Impact of Scientific Fish Farming On Household Income among Tribal Fishermen DR. ABHISHEK MAJHI, The study examines the socio economic betterment of fishermen community in Purulia district of West Bengal under the inclusion of Tribal Sub Plan The study collects the information for the assumed hypotheses and tests them to measure the level of improvement under the periphery of Tribal Sub plan in compare to their traditional practices On the basis of such results the study will suggest some policy which will develop the existing situation in more suitable manner Agriculture and pisciculture are main two pillars of the local economy of the district and people mainly derive their livelihood by exploiting the fishery resources in the water bodies of the district The district is bestowed with large number of water bodies which are utilized for Pisciculture activities This water bodies can be more effectively utilized for pisciculture activities which can really supplement the income of the rural poor to a considerable level In this context for the socio economic upliftment of tribal people Tribal Sub Plan was formulated and adopted in different districts From the study carried in the district of Purulia it clearly shows a positive impact upon the farmers This book lays down the basic concepts of Tribal Sub Plan and Cultural practice fish farming in terms of the history present status necessity types combination ratios etc The book will be of interest to students researchers farmers extension agents health authorities and the general public Development Policy and Administration Dr. Alok Verma,2021-09-10 Development administration is concerned with plans policies programmes and projects which focus on nation building and socio economic development It aims to achieve socio economic goals through the talents and expertise of bureaucrats Development administration focuses on the results to be achieved rather than the traditionalist view of strict adherence to rules and hierarchy Strict adherence to rules creates rigidity delay and procrastination The essence of development administration is to bring about change through integrated organised and properly directed governmental action In the recent past the governments in most of the developing nations have shifted their focus on development by means of planned change and people s participation With this shift of administrative concern towards developmental objectives the researchers and practitioners of Public Administration have been forced to conceptualise the developmental situation and to bridge the gaps in the administrative theory The growing welfare functions of the government have brought into the limelight the limitations of the traditional theory of administration The essence of administration in the present conditions lies in its capacity to bring about change in the structure and behaviour of different administrative institutions to develop an acceptance for the change and to create a system that can sustain change and improve the capacity of institutions to change All this calls for renewed efforts on the part of institutions engaged in the tasks of development Thus development administration as an area of study and as means to realise developmental goals assumes importance This book contains plenty of substance for scholars but the writing has the verve and clarity to seize and entertain the general reader as well Contents Role of NGOs and Voluntary Organisations Economic Policy in India Since Independence Local Self Government Meaning Nature and Scope Concept of Rural Development Centralization and Decentralization Population Urban Environment and Health in India
