Papadopoulos, Gary Urton, 2012-12-31 Recipient of the Jo Anne Stolaroff Cotsen Prize Scholars from Aristotle to Marx and beyond have been fascinated by the question of what constitutes value The Construction of Value in the Ancient World makes a significant contribution to this ongoing inquiry bringing together in one comprehensive volume the perspectives of leading anthropologists archaeologists historians linguists philologists and sociologists on how value was created defined and expressed in a number of ancient societies around the world Based on the basic premise that value is a social construct defined by the cultural context in which it is situated the volume explores four overarching but closely interrelated themes place value body value object value and number value The questions raised and addressed are of central importance to archaeologists studying ancient civilizations How can we understand the value that might have been accorded to materials objects people places and patterns of action by those who produced or used the things that compose the human material record Taken as a whole the contributions to this volume demonstrate how the concept of value lies at the intersection of individual and collective tastes desires sentiments and attitudes that inform the ways people select or give priority to one thing over another      Function and Meaning in Classic Maya Architecture Stephen D. Johnson, Rosemary A. Joyce, 2022-07-15 Materializing Ritual Practices explores the deep history of ritual practice in Mexico and Central America and the ways interdisciplinary research can be coordinated to illuminate how rituals create destroy and transform social relations Ritual action produces sequences of creation destruction and transformation which involve a variety of materials that are active and agential The materialities of ritual may persist at temporal scales long beyond the lives of humans or be as ephemeral as spoken words music and scents In this book archaeologists and ethnographers including specialists in narrative music and ritual practice explore the rhythms and materiality of rituals that accompany everyday actions like the construction of houses healing practices and religious festivals and that paced commemoration of rulers ancestor veneration and relations with spiritual beings in the past Connecting the kinds of observed material discursive practices that ethnographers witness to the sedimented practices from which archaeologists infer similar practices in the past Materializing Ritual Practices addresses how specific materialities encourage repetition in ritual actions and in other circumstances resist changes to ritual sequences The volume will be of interest to cultural anthropologists archaeologists and linguists with interests in Central America ritual materiality and time Contributors M Charlotte Arnauld Giovanni Balam Caamal Isaac Barrientos Cedric Becquey Johann Begel Valeria Bellomia Juan Carillo Gonzalez Maire Chosson Julien Hiquet Katrina Kosyk Olivier Le Guen Maria Luisa Vasquez de Agredos Pascual Alessandro Lupo Philippe Nondedeo Julie Patrois Russel Sheptak Valentina Vapnarsky Francisca Zalaquett Rock      New Approaches to Old Stones Yorke M. Unmaking Waste Sarah Newman,2023-05-26 In Unmaking Waste Sarah Newman asks what happens when there are disagreements about what constitutes waste and what one should do with it both at singular moments in time for example when ideas about waste collide in emerging colonial contexts and across time such as between those who left things behind in the past and the archaeologists who recover them Newman examines ancient Mesoamerican understandings of waste Euro American perceptions of waste in New Spain and early modern European ideals of civility and Christian understandings of good and bad expressed metaphorically through cleanliness and filth These differing perceptions Newman argues demands that we rethink centuries of assumptions imposed on other places times and peoples so long as waste remains a category misunderstood to be common sensical and stable archaeological methods will prove unequal to their task Newman instead proposes anamorphic archaeology an approach that emphasizes the possibility that archaeological objects have multiple physical and conceptual lives

Human Sacrifice Laerke Recht,2018-12-20 Sacrifice is not simply an expression of religious beliefs Its highly symbolic nature lends itself to various kinds of manipulation by those carrying it out who may use the ritual in maintaining and negotiating power and identity in carefully staged performances

This Element will examine some of the many different types of sacrifice and ritual killing of human beings through history from Bronze Age China and the Near East to Mesoamerica to Northern Europe The focus is on the archaeology of human sacrifice but where available textual and iconographic sources provide valuable complements to the interpretation of the material      Classic Maya Polities of the Southern Lowlands Damien B. Marken,James L. Fitzsimmons,2015-11-02

