Principles Of Agricultural Economics Markets And Prices In Less Developed Countries:

Principles of Agricultural Economics David Colman,Trevor Young,1989-02-09 This textbook addresses the main economic principles required by agricultural economists involved in rural development The principles of micro economics or price theory are of relevance to economists everywhere but this book reinforces the message of their relevance for rural development by explaining the theory in the specific context of the agricultural and food sectors of developing countries Hypothetical and actual empirical illustrations drawn almost exclusively from such countries distinguish this book from other economic principles texts that draw their examples almost invariably from industrialised countries and also from books more oriented to the issue of rural development The first half of the book deals with the underlying principles of production supply and demand These are essential tools for the study and management of the agricultural sector and food markets In the second half supply and demand are brought together into a chapter of equilibrium and exchange This is followed by chapters on trade and the theory of economic welfare In the final chapter it is shown that much of the material in the earlier chapters can be combined by agricultural economists into a system for analysing and comparing the effects of alternative agricultural policies The ability of agricultural economics to provide a consistent framework for the analysis of policy problems thus enables it to make a key contribution to rural development

Prices, Products, and People Gregory J. Scott,1995 The authors go beyond the traditional presentation of economic principles offering instead a series of applied methods for data collection and analysis Drawing on extensive experience in Africa Asia and Latin America they not only describe specific procedures but also provide a wealth of illustrative research results This book will be particularly useful to teaching professionals development specialists and applied researchers working in developing countries

Olsen,1991 The first of an eight volume series The Literature of the Agricultural Sciences this book analyzes the trends in the published literature of agricultural economics and rural sociology during the past fifty years It uses citation analysis and other bibliometric techniques to identify the primary journals report series and monographs of current importance to the developed industrial countries as well as those in the Third World The Economics of European Agriculture Bernadette Andreosso-O'Callaghan,2003-09-08 The Economics of European Agriculture explains the demand and supply characteristics of agricultural markets as well as government intervention in agriculture with an emphasis on the Common Agricultural Policy CAP Bernadette Andreosso O Callaghan also analyses the fifth enlargement and its implications for agriculture in Europe technology and innovation and agricultural trade liberalization Agricultural Policies in Developing Countries Frank Ellis,1992-01-30 This book is designed for undergraduate and graduate students taking courses related to agricultural policy agricultural economics or rural development in developing countries Agricultural Marketing in the Atlantic Zone of Costa Rica Hans G. P. Jansen,1996 Agricultural Reforms and Grain Production in China Shujie Yao,2016-07-27 This book explains how policy changes affect farmers production incentives and efficiency of resource allocation within and outside agriculture in modern China paying particular attention to the effects of technical inputs on yield and efficiency of spatial crop production pattern Drawing experiences of agricultural development in different periods after independence and employing two different quantitative techniques it concludes that government s long term tendency to undermine the role of agriculture lack of state investment and the inconsistency of market reforms are three major threats to sustained grain production and agricultural growth in China Markets, marketing and developing countries Hans van Trijp,Paul Ingenbleek,2023-09-04 Markets are increasingly seen as vehicles to solve problems in developing countries For example improvements in market performance make potentially important contributions to achieve the Millennium Development Goals Access of smallholders to well functioning markets is increasingly expected to contribute to poverty alleviation and improvement of both food security and environmental sustainability This book presents the views of leading experts on where we stand and where we are heading in the field of markets marketing and developing countries Twenty essays in this book describe the role of marketing in achieving development goals the track record of past market policies the current functioning of value chains the roles that market institutions play to facilitate market access for smallholders as well as the potential to add value to farm produce through certification schemes new technologies or innovation systems The book is published in honour of the retirement of Aad van Tilburg one of the pioneers in the field of marketing in developing countries Early on in his career Van Tilburg recognised that improvements in the functioning of markets and marketing can be key to economic development with special reference to the livelihood of small producers and other market actors in developing countries

comestic demand for agricultural products in costa rica , Global Agricultural and Food Marketing in a Global Context: Advancing Policy, Management, and Innovation Maiwashe-Tagwi, Aluwani,Mawela, Ailweli Solomon,Chauke, Phineas Khazamula,2023-03-20 Over 70% of food production is in the hands of farmers however numerous studies have shown that smallholder farmers do not have access to markets The reasons for this failure have been attributed to a lack of financial resources and infrastructure To date no one has questioned the role that graduates academics agricultural economists and agricultural extension officials play in the plight of market access Global Agricultural and Food Marketing in a Global Context Advancing Policy Management and Innovation discusses key aspects of the agricultural marketing context including the policy environment the available local markets and how they operate the conditions and requirements for international trade the logistic system operations and the technology developments in marketing Covering topics such as produce food production and digital marketing this reference work is ideal for farmers government officials policymakers researchers scholars academicians practitioners educators and students

