August Wilson penned his first play after seeing a man shot to death Horton Foote began writing plays to create parts for himself as an actor Edward Albee faced commercial pressures to modify his scripts and resisted After Wit Margaret Edson swore off playwriting altogether and decided to keep her day job as a kindergarten teacher instead The Playwright's Muse presents never before published interviews with some of the greatest names of American drama all recent winners of the Pulitzer Prize In these scintillating exchanges with eleven leading dramatists we learn about their inspirations and begin to grasp how the creative process works in the mind of a writer We learn how their first plays took shape how it felt to read their first reviews and what keeps them writing for theater today Introductory essays on each playwright's life and work written by theater artists and scholars with strong professional relationships to their subjects provide additional insight into the writers' contributions to contemporary theater Elmer Rice, a Playwright's Vision of America Anthony F. R. Palmieri, 1980 A thorough and detailed study of this playwright's remarkable long and productive career that stretched from 1914-1963 and included over 50 plays and a Pulitzer Prize It establishes that Rice's impact on the American theater probably surpasses that of any other American playwright The Playwright's Last Audience Miranda Stokes, 2024-12-06

The world is abuzz with anticipation for Alina Vostrikov's The Unseen not just a play but an immersive experience a seductive dance between reality and illusion Within the opulent decay of the Orpheum Theatre Alina a visionary playwright cloaked in enigmatic melancholy orchestrates her final masterpiece a farewell steeped in both breathtaking artistry and a chilling unspoken secret Every line of dialogue every flicker of light is a meticulously placed domino in a game whose rules remain tantalizingly hidden Elara Vance haunted by a past she can't quite grasp finds herself drawn into The Unseen's unsettling embrace At first captivated she soon feels a creeping unease The actors' words echo her deepest fears their faces shifting blurring the line between stage and life The city itself transforms into a distorted mirror of the play and a terrifying question takes root is Alina Vostrikov scripting Elara's life As Elara's world unravels Detective Silas Thorne investigates a string of disappearances linked to the Orpheum Haunted by his own past he becomes convinced that The Unseen holds the key His investigation collides with Elara's spiraling paranoia forging an uneasy alliance against the rising tide of the play's influence Woven within the novel is the complete script of The Unseen a living document that shifts and evolves alongside Elara's growing understanding of Alina's machinations Each performance ratchets up the tension Alina's control fraying as her secrets threaten to shatter the meticulously crafted illusion In a climactic final performance the play spills over into reality blurring the lines between audience and actors trapping them in a terrifying crescendo of Alina's design Elara guided by the evolving script must confront Alina and uncover the devastating truth behind The Unseen before it consumes them all Will she break free from the play's grip or become its final victim The Author, Playwright and Composer , 1913
