Board of Trade Journal of Tariff and Trade Notices and Miscellaneous Commercial Information ,1901 Russian-English Translators Dictionary Mikhail G. Zimmerman,2013-11-21 Afghanistan and the Anglo-Russian Dispute and History of the War in Afghanistan (Complete) Various Authors,2020-09-28 By a coincidence of singular interest in Central Asian affairs the completion of the Orenburg Tashkent railway occurred simultaneously with the evacuation of Lhasa by the troops of the Tibetan Mission the two events measuring in a manner the character of the policies pursued by the respective Governments of Great Britain and Russia in Mid Asia Moreover if consideration be given to them and the relation of each to contemporary affairs appreciated it becomes no longer possible to question the causes which have determined the superior position now held in Asia by our great opponent If this situation were the result of some sudden cataclysm of nature by which Russia had been violently projected from her territories in Europe across the lone wastes of the Kirghiz steppe into and beyond the region of the Pamirs or over the desert sands of the Kara Kum to the southern valleys of the Murghab river our periodic lament at the mastery of Central Asia by Russia would be more comprehensible But unfortunately the forward advance of Russia to the borders of Persia along the frontiers of Afghanistan to the north eastern slopes of the Hindu Kush has been gradual so gradual indeed that as each successive step became accomplished we have had time to register recognition of the fact in bursts of indignant chatter accompanied as is not unusual with us by a frothy clamour of empty threats Unluckily noisy outcry has been mistaken for action but from the moment when Russia first moved into Trans Caspian territory there appears to have been nothing but vague realisation of the acute possibilities with which the situation in Central Asia from that hour became impressed As time passed and the several phases vanished our indifference and supineness have increased until no chapter in the history of our Imperial affairs offers more melancholy reading than that which deals with the period covering the peaceful penetration of Asia by Russia In order to secure sufficient momentum for her descent railways were needed and while the line so lately completed between Orenburg and Tashkent is a more material factor in the situation than hitherto has been recognised the laying of the permanent way between Samarkand and Termez Askhabad and Meshed approximately gauges the duration of the interval separating Russia from the day when she will have rounded off her position in Mid Asia Just now therefore and for ten years to come strategic requirements should alone be permitted to influence the arrangement of our policy in High Asia Commercial developments within the vexed sphere of the Russian and British territories in this region should be regulated by circumstances which actually inherent in our Asiatic position have been too long ignored No question of sentiment no considerations of trade influenced the creation of railway communication between Orenburg and Tashkent the construction of the Murghab Valley line or the extension of the Trans Caspian system from Samarkand to Osh Strategy steely and calculating required Mid Russia to be linked with Mid Asia the irresistible expansion of empire following not so much the line of least resistance as the direction from which it would be placed in position for the next move Continents have been crossed kingdoms annihilated and provinces absorbed by Russia in her steady inimical progression towards the heart of Central Asia until there is nothing so important nor so intimately associated with our position in Afghanistan to day as the intricate perplexities which have emanated from this untoward approach From time to time attempts have been made to effect an adjustment of the points at issue The result has been unsatisfactory since the patchwork application of pen and paper has come as a rule in response to some accomplished coup upon the part of our astute opponent Indeed there is nothing in the result of any of these compromises which can be said to do credit to our knowledge of the existing situation Indifference coupled with a really lamentable ignorance distinguishes the conditions if not the atmosphere under which these rectifications of frontier and modifications of clauses in previously accepted treaties have been carried out But now that we have witnessed the joining of the rails between Orenburg and Tashkent let us put an end to our absurd philandering and appraising properly the true position of affairs let us be content to regard all further extension of the Russian railway system in Mid Asia as the climax of the situation To do this we must understand the points at issue and to day in Central Asia there are many causes which of themselves are sufficient to direct attention to them View of the Russian Empire William Tooke, 1801 A Journal of the Russian Campaign of 1812. Général Raymond-Aymerie-Philippe-Joseph, Duc de Montesquiou-Fézensac, 2010-12-15 An acclaimed classic of the many memoirs to have survived from the epic tragic and disastrous Russian Campaign of 1812 This translation is taken from chapters of F zensac s larger memoir Souvenirs Militaires de 1804 a 1815 par le duc de Fezensac Paris 1863 The author starts the campaign as an aide de camp attached to the General Staff and is slightly more insulated to the horrors of the march to Moscow although glimpses of the hardships reach even the higher reaches of command Later after the fire and sack of Moscow he takes command of regiment of infantry and it is then that the truly epic struggles the men undertook against their principal nature on the retreat from Moscow His regiment forms part of Mar chal Ney s dwindling over worked staving rearguard and is witness to its trials and Homeric travails including the crossings of the Dneiper and Berezina This edition is introduced by a withy summation of the campaign by General Knollys who without impinging on the narrative gives a good overall account of the campaign leaving the details of F zensac s experiences to be brought out in his own words Raymond Aymerie Philippe Joseph de Montesquiou F zensac born in Paris in 1784 into an ancient noble family a cadet branch of the House of Gascony he volunteered as a private soldier in 1803 He achieved rapid promotion in the campaigns of 1805 and 1806 and later serving as Mar chal Ney s aide de camp His promotion would not have been hampered by his marriage to Mademoiselle Clarke daughter of the Minister of War General Clarke who held this post the majority of the Empire also played a pivotal role in the fall of Paris and Napoleon s abdication in 1814 Created a baron of the empire by Napoleon he had been promoted to the rank of chef d escadron by the time of the 1812 Russian campaign He was promoted to g n ral de brigade in 1813 during the German campaign of 1813 but did not rally to Napoleon during the Hundred Days He was elevated to the title of comte in 1817 and duc in 1821 Author Raymond Aymerie Philippe Joseph de Montesquiou F zensac 1784 1867 Translator and Introduction General Sir William Thomas Knollys 1797 1883

Women and the Birth of Russian Capitalism Irina Mukhina, 2014-07-15 Little has been known acknowledged or studied about the shuttle trade one of the major manifestations of new Russian life of the 1990s The term itself seems to suggest something of a rather small scale Indeed the amount of each transaction in this trade was miniscule Individual peddlers traveled to near abroad with their bulging bags and brought back home for resale only as many goods as they could personally carry in their enormous suitcases The phenomenon hidden behind the term shuttle trade was by no means insignificant or small in scale By the mid 1990s it constituted the backbone of Russian consumer trade and was a substantial source of revenue The primary participants in the shuttle trade were women and in this enlightening study Mukhina assesses the reasons why women were attracted to this business the range of the personal experiences of female shuttle traders and the social impact of women s involvement in this sort of economic activity By analyzing the social and gendered dimensions of the shuttle trade the reader can begin to understand more broadly how gender shaped the transition period associated with the end of communist regimes in Eastern Europe Moreover the difficulties that these women faced highlight the gap between the rhetoric of free market economy and the actual market practices These women traders had to create and shape the physical market an open air space for their goods without the basic legislative and other provisions of market economies The shuttle trade became an avenue of female suffering but also of survival and even empowerment during the time that most Russians now call the wild 1990s Historical narrative of the Turko-Russian War ,1886 Some Russian Heroes, Saints and Sinners, Legendary and Historical Sonia Elizabeth Howe,1916