Data for Agrarian Development C. D. Poate,P. F. Daplyn,1993-04-08 This book provides a comprehensive guide to collecting and managing farm level agricultural data in developing countries Many development workers face the need to collect data for planning monitoring or evaluation of a project or to use data collected by other people The book explains how to plan design and manage a survey and introduces basic analysis and report writing Unlike other books in this field the authors deal with the statistical aspects of practical sample designs and give worked examples to help the reader The techniques and practical advice will help readers who are collecting data to improve the quality of their surveys and will help people who have to use data assess how reliable those data are

Economic Policy and Sustainable Land Use Nico Heerink,Herman van Keulen,Marijke Kuiper,2012-12-06 Since the 1980s many developing countries have implemented macro economic policy reforms to curb inflation reduce fiscal deficits and control foreign debt The policy instruments used such as exchange rate adjustment budget cuts trade policy reforms public expenditure reviews and privatisation have different and sometimes opposite consequences for agricultural land use During the same period awareness was growing that deteriorating soil quality could become a limiting factor to increase or even sustain agricultural production As a result food availability and even accessibility for large population groups in developing countries may be jeopardised in the near future. Recently quantitative models have made useful contributions to understanding the impact of economic policy reforms on the sustainability of land use. They provide a consistent analytical framework to deal with complex issues such as the direct and indirect effects of economic, agricultural, environmental and population policies, the role of market imperfections in transmitting economic policy signals and the interactions between soil quality, agricultural production and household economic decision making. Different types of models can be distinguished: bio-economic models focussing on the link between farm household decisions and the agricultural resource base; household and village models examining the impact of the socio-economic environment on farm household decisions; and more aggregate models analysing interactions between sectors and their implications for sustainable land use.

Traditional Food Production and Rural Sustainable Development Teresa de Noronha Vaz, Peter Nijkamp, 2016-02-24. The worldwide interest in sustainable development has not only prompted ecological developments in policy and research in key sectors such as industry or transportation but also in the management and assessment of new lifestyles such as healthy food consumption and sustainable use of products. In this context agriculture is an important example because of its dual nature as both a high tech sector producing modern mass products and also a traditional sector producing environmentally friendly goods. Illustrated by a range of case studies from across Europe, this volume examines the interface of agricultural and sometimes rural development and the social and economic feasibility of traditional modes of production and consumption. It provides an overview of the various strategies and policies concerning sustainable agriculture, presenting a critical review of the opportunities of traditional production modes from local, regional, national and global perspectives.

Peasant Economics Frank Ellis, 1993-11-25. This is a revised and expanded edition of a popular textbook on the economics of farm households in developing countries. The second edition retains the same building blocks designed to explore household decision making in a social context. Key topics are efficiency, risk, time allocation, gender, agrarian contracts, farm size and technological change. For these and other topics, household economic behaviour represents the outcome of social interactions within the household and market interactions outside the household. A new chapter on the environment combines exposition of economic tools not previously covered in the book with examination of household and community decision making in relation to environmental resources.

Eco-regional approaches for sustainable land use and food production Johan Bouma, A. Kuyvenhoven, B.A.M. Bouman, J.C. Luyten, H.G. Zandstra, 2012-12-06. In the coming decades the world will need to more than double its food and feed production, almost all of the increase being needed in developing countries. This has socioeconomic and biophysical implications. Traditional component and commodity research addresses overly narrow issues at too small a scale. Rural development needs an eco-regional approach that integrates biophysical and socioeconomic work on cropping systems, livestock, the environment and natural resources. This book contains the papers, response papers and discussion report of a five day seminar on eco-regional approaches It assesses the state of the art of systems approaches applied to eco regional problems presenting and discussing a number of case studies Future research needs are discussed as well as ways to improve collaboration between research institutes The seminar on which the book is based was organised on behalf of the Directorate General for International Cooperation of the Netherlands Ministry of Foreign Affairs by the Research Institute for Agrobiology and Soil Fertility AB DLO the Wageningen Agricultural University WAU and the International Potato Centre CIP It was held at the International Service for National Agricultural Research ISNAR and was attended by participants from all CGIAR centres among others
