Howe Institute, National Planning Association, 1993 Presents a variety of positions concerning the question of whether the North American Free Trade Agreement NAFTA should be accompanied by a social charter similar to the Social Charter of the European Communities A New Special Relationship Peter Morici, 1991 This study examines from an American perspective the impact of the free trade agreement FTA on the evolution of the Canada United States economic relationship It puts into historical context the special trading relationship between Canada and the United States which prevailed over the early postwar period It examines how FTA rules and dispute settlement procedures create an effective basis for managing bilateral economic relationships in the context of more decentralized policy processes It also explores the potential impact on the bilateral trading regime of the changing nature of international competition the adjustments taking place in the structure of the Canadian and American economies and the challenges posed by continuing technological change

Decision at Midnight Michael Hart, 2011-11-01 On 2 January 1988 Canada and the United States signed what was then the most comprehensive free trade agreement the world had ever seen This book is the story of those FTA negotiations the preparations for and conduct of the negotiations as well as the ideas and issues behind them From their unique perspective as participants Michael Hart Bill Dymond and Colin Robertson capture the drama and the personalities involved in the long struggle to make a free trade deal They describe the extensive consultations the turf fighting among insiders the innate caution of both politicians and bureaucrats and the need to cultivate powerful constituencies in order to overcome the inertia of conventional wisdom Opening Markets and Protecting Competition for America's Businesses and Consumers, 1995

Applied Agricultural Research Chris O Andrew, 2019-05-20 The desire to resolve problems through pragmatic observation systematic evaluation and coordinated action persists with each new generation of researchers A timeless task that bears individual social and often cultural characteristics problem resolution is essentially an experiential process Routine and methodology can enhance both its process Making Free Trade Work Peter Morici, 1990 Meeting the Employment Challenge Janine Berg, Christoph Ernst, Peter Auer, 2006 Arguing that economic policies in Argentina Brazil and Mexico favor markets over institutions and the international economy over the domestic to the detriment of the workforce in those countries this publication presents extensive evidence in support of placing employment concerns at the center of economic and social policies The authors discuss the challenges the three countries face in creating employment as well as the evolution of the labor market since 1990 in terms of the quantity and quality of jobs They then explore the impact of five policy areas on employment creation macroeconomic policy trade liberalization foreign direct investment labor market regulations and policies and social dialogue Their concluding recommendations offer concrete steps for balancing market forces and policy intervention in the interest of employment growth in a sound economy Competition Policy in the Global Economy William S. Comanor, Akira Goto, Leonard Waverman, 2005-10-26 This volume examines the complexities involved when international co ordination and harmonization of competition law and policy are considered Peace, Friendship, and U.S.-Canada Relations George Pratt Shultz, 1987

Policy Space Conflicts in Global Trade Politics delves into the structure driving forces and contemporary influencing factors of trade relations dynamics providing insights into the present and future trajectories of the global trade order The post pandemic global governance challenges combined with the concurrent if not concomitant escalation of economic rivalries between great powers are catalysing a weakening of the liberal international order undermining the very foundations upon which contemporary global production network is built With the return of geopolitical tensions the conflict over global governance versus state governance has again become the nexus where global trade politics are contested and negotiated This book presents the Policy Space Conflict framework an analytical framework that diverges from extant concepts of policy diffusion power transition socialisation and neo liberal institutionalist models of analyses and is instead advanced as a framework that renews the classic concept of policy space the space left for one to freely use preferred national policy instruments when integrated into the globalisation and institutionalisation process in the past decades The tensions inherent in and arising from policy space can be captured in the term policy space conflict illuminating the dynamic shifts regarding the convergence of rules under globalisation and de convergence concerns of states This book emphasises the underlying logic and motivating rationale that lie beneath the evolution of policy space conflict by theoretically revisiting the concept providing an overview of its forms in history since the Bretten Woods and transitions from market oriented to strategy based This exploration is examined using case studies drawn from real world trade politics which encompasses discussions on the decline of multilateralism the asymmetry in development between the Global South and Global North and China US institutional contestation This book will be of interest to scholars in the fields of international relations law political economy political science economics and international trade as well as a broad range of audiences who are concerned of global trade

Research and Innovation Policies in the New Global Economy Philippe Larédo, Philippe Mustar, 2001-11-28 The book is quite valuable with its broad international coverage of state activities in the area of research and innovation support It should also foster serious debates on the balance between public and private efforts in research and innovation Mats Benner Journal of Economic Literature this book provides the reader with a valuable summary of national public policy approaches to research and innovation at the end of the twentieth century and is a useful addition to the shelves of industrial policy experts David Gray Entrepreneurship and Innovation The book analyses the evolution of research and innovation policies in the world's leading countries The last decade has witnessed a radical transformation of the landscape shaped after World War II as described in the seminal collection edited by Richard Nelson in the early 1990s Even though national systems have inherited different institutional arrangements and trajectories analyses show three major converging trends in their public policies There has been a retraction from support to large firms and programmes and a shift toward small to medium enterprises and the innovation infrastructure the focus on public research and training capabilities is growing and there has been a redesign of public intervention with the growing role of regions and states on one hand and multinational authorities on the other particularly in the European Union

8th. International Forum on the New Economy 2002. La Conférence de Montreal. Montreal 24-28 June , U.S. Politics and the Global Economy Ronald W. Cox, Daniel Skidmore-Hess, 1999 This book investigates the influence of globalization on ideology and politics in the United States Ronald Cox and Daniel Skidmore Hess argue that U S policy has been motivated less by anxiety about the independence and stability of the domestic economy and more by worry about factors that might limit the participation of U S corporations in international markets Connecting trends in domestic and foreign policy with the changing needs of industry they associate increased globalization with the breakup of the liberal New Deal coalition the collapse of the Bretton Woods Agreement in the 1970s the neoconservative antiregulatory movements of the 1980s and the rightward drift of both the Republican and Democratic Parties Might Nature Be Canadian? William A. Macdonald, 2020-03-05 Mutual accommodation is about co operation compromise and inclusion It's a big idea equal to freedom science and compassion The postwar global economic order led by the United States is one of the greatest historic achievements of mutual accommodation yet it is now at risk from the centrifugal forces that have led to populism Today to many nations and people Canada is the model country driven by successful mutual accommodation In Might Nature Be Canadian William Macdonald explores the theme of mutual accommodation with a close lens on the Canadian experience Canada has a drive toward mutual accommodation The United States has a strong drive toward division There has always been a divergence of ideologies between the two countries The United States now appears to view the world as a never ending struggle which has become greater since 2000 between good and evil while Canada by contrast leans toward the idea that there is an underlying order at the heart of things Canada has always faced strong limits in creatively overcoming a challenging geography and French English language differences within its own borders on the other hand the United States sees itself as a country with virtually no limits Throughout its history Canada's drive toward mutual accommodation stronger than that of any other country has allowed its increasingly diverse citizens to live together peacefully and successfully even as they retain their own culture language and religion Nature can be described as simultaneously either or and both and Is there something fundamentally Canadian about this Taking inspiration from British philosopher Alfred North Whitehead who said that civilization is the triumph of persuasion over force Macdonald argues that the urgent spread of mutual accommodation a charge led by Canada is central to achieving a bearable world for everyone Current Policy United States.
