Ringling In The Wilderness Selections From The North Country Anvil:

Ringling in the Wilderness Rhoda R. Gilman, 1996 This wide ranging collection from its pages essays articles stories poetry and artwork constitutes a compelling social history from post 1960s protest about Vietnam through the quest for personal liberation via drugs and sex to the hope for collective and rural solutions to society's urban based ills North Country Mary Lethert Wingerd, 2010 In 1862 four years after Minnesota was ratified as the thirty second state in the Union simmering tensions between indigenous Dakota and white settlers culminated in the violent six week long U S Dakota War Hundreds of lives were lost on both sides and the war ended with the execution of thirty eight Dakotas on December 26 1862 in Mankato Minnesota the largest mass execution in American history The following April after suffering a long internment at Fort Snelling the Dakota and Winnebago peoples were forcefully removed to South Dakota precipitating the near destruction of the area's native communities while simultaneously laying the foundation for what we know and recognize today as Minnesota In North Country The Making of Minnesota Mary Lethert Wingerd unlocks the complex origins of the state origins that have often been ignored in favor of legend and a far more benign narrative of immigration settlement and cultural exchange Moving from the earliest years of contact between Europeans and the indigenous peoples of the western Great Lakes region to the era of French and British influence during the fur trade and beyond Wingerd charts how for two centuries prior to official statehood Native people and Europeans in the region maintained a hesitant largely beneficial relationship Founded on intermarriage kinship and trade between the two parties this racially hybridized society was a meeting point for cultural and economic exchange until the western expansion of American capitalism and violation of treaties by the U S government during the 1850s wore sharply at this tremulous bond ultimately leading to what Wingerd calls Minnesota's Civil War A cornerstone text in the chronicle of Minnesota's history Wingerd's narrative is augmented by more than 170 illustrations chosen and described by Kirsten Delegard in comprehensive captions that depict the fascinating often haunting representations of the region and its inhabitants over two and a half centuries North Country is the unflinching account of how the land the Dakota named Mini Sota Makoce became the State of Minnesota and of the people who have called it at one time or another home A Whole Which Is Greater Paul Gilk, David Kast, 2012-12-07 In November 2010 Republican Scott Walker was elected Governor of Wisconsin In something of a Tea Party sweep the iconic Russ Feingold lost his seat in the U S Senate and the Wisconsin legislature became Republican in both chambers In early 2011 Governor Walker announced a budget repair bill that among other things gutted collective bargaining rights for most public sector unions Outraged citizens occupied the state capitol for weeks in an outpouring of opposition the likes of which had not been seen in Wisconsin since the protests against the war in Vietnam in the 1960s Various recall elections were held in the summer of 2011 all in regard to the state senate with another set of elections in June 2012 among them the governor's recall was paramount Democrats regained control of the senate but Scott Walker defeated Milwaukee mayor Tom Barrett and kept the governor's mansion. Many Democrats were stunned by the failed recall. These essays probe that failure. Every contributor has a unique perspective but lurking near the core of that probing are two key issues: the extent to which corporations have taken over government and whether ecological crises are revealing conventional politics as complicit in disaster.

Greatest hits 1975-2000 Kevin FitzPatrick, 2001 A Thrilling Narrative of Indian Captivity Mary Butler Renville, Nature's Unruly Mob Paul Gilk, 2009-06-03

Growing up in the mostly wooded rural countryside of northern Wisconsin in the decades immediately after the Second World War meant immersion in cultural transformation. An economy of subsistence and self-provisioning was rapidly becoming industrialized and commercial. The culture of the local and small scale was being overpowered by the metropolitan and large scale. This experience provided the practical groundedness for exploring the decline and even the demise of small scale farming not just in northern Wisconsin but as an example and illustration of how industrialization and globalization undermine local rural culture everywhere. Linked with an ecological critique that asserts the unsustainability of globalized industrialism, the exploration into the meaning of rural culture took on larger significance especially when seen in relation to the collapse of all prior civilizations. In addition, the investigation into the origins of civilization revealed the predatory relationship civilization developed in regard to agriculture and rural life. The rampant globalization of civilization results in the destitution and impoverishment of agrarian culture. The question then becomes whether civilization has finally achieved the technical mastery by which to protect and extend itself permanently or whether its complexity only assures a more catastrophic collapse or whether civilization may learn to be flexible enough to merge with an essentially noncivilized folk culture to create a new cultural sensibility that enhances the best of both worlds. This is the question the entire world is now facing. Weapons of mass destruction, climate change, and peak oil all combine the force of a resolution to this dilemma.

Stand Up! Rhoda R. Gilman, 2012. A brief and readable overview of the political protest movements that have shaped Minnesota: a state of extremes.

Understanding Gerald Vizenor Deborah L. Madsen, 2009. Winner of the 1988 American Book Award for his novel Griever. An American Monkey King in China. Gerald Vizenor is a radical, even revolutionary voice among contemporary Native American writers. Deborah L. Madsen offers a comprehensive overview of Vizenor's work in all literary genres including poetry, drama, fiction, and nonfiction as she explores the themes, images, and stylistic devices that define Vizenor's challenging and significant body of work. In his critique of corporate greed and environmental devastation, of political incompetence and self-interest, and of the modern culture of simulation, celebrity, and hype, Vizenor consistently proves himself to be unafraid to prod and provoke his audience. He can also be a difficult writer for new readers due to his use of an idiosyncratic vocabulary and the ironic, oppositional, or deconstructive stance he adopts in texts that resist easy comprehension. Madsen offers here points of entrance for scholars, students, and general readers into the complex vocabulary and vision of Vizenor's work. Madsen begins

by addressing the key contexts within which Vizenor's work can be interpreted his biography the Anishinaabe tribal context of his thought and the contemporary postmodern intellectual environment within which he writes Madsen also explores her subject's neologisms the complex lexicon he invents to convey his view of Native America From there she highlights Vizenor's achievements in each of the major literary genres in which he writes journalism tribal history cultural criticism poetry drama and fiction focusing on representative texts in each instance to provide detailed readings of Vizenor's distinctive style and language America, History and Life, 1997 Provides historical coverage of the United States and Canada from prehistory to the present Includes information abstracted from over 2 000 journals published worldwide The Utne Reader, 1995
