A Physician's Guide to Coping with Death and Dying Jan Swanson, Alan Cooper, 2005 Education about death and dying has been almost ignored in medical schools Recently however it has become increasingly obvious that the preferences of dying patients are being ignored leaving many patients to die lonely scared and in pain There is a growing realization that physicians can help dying patients achieve a more peaceful death and increased recognition that good end of life care is not just the province of specialized hospice physicians or nurses In A Physician's Guide to Coping with Death and Dying Jan Swanson and Alan Cooper a physician and a clinical psychologist with many years of experience offer insights to help medical students residents physicians nurses and others become more aware of the different stages in the dying process and learn how to communicate more effectively with patients and their families They also discuss the ways physicians and other caregivers can learn to reduce their own stress levels and avoid the risk of burnout allowing them to achieve balance in their lives and be more effective professionally The authors use case examples and thought provoking exercises to provide a personal learning experience A Physician's Guide to Coping with Death and Dying includes an extensive bibliography and a unique web resource section with contacts to many organizations working with patients suffering from life threatening illnesses

Theology, Death and Dying Ray S. Anderson, 2012-04-14 How do we make sense of death in theology in philosophy in experience How do religions other than Christianity deal with death and with dying In the now predominantly secular societies of the West what are we to make of the theologies of death developed by writers such as Becker Hick Thielicke and Macquarrie Ray Anderson tackles his subject with clarity and without sentimentality He discusses first the treatment and indeed the denial of death by contemporary Western society and its place in other religious traditions Going on to discuss the origins of a Christian theology of death he examines the legacy of Judaism and seeks to lay the foundations for a Christian anthropology in the unity of the body and soul Death he argues is alien to God's determination of our personhood Outlining a classic Christian understanding of the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ he explores the implications of the Passion for our own mortality Even if the sting of death has been removed the experience of dying and bereavement remains Ray Anderson considers pastoral approaches to dying in the light of his observations and arguments and makes his case for a reintegration of the experience of dying into our communities The
