and non governmental organizations It aims to reduce complexity and inspire a greater consensus for more effective conservation action Presents the coastal realm as a heterogeneous diverse ecosystem of exceptional high biological diversity and productivity and where conservation challenges are most difficult and urgent Examines the critical issues facing coastal marine conservation and the mechanisms for dealing with them Reviews the basic science required for addressing conservation issues by presenting the coastal realm as a land sea ecosystem of global significance and by reviewing the natural history features of coastal marine organisms Presents three ecologically and latitudinally distinct real world case studies to create a context for understanding of regional systems their cultures and their conservation the polar Bering Sea the temperate Chesapeake Bay and the tropical Bahamas Makes apparent the ecological stresses on the coastal realm increasing rates of ecosystem change loss of ecosystem health and fragmented governance Synthesizes the major challenges for conservation and suggests future policy and management strategies including ecosystem management and needs for achieving sustainability and addressing the environmental debt This book is intended for undergraduates and graduates taking courses in coastal and marine conservation and management as well as those actively engaged in coastal marine conservation activities and gives the reader a clear steer to future management approaches References additional to those in the book are available at http://www.blackwellpublishing.com/pdf/ra_References.pdf The artwork is available to download at <http://www.blackwellpublishing.com/ra>

Marine Policy Mark Zacharias, 2014-03-14 This textbook provides the reader with a foundation in policy development and analysis and describes how policy including legal mechanisms is applied to marine environments around the world It offers a systematic treatment of all aspects of marine policy including environmental protection fisheries transportation energy mining and climate change It starts with a biophysical overview of the structure and function of the marine environment with a particular emphasis on the challenges and opportunities of managing the marine environment An overview of the creation and function of international law is then provided with a focus on international marine law It explores the geographic and jurisdictional dimensions of marine policy as well the current and anticipated challenges facing marine systems including climate change related impacts and resource over exploitation The book should appeal to senior undergraduate and graduate students and form a core part of the curriculum for marine affairs science and policy courses It will also provide supplementary reading for students taking a course in the law of the oceans but is not aimed at legal specialists

Ballard,2017-10-31 In recent years citizen science has emerged as a powerful new concept to enable the general public students and volunteers to become involved in scientific research A prime example is in biodiversity conservation where data collection and monitoring can be greatly enhanced through citizen participation This is the first book to provide much needed guidance and case studies from marine and coastal conservation The novelty and rapid expansion of the field has created a demand for the discussion of key issues and the development of best practices The book demonstrates the utility and feasibility as well as limitations of using marine and coastal citizen science for conservation and by providing critical considerations i e which questions and systems are best suited for citizen science presents recommendations for best practices for successful marine and coastal citizen science projects A range of case studies for example on monitoring of seabird populations invasive species plastics pollution and the impacts of climate change from different parts of the world is included Also included are discussions on engaging youth indigenous communities and divers and snorkelers as citizen scientists as well as best practices on communication within citizen science building trust with stakeholders and informing marine policy as part of this exciting and empowering way of improving marine and coastal conservation Marine

Conservation Paleobiology Carrie L. Tyler,Chris L. Schneider,2018-04-26 This volume describes and explores the emerging discipline of conservation paleobiology and addresses challenges faced by established and young Conservation Paleobiologists alike In addition this volume includes applied research highlighting how conservation paleobiology can be used to understand ecosystem response to perturbation in near and deep time Across 10 chapters the book aims to 1 explore the goals of conservation paleoecology as a science 2 highlight how conservation paleoecology can be used to understand ecosystems responses to crises 3 provide case studies of applications to modern ecosystems 4 develop novel applications of paleontological approaches to neontological data and 5 present a range of ecosystem response and recovery through environmental crises from high resolution impacts on organism interactions to the broadest scale of responses of the entire marine biosphere to global change The volume will be of interest to paleoecologists paleobiologists and conservation biologists The Ecosystem Approach to Marine Planning and Management Sue Kidd, Andy Plater, Chris Frid, 2011 First Published in 2011 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Marine Conservation Bob Earll, 2018-10-08 In the last 50 years marine conservation has grown from almost nothing to become a major topic of global activity involving many people and organisations Marine conservation activities have been applied to a huge diversity of species habitats ecosystems and whole seas Many marine conservation actions have focused on human impacts on the marine environment from development and pollution to the impacts of fisheries Whilst science has provided the backbone of thinking on marine conservation perhaps the biggest change over this period has been the use of an ever increasing range of techniques and disciplines to further marine conservation ends Bob Earll explores what marine conservation involves in practice by providing a synthesis of the main developments from the viewpoints of 19 leading practitioners and pioneers who have helped shape its progress and successes Their narratives highlight the diversity and richness of activity and the realities of delivering marine conservation in practice with reference to a host of projects and case studies Many of these narratives demonstrate how innovative conservationists have been often developing novel approaches to problems where little information and no frameworks exist The case studies described are based on a wide range of European and international projects This book takes an in depth look at the reality of delivering marine conservation in practice where achieving change is often a complicated process with barriers to overcome that have nothing to do with science Marine conservationists will often be working with stakeholders for whom marine conservation is not a priority This book aims to help readers describe and understand those realities and shows that successful and inspirational projects can be delivered against the odds

