Planning to Reduce Regional Inequality Rossella Moscarelli,2023-04-24 This book explores the advantages of a linear model of planning in reducing regional inequalities Linear planning commonly discussed in the past as a method which plans the development of the city is completely redefined here in the form of a design approach inspired by projects shaped by linear routes such as cycle or walking paths Such concept is applied to the urgent topic of territorial marginality which specifically neglects rural and mountainous areas and recently is coped by European and National policies The analysis of these policies demonstrates the necessity of alternative strategies equipped to deal with both the internal and external causes that determine the critical conditions in these fragile environments By implementing the concept of linear planning in these contexts this book proposes to enlarge the perspective of traditional policies contrasting the regional inequalities that usually determine the design of projects just within the boundaries of the marginal areas Cycle and walking paths are experimental cases of linear planning as they have not been influenced or formed by political boundaries and therefore are able to equally involve both the central and marginal zones This book presents a review of current issues such as regional inequalities with attention to their related policies as well as an analysis of the concept of linear planning as seen through the study of one of the most famous cases of a walking path the Way of St James in Spain The Role of Mitigation in

Territorial Division for Public Action Antoine Laporte,Antonine Ribardière,2025-05-13 The reader may be amazed when they are faced with the sheer number of territorial divisions associated with public action and full of questions What justifies this diversity What are the problems that arise from these divisions Why don t the limits of public action simply follow administrative and political subdivisions Territorial Division for Public Action focuses on the situation in France proposing three different approaches First we consider the functions that are associated with these territorial divisions equitable distribution of resources across the territory administration and the management of public services However they are also a tool for maintaining power Lastly we consider the effects these divisions have on the implementation of public action and on socio spatial structures These divisions reflect political projects which embody the issues as much as the partition design itself does The recent reform of territorial regions alongside a gradual imposition of intercommunal links in France has given rise to political debates at both local and national levels

2017 The State of Food and Agriculture Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-04-04 One of the greatest challenges today is to end hunger and poverty while making agriculture and food systems sustainable The challenge is daunting because of continued population growth profound changes in food demand and the threat of mass migration of rural youth in search of a better life This report presents strategies that can leverage the potential of food systems to become the engine of inclusive economic development and rural prosperity in low income countries It analyses the structural and rural transformations now under way and examines the opportunities and challenges they present to millions of small scale food producers It shows how an agroterritorial planning approach focused on connecting cities and towns and their surrounding rural areas combined with agro industrial and infrastructure development can generate income opportunities throughout the food sector and underpin sustainable and inclusive rural transformation
