Pragmatism and Literary Studies Winfried Fluck, 1999 Psychoanalytic Readings

of Hawthorne's Romances David B. Diamond, 2021-07-08 Offering innovative psychoanalytic readings of Nathaniel Hawthorne's four romances this volume systematically applies Freudian theory to present significant new insights into the psychology of Hawthorne's characters and their fates. By critically examining scenes in which the protagonists confront past traumas, Diamond underscores the transformative potential which Hawthorne attributes to encounters with the unconscious. Psychoanalytic narrative technique is employed to interpret the psychological crises all hidden by Hawthorne in narrative gaps in The Scarlet Letter, The House of the Seven Gables, The Blithedale Romance, and The Marble Faun. The protagonists' transformations that are illuminated are crucial to an understanding of the trajectory and resolution of the romances. The text will benefit both academic and non-academic readers who seek a deeper understanding of the psychology of Hawthorne's romances. It will be of particular interest to educators and researchers of applied psychoanalysis and psychoanalytic technique. Since its conclusions challenge many currently held critical views, this volume is especially relevant to scholars of Hawthorne studies, interdisciplinary literary studies, and 19th-century American literature. Advanced Placement Classroom

Women Writing Cloth Mary Jo Bona, 2015-12-09 Women Writing Cloth Migratory Fictions in the American Imaginary performs a ground-breaking intervention by uncovering the relationship between literary cloth, working women, and migration in a range of American novels across centuries. Bona demonstrates how four authors—Nathaniel Hawthorne, Alice Walker, Sandra Cisneros, and Adria Bernardi—innovate on pre-modern stories of weaving women in order to explore the intricate connections between handwork, resourcefulness, and mobility. Refracted through the lens of women's migratory experiences, vis-à-vis cloth working aesthetics, Women Writing Cloth examines varied aspects of sewing, embroidering, quilting, and rebozo making as textual signifiers of mobility and preservation. Through authorial innovation, women's handwork constitutes a revolt against a devaluation of cultural heritage and a distrust of the self. Women Writing Cloth argues that literary cloth, working women inspire paradigmatic shifts in social codes due to portable skills that enabled their survival in the new world. Bona paints a complex picture of women whose migratory experiences taught them how to live within a stigmatizing culture and beneath institutional powers to control their artistry. Fabric designs assume fuller multicultural meaning when textiles cross borders and tell unspeakable stories that expose constraints typifying gender, race, and heritage. The authors examined simulate the artistic creativity of cloth work by interrogating traditional assumptions about representation, chronology, and spatial boundaries. Women Writing Cloth breaks new ground to reveal the elaborate relationship between cloth work expertise and women's mobility. Variations of cloth working women showcase a relationship between subversive artistry and institutional oppressions that compel strategies of resistance. Enable survival and inspired by migration construct inventive fabric creations. Women Writing Cloth engages the activity of cloth work as a means of reclamation and subversive expression represented in American literature.

Adapting Nathaniel Hawthorne to the Screen Laurence Raw, 2008 Raw explains how some filmmakers have tackled the difficulty of Hawthorne's material by treating it as being firmly situated in American life of the mid nineteenth century while others have used Hawthorne's work to comment on various aspects of twentieth century American life. This latter device is particularly evident in the many versions of The Scarlet Letter including a 1950 television broadcast that aired two months after senator Joseph McCarthy's speech about card carrying members of the Communist Party and 1960s and early 70s versions supporting countercultural values.

The Half-vanished Structure Magnus Ullén, 2004 This book takes issue with the tendency in twentieth century Hawthorne criticism to blur the distinction between symbolism and allegory. Rejecting the long standing notion that Hawthorne is a symbolist in allegorical disguise Ullén argues that allegory is the key to understanding how religion, sexuality, aesthetics and politics are interwoven in Hawthorne's writings. The study presents a model for allegorical interpretation of general applicability which is brought to bear on each of Hawthorne's mature romances and on the oft neglected Wonder Books written for children. An unparalleled analysis of the formal intricacies of Hawthorne's writings this book is an eloquent plea for the necessity of grounding ideological analysis in aesthetical considerations.

Freedom's Empire Laura Anne Doyle, 2008-01-11 A sweeping argument that from the mid seventeenth century until the mid twentieth the English language novel encoded ideas equating race with liberty.

The Entanglements of Nathaniel Hawthorne Samuel Coale, 2011 The process of Hawthorne's scholarly canonization and the ongoing critical and cultural discourse on his works. Nathaniel Hawthorne celebrated in his own day for sketches that now seem sentimental came only gradually to be fully appreciated for what his friend Herman Melville diagnosed as the power of blackness in his fiction, the complex moral grappling with sin and guilt. By the 1850s Hawthorne had already been accepted into the American canon and since then his works especially The Scarlet Letter have remained ubiquitous in American culture. Along with this has come an explosion of Hawthorne criticism from New Criticism, New Historicism and Cultural Studies to queer theory, feminist scholarship and transatlantic criticism that shows no signs of slowing. This book charts Hawthorne's canonization and the ongoing critical discourse drawing on two senses of entanglement. First the sense from quantum physics which allows us to see what were once seen as strict dualisms in Hawthorne as more complex relations where the poles of the would be dualities play off of and affect each other. Second the sense of critics being tangled up in, caught up in Hawthorne, the man and his work and in previous critics' views of him. Charting the course of Hawthorne criticism as well as his place in popular culture this book sheds light also on the culture in which his reception has occurred. Samuel Chase Coale is Professor of American Literature and Culture at Wheaton College.
