Easterly himself in an expansive and impassioned introductory chapter makes a case for the searchers who explore solutions by trial and error and learn from feedback over the planners who throw an endless supply of resources at a big goal as the most likely to reduce poverty. Other writers look at scientific evaluation of aid projects including randomized trials and describe projects found to be cost effective including vaccine delivery and HIV education consider how to deal with the government of the recipient state work through it or bypass a possibly dysfunctional government examine the roles of the International Monetary Fund a de facto aid provider and the World Bank and analyze some new and innovative proposals for distributing aid.
