Scapa Flow In War And Peace:

Scapa Flow in War and Peace W. S. Hewison, 1995 Radar Men: A. P. Rowe and John Strath in War and Peace Don Sinnott, 2016-08-29 World War II defined its heroes and villains There are many books on national leaders like Churchill and Hitler generals like Montgomery and Rommel Less has been written about the civilian scientists engineers and technicians whose work produced military innovations that drove the direction and outcome of that terrible conflict This book is a connected and interlaced narrative of two men who were World War II civilian scientists It is a non technical portrait of two twentieth century life stories against a backdrop of war and peace which are important in both historical context and as illustrations of the human condition lived in extraordinary circumstances The lives of A P Rowe and John Strath intersected in the British development of radar in the 1930s and 1940s and then diverged into critical roles in Britain and Australia after the war Rowe and Strath worked in Britains epic development of radar defences without which the 1940 aerial Battle of Britain would have been lost Rowe led what has been termed as one of the most successful research establishments of all time focussed on the development and deployment of radar Strath was a junior member of that establishment After the war both men moved to Australia where Rowe after a short and unhappy involvement as lead scientific adviser on the development of Australia s Woomera rocket range and Australian defence was for a decade a highly contentious vice chancellor of the University of Adelaide Strath became involved in development of the British atomic weapon and monitoring of nuclear test effects in Australia and then became the prime mover for development of what is now Australias Jindalee Operational Radar Network a major component of the countrys long range defence surveillance War and Peace at Scapa Flow Bartlam, The Royal Navy's Reserves in War & Peace, 1903-2003 Stephen Howarth, 2003-12-19 The official volume marking the centenary of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve known as the Wavy Navy because of the distinctive wavy gold stripes on the reservists uniforms from its formation in 1903 through its unification with the mercantile Royal Reserve in 1958 and on to its present complete integration with the Royal Navy as the part time element of a single naval service It charts the difficulties setbacks and delights of the reservists peacetime years of service and chronicles their vital contributions during wartime Since the end of the Cold War and the dramatic near dissolution of the RNR in 1994 members of the modernized part time volunteer service have served in many different RN operations at sea on land and in the air from the Balkans to the Gulf This detailed and vivid history which and profusely illustrated is by a distinguished writer of naval history who served in the modern RNR both as a rating and an officer for over eleven years Hunger in War and Peace Mary Elisabeth Cox, 2019-05-09 At the outbreak of the First World War Great Britain quickly took steps to initiate a naval blockade against Germany In addition to military goods and other contraband foodstuffs and fertilizer were also added to the list of forbidden exports to Germany As the grip of the Blockade strengthened Germans complained that civilians particularly women and children were going hungry because of it The impact of the blockade on non combatants was especially fraught during the eight month period of the Armistice when the blockade remained in force Even though fighting had stopped German civilians wondered how they would go through another winter of hunger The issue became internationalised as civic leaders across the country wrote books pamphlets and articles about their distress and begged for someone to step in and relieve German women and children with food aid Their pleas were answered with an outpouring of generosity from across the world Some have argued then and since that these outcries were based on gross exaggerations based more on political need rather than actual want This book examines what the actual nutritional statuses of women and children in Germany were during and following the War Mary Cox uses detailed height and weight data for over 600 000 German children to show the true measure of overall deprivation and to gauge infant recovery

From War to Peace Nick Robins,2021-09-30 From War to Peace tells the story of the adaptation from White Ensign to Red Ensign and to flags of other nations of the numerous classes of naval ships mainly built during the two world wars and surplus to requirements with the advent of peace It also describes ships sourced from the United States Navy and elsewhere that were converted for commercial use The most successful classes to transfer to the merchant service were the Hunt class minesweepers of the Great War Landing Craft Tank the salvage tugs of World War Two and the wooden hulled Fairmile launches which became familiar at seaside resorts in the 1950s and 60s and of course the MFV classes that helped the fishing industry in the postwar years The story includes the successful commercial conversions of many of the Flower and Castle Class corvettes and River Class frigates notably the 1954 conversion of HMCS Stormont to a luxury yacht for the Greek shipping magnate Onassis It describes why HMS Charybdis became a passenger liner in the Great War and how HMS Albatross nearly became a luxury liner after World War Two but in fact was transformed into a very unpopular emigrant ship and ended her days as a floating casino based at Cape Town The author reveals the military antecedents of numerous commercial vessels that many would have thought were built especially for the service that they later maintained and it illustrates just how many Royal Navy vessels ended up in private ownership And the question is asked if the military had not built so many ships that were eminently suitable for commercial adaptation would the technical development of merchant shipping have progressed at a faster rate than it did The answer is a definite no and is illustrated in several ways It was former naval vessels that promoted the early development of the Ro Ro ferry former naval ships introduced numerous design innovations for example the raised foredeck common for so many years on salvage tugs and above all stripped of their military hardware ex naval ships provided opportunities for modest investment where otherwise there would have been none Copiously illustrated throughout the book tells a fascinating story of invention and ingenious ship conversion and of pragmatic adaptation in the financially stringent years after two world wars East End at War and Peace Michael Russell,2014-04-28 Michael Russell s work has captured the real essence of life in the East End of London between 1890 and 1961 Michael has collected together recollections from his own childhood and his family s oral history in East End at War and Peace bringing the past to life into one colourful story Interspersed with the general history this book is a unique look at the East End of London from both a personal and a historical perspective He retells his grandparent s tales of trench warfare and the 1920s depression and his family fortunes at this time He talks us through the 1930s when the family was disturbed by the threat of war as they prepare for laughter and tears in the shelters He revisits the scene when a V2 rocket plunged to earth near the family home on Cambus Road in 1944 From the VE day celebrations to the nuclear age from the choking smogs that cover the East End post war to the age of rock and roll as it infiltrated daily life Michael s book offers a glimpse of a life of a true East Ender WAR, PEACE AND VICTORY: STRATEGY AND STATECRAFT FOR THE NEXT CENTURY Colin S.