Navigating Our Way to Solutions in Marine Conservation Larry B. Crowder, 2025-01-30 Navigating Our Way reflects the broader insights and diverse voices revolutionizing marine conservation This volume brings together an array of scholars practitioners and experts from multiple fields creating a network of trans disciplinary and multi cultural perspectives to address the complex problems in marine conservation Larry B Crowder a leading voice in the field has curated contributions on a wide range of topics including critically endangered species in the Bahamas Argentinian penguins and the ecosystems of our coral reefs The book delves deeply into human relationships with nature the development of climate smart solutions and the governance of collective action Committed to inclusivity this volume also includes conversations across the disciplines of natural sciences social sciences and governance incorporating both Western and Indigenous knowledge traditions This volume is highly relevant to marine conservation scholars practitioners managers and students and anyone interested in preserving our marine environment ICYMARE - Early Career Researchers in Marine Science Simon Jungblut,

Carolin Müller, Lena Rölfer, Yvonne Schadewell, 2025-06-05 The International Conference for Young Marine Researchers ICYMARE is a recently founded bottom up driven networking initiative ICYMARE conducts an annual on site conference event as well as a monthly Online Forum to foster international exchange and networking among marine early career researchers In both cases on site conference and Online Forum the early careers organize and conduct the whole event but also identify the conference topics and prepare and moderate their topical sessions This Research Topic aims to feature articles authored by early career researchers who were involved as a conference or Online Forum session hosts in the ICYMARE initiative As emerging experts in their respective fields of marine science they are invited to contribute review articles on specific topics within the topical frame of their ICYMARE conference session Thus articles on this Research Topic may come from all fields of marine sciences as it reflects the scope of the ICYMARE conferences Coastal Habitat

Conservation Free Espinosa, 2023-01-18 Coastal Habitat Conservation New Perspectives and Sustainable Development of Biodiversity in the Anthropocene offers the latest research and approaches to biodiversity conservation in coastal areas The book synthesizes the background of foundational conservation views and provides new perspectives and recent strategies within a sustainable development context for coastal species and organic life Written by a team of international authors with expertise in wide ranging issues of biodiversity conservation this book analyzes the challenges of conserving marine habitats and species that humanity faces in the Anthropocene era Sections explore emerging and unforeseen impacts within a changing world specifically the marine based conservation in the context of global change coastal urbanization and mitigation of its environmental impacts marine bioinvasions conservation strategies for of out of sight communities like caves habitat restoration and the citizen science and its challenging role in monitoring conservation Discusses different strategies to deal with various biological and ecological impacts on coastal marine species and habitats Offers new insights into the practices of marine conservation in the Anthropocene Led by editors whose expertise includes marine biodiversity marine ecology and marine habitat conservation The Estuarine Ecosystem Donald S. McLusky, Michael Elliott, 2004-04-29 For the inhabitants of many of the world's major towns and cities estuaries provide their first and nearest glimpse of a natural habitat Despite the attempts of man to pollute or reclaim it the estuarine ecosystem continues to provide a fascinating insight into a natural world where energy is transformed from sunlight into plant material and then through the steps of a food chain is converted into a rich food supply for birds and fish The book provides a concise readable introduction to estuarine ecology First published in 1981 it soon established itself as the principle textbook of choice in the UK NW Europe This new edition builds upon the strengths of the earlier editions but has been thoroughly revised throughout The new co author brings a human impact dimension to the revised book It is written for advanced undergraduate and graduate students particularly taught masters who have had a general ecology course but no further training in estuarine science It will be useful to both professional researchers and practical managers in marine ecology and environmental science who seek a compact but comprehensive introduction to estuarine ecology Effective Conservation Science Peter M. Kareiva, Michelle Marvier, Brian R. Silliman, 2018 This novel text assembles some of the most intriguing voices in modern conservation biology Collectively they highlight many of the most challenging questions being asked in conservation science today each of which will benefit from new experiments new data and new analyses The book's principal aim is to inspire readers to tackle these uncomfortable issues head on A second goal is to be reflective and consider how the field has reacted to challenges to orthodoxy and to what extent have or can these challenges advance conservation science Furthermore several chapters discuss how to guard against confirmation bias The overall goal is that this book will lead to greater conservation of ecosystems and biodiversity by harnessing the engine of constructive scientific scepticism in service of better results