Classic Maya Polities of the Southern Lowlands investigates Maya political and social structure in the southern lowlands assessing comparing and interpreting the wide variation in Classic period Maya polity and city composition development and integration Traditionally discussions of Classic Maya political organization have been dominated by the debate over whether Maya polities were centralized or decentralized With new largely unpublished data from several recent archaeological projects this book examines the premises strengths and weaknesses of these two perspectives before moving beyond this long standing debate and into different territory The volume examines the articulations of the various social and spatial components of Maya polity the relationships strategies and practices that bound households communities institutions and dynasties into enduring or short lived political entities By emphasizing the internal negotiation of polity the contributions provide an important foundation for a more holistic understanding of how political organization functioned in the Classic period      Ancient Mesoamerican Warfare Kathryn M. Shane,2014-10-03 Chich n Itz mouth of the well of the Itza was one of the great centers of civilization in prehistoric America serving between the eighth and twelfth centuries A D as a religious economic social and political capital on the Yucat n Peninsula Within the ancient city there were many natural wells or cenotes One within the ceremonial heart of the city is an impressive natural feature with vertical limestone walls enclosing a deep pool of jade green water some eighty feet below ground level This cenote which gave the city its name became a sacred shrine of Maya pilgrimage described by one post Conquest observer as similar to Jerusalem and Rome Here during the city s ascendancy and for centuries after its decline the peoples of Yucat n consulted their gods and made ritual offerings of precious objects and living victims who were thought to receive prophecies Although the well was described by Bishop Diego de Landa in the late sixteenth century its contents were not known until the early 1900s when revealed by the work of Edward H Thompson Conducting excavations for the Peabody Museum of Harvard University Thompson recovered almost thirty thousand artifacts most ceremonially broken and many beautifully preserved by burial in the deep silt at the bottom of the well. The materials were sent to the Peabody Museum where they remained unexhibited for over seventy years. In 1984 for the first time nearly three hundred objects of gold, jade, copper, pottery, wood, copal, textile and other materials from the collection were gathered into a traveling interpretive exhibition. No other archaeological exhibition had previously given this glimpse into Maya ritual life because no other collection had objects such as those found in the Sacred Cenote. Moreover, the objects from the Cenote come from throughout Mesoamerica and lower Central America representing many artistic traditions. The exhibit and this its accompanying catalog marked the first time all of the different kinds of offerings have ever been displayed together and the first time many have been published. Essays by Gordon R. Willey and Linnea H. Wren place the Cenote of Sacrifice and the great Maya city of Chich' n Itz' within the larger context of Maya archaeology and history. The catalog entries written by Clemency Chase Coggins describe the objects displayed in the traveling exhibition. Some entries are brief descriptive statements, others develop short scholarly themes bearing on the function and interpretation of specific objects. Coggins' introductory essay describes how the objects were collected by Thompson and how the exhibition collection has been studied to reveal the periods of Cenote ritual and the changing practices of offering to the Sacred Cenote.

Engaging Ancient Maya Sculpture at Piedras Negras, Guatemala Megan E. O'Neil, 2014-02-25. Now shrouded in Guatemalan jungle, the ancient Maya city of Piedras Negras flourished between the sixth and ninth centuries when its rulers erected monumental limestone sculptures carved with hieroglyphic texts and images of themselves and family members, advisers and captives. In Engaging Ancient Maya Sculpture at Piedras Negras, Guatemala Megan E. O'Neil offers new ways to understand these stelae, altars and panels by exploring how ancient Maya people interacted with them. These monuments, considered sacred, were one of the community's important forms of cultural and religious expression. Stelae may have held the essence of rulers they commemorated and the objects remained loci for reverence of those rulers after they died. Using a variety of evidence, O'Neil examines how the forms, compositions and contexts of the sculptures invited people to engage with them and the figures they embodied. She looks at these monuments not as inert bearers of images but as palpable presences that existed in real space at specific historical moments. Her analysis brings to the fore the material and affective force of these powerful objects that were seen, touched and manipulated in the past. O'Neil investigates the monuments not only at the moment of their creation but also in later years and shows how they changed over time. She argues that the relationships among sculptures of different generations were performed in processions through which ancient Maya people integrated historical dialogues and ancestral commemoration into the landscape. With the help of more than 160 illustrations, O'Neil reveals these sculptures continuing life histories which in the past century have included their fragmentation and transformation into commodities sold on the international art market. Shedding light on modern day transposition and display of these ancient monuments, O'Neil's study contributes to ongoing discussions of cultural patrimony. From Ritual to
