Hj. Md Mansur, 2000 Sustainable Development and Energy Transition in Europe and Asia Bernadette Andreosso-O'Callaghan, Sam Dzever, Jacques Jaussaud, Robert Taylor, 2020-02-19 Asian and European countries have adopted different approaches to the conflicting priorities of economic growth and low carbon emissions In this volume based on the revised versions of papers presented at the 24th International Euro Asia Research Conference held in 2019 the contrasts between the schools of thought of each continent are explored thoroughly Ranging from topics as diverse as city logistics shareholder value and management practices the EU Japan Economic Partnership Agreement Chinas geopolitical insights sustainable agricultural development in India and the empowerment of women in Vietnam via microfinance this book addresses sustainable development policies in China and Southeast Asia from many different perspectives Meeting .2005 Planning for Sustainable Urban Transport in Southeast Asia Dorina Pojani, 2020-04-20 By now planners everywhere know more or less what the ingredients of a sustainable city are in theory The problem is that only bits of solutions are being implemented in the cities that most need them the majority of which are located in the Global South This book examines issues related to policy transfer in urban transport planning in Southeast Asia The metropolitan regions of four major capitals Jakarta Kuala Lumpur Manila and Bangkok are considered The book assesses the in bound and out bound transfer of sustainable transport planning policies concepts and tools The investigation focuses on who transfers policy and why what elements of policy are transferred in what direction and to what degree and what barriers does transfer face It also discusses how policy transfer processes in the transportation planning arena can be improved Urban Recycling and the Search for Sustainable Community Development Adam S. Weinberg, David N. Pellow, Allan Schnaiberg, 2000-07-24 More Americans recycle than vote And most do so to improve their communities and the environment But do recycling programs advance social economic and environmental goals To answer this three sociologists with expertise in urban and environmental planning have conducted the first major study of urban recycling They compare four types of programs in the Chicago metropolitan area a community based drop off center a municipal curbside program a recycling industrial park and a linkage program Their conclusion admirably elaborated is that recycling can realize sustainable community development but that current programs achieve few benefits for the communities in which they are located The authors discover that the history of recycling mirrors many other urban reforms What began in the 1960s as a sustainable community enterprise has become a commodity based profit driven industry Large private firms using public dollars have chased out smaller nonprofit and family owned efforts Perhaps most troubling is that this process was not born of economic necessity Rather as the authors show socially oriented programs are actually more viable than profit focused systems This finding raises unsettling questions about the prospects for any sort of sustainable local development in the globalizing

economy Based on a decade of research this is the first book to fully explore the range of impacts that recycling generates in our communities It presents recycling as a tantalizing case study of the promises and pitfalls of community development It also serves as a rich account of how the state and private interests linked to the global economy alter the terrain of local neighborhoods