Ferreira, Cornelya F. C. Klütsch, 2022-01-03 This book aims to synthesize the state of the art on biodiversity knowledge exchange practices to understand where and how improvements can be made to close the knowledge implementation gap in conservation science and advance this interdisciplinary topic Bringing together the most prominent scholars and practitioners in the field the book looks into the various sources used to produce biodiversity knowledge from natural and social sciences to Traditional Ecological Knowledge and Citizen Science as well as knowledge mobilization approaches to highlight the key ingredients that render successful conservation action at a global scale By doing so the book identified major current challenges and opportunities in the field for different sectors that generate mobilize and use biodiversity knowledge like academia boundary organizations practitioners and policy makers to further develop cross sectorial knowledge mobilization strategies and enhance evidence informed decision making processes globally Ecology of Marine Fish Henrique Cabral, Mario LePage, Jeremy Lobry, Olivier Le Pape, 2024-11-28 Ecology of Marine Fish offers updated reviews of the current knowledge on the ecology of marine fish This book is an all inclusive reference on the diversity of marine fish their behaviors their role in marine food webs as well as the human and environmental impacts on marine fish such as pollutants and climate change It takes a historical approach to discussing spatial and temporal patterns of fish populations and introduces the changing patterns of the present Each chapter provides an in depth review of the science behind marine fish populations and the methodological tools to study them This book is an excellent resource for anyone in the fisheries sector including scientists and researchers fisheries managers marine resource managers marine biologists fish farmers marine ecologists policy makers leaders and regulators operations researchers as well as students and faculty studying marine fish ecology Provides the latest scientific research and developments in the field Presents a wide scope of different methodological approaches useful for field studies Includes information on the role of marine fish in food webs and the impacts of climate change Securitizing Marine Protected Areas Elizabeth M. De Santo, 2024-07-10 This book presents a novel examination of Marine Protected Areas within a security context bridging science policy and geopolitics and addressing the often under emphasized aspect of environmental justice The book argues that Marine Protected Areas MPAs are not only a critical tool for protecting marine biodiversity in a changing climate but they also play an important role at the intersection of geopolitics and environmental justice and they provide a case study of environmental governance at the science policy interface The book takes an interdisciplinary and critical approach and builds on the author s two decades of experience working in this field Geopolitically it explores the ways in which MPAs provide footprints for influence and access to resources far from home for nations with overseas territories MPAs also raise important issues connected to equity environmental justice and social justice including access to resources and participation in environmental decision making processes key aspects for achieving long term conservation goals The book also demonstrates how MPAs are a critical lens for understanding how policy makers cope with scientific uncertainty and the necessity of well designed and precautionary science advisory processes While the ecological contribution of MPAs is paramount social issues and geopolitical considerations are often less obvious in the discourse underpinning MPAs and the resulting tensions can undermine long term conservation objectives By applying the three lenses of geopolitics environmental justice and science this book provides key insights to help the international community moving past the 2030 biodiversity targets and beyond towards a future of meaningful equitable and effective conservation approaches This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of biodiversity conservation marine studies political geography environmental governance and science policy studies It will also be of interest to marine conservation governance professionals and policymakers
