Shaping Vision Imagination In The English Novel Fr:

The Conversational Circle Betty Schellenberg, 2021-10-21 The Conversational Circle offers a model for exploring a range of novels that experiment with narrative patterns. It makes a compelling case that teleological approaches to novel history that privilege the conflict between the individual and society are quite simply ahistorical. Twentieth century historians of the early novel most prominently Ian Watt, Mikhail Bakhtin and Terry Castle have canonized fictions that portray the individual in sustained tension with the social environment. Such fictions privilege a strongly linear structure. Recent reexaminations of the canon however have revealed a number of early novels that do not fit this mold. Betty Schellenberg identifies another kind of plot one that focuses on the social group, the conversational circle, as a model that can affirm traditional values but just as often promotes an alternative sense of community. Schellenberg selects a group of mid eighteenth century novels that experiment with this alternative plot structure embodied by the social circle. Both satirical and sentimental, canonical and non canonical, these novels demonstrate a concern that individualistic desire threatened to destabilize society. Writing that reflects a circular structure emphasizes conversation and consensus over individualism and conquest. As a discourse that highlights negotiation and harmony, conversation privileges the social group over the individual. These fictions of the conversational circle include lesser known works by canonical authors: Henry Fielding's Amelia and Richard's Sir Charles Grandison as well as his sequel to Pamela, long neglected novels by women: Sarah Fielding's David Simple and its sequel Volume the Last and Sarah Scott's Millenium Hall and Tobias Smollet's last novel Humphrey Clinker. Because they do not fit the linear model, such works have long been dismissed as ideologically flawed and irrelevant.

Defoe's Major Fiction
Elizabeth R. Napier, 2016-01-28 This book focuses on the pervasive concern with narrativity and self construction that marks Defoe's first person fictional narratives. Defoe's fictions focus obsessively and elaborately on the act of storytelling, not only in his creation of idiosyncratic voices preoccupied with the telling and often the concealing of their own life stories but also in his narrators' repeated aversion to other untold stories that compete for attention with their own. Defoe's narratives raise profound questions about selfhood and agency as well as demonstrate competing attitudes about narration in his fictive worlds. His canon exhibits a broad range of first person fictional accounts: from pseudo memoir A Journal of the Plague Year, Memoirs of a Cavalier to criminal autobiography Moll Flanders to confession Roxana and the narrators of these accounts. Secretive, compulsive, fractive, exhibit an array of resistances to the telling of their life stories. Such experiments with narration evince Defoe's deep involvement in projects of self description and delineation as he interrogates the boundaries of the self and dramatizes the arduousness of self accounting. Defoe's fictions are emphatically consciousness centered and the significance of such a focus to the development of the novel is patently as great as is his realistic style. Defoe's narrative project in fact challenges current views on the moment at which inwardness and interiority begin, as Lukács argued, to comprise the subject matter of the novel, implicitly attributing to identity and consciousness a place of signal and complex

Defoe's Perpetual Seekers Virginia Ogden Birdsall,1985 This study contends that the main characters in Defoe's six major fictions represent a more profound anxiety and cynicism regarding the human condition than has been generally recognized From Robinson Crusoe to Roxana each is engaged in a lonely and futile search for identity and significance and each pursues that goal with ruthless singlemindedness

Realistic Imagination George Levine, 1981 In The Realistic Imagination George Levine argues that the Victorian realists and the later modernists were in fact doing similar things in their fiction they were trying to use language to get beyond language Levine sees the history of the nineteenth and early twentieth century novel as a continuing process in which each generation of writers struggled to escape the grip of convention and attempted to create new language to express their particular sense of reality As these attempts hardened into new conventions they generated new attempts to break free
