Howard, 2012-01-27 The three volume work Perceiving in Depth is a sequel to Binocular Vision and Stereopsis and to Seeing in Depth both by Ian P Howard and Brian J Rogers This work is much broader in scope than the previous books and includes mechanisms of depth perception by all senses including aural electrosensory organs and the somatosensory system Volume 1 reviews sensory coding psychophysical and analytic procedures and basic visual mechanisms Volume 2 reviews stereoscopic vision Volume 3 reviews all mechanisms of depth perception other than stereoscopic vision The three volumes are extensively illustrated and referenced and provide the most detailed review of all aspects of perceiving the three dimensional world Volume 1 starts with a review of the history of visual science from the ancient Greeks to the early 20th century with special attention devoted to the discovery of the principles of perspective and stereoscopic vision The first chapter also contains an account of early visual display systems such as panoramas and peepshows and the development of stereoscopes and stereophotography A chapter on the psychophysical and analytic procedures used in investigations of depth perception is followed by a chapter on sensory coding and the geometry of visual space An account of the structure and physiology of the primate visual system proceeds from the eye through the LGN to the visual cortex and higher visual centers This is followed by a review of the evolution of visual systems and of the development of the mammalian visual system in the embryonic and post natal periods with an emphasis on experience dependent neural plasticity An account of the development of perceptual functions especially depth perception is followed by a review of the effects of early visual deprivation during the critical period of neural plasticity on amblyopia and other defects in depth perception Volume 1 ends with accounts of the accommodation mechanism of the human eye and vergence eye movements

Strange Parallels: Volume 1, Integration on the Mainland Victor Lieberman, 2003-05-26 This ambitious work has two novel goals to overcome the extreme fragmentation of early Southeast Asian historiography and to connect Southeast

Asian to world history Combining careful local research with wide ranging theory Lieberman argues that over a thousand years each of mainland Southeast Asia's great lowland corridors experienced a pattern of accelerating integration punctuated by recurrent collapse These trajectories were synchronized not only between corridors but most curiously between the mainland as a whole much of Europe and other sectors of Eurasia He describes in detail the nature of mainland consolidation which was simultaneously territorial religious ethnic and commercial and dissects the mix of endogenous and external factors responsible Here then is a fundamentally original analysis not only of Southeast Asia but of the pre modern world
