X ray diagnostic radiology is a major world wide activity. All doses due to medical exposure for radiological purposes except radiotherapeutic procedures shall be kept as low as reasonably practicable. In Europe approximately 250 million X ray examinations are performed annually and in the United States of America a similar level of radiological activity is undertaken. This results in the fact that the largest contribution to radiation exposure to the population as a whole is from man made radiation sources arising in reasonably achievable the form of diagnostic X rays. UNSCEAR 2000 It is also known that exposures vary widely due to differences in Member States shall promote the establishment and the use of X ray techniques and the level of skill of the operator of diagnostic reference levels for radiodiagnostic examinations the equipment. Consequently radiation protection of the patient is a major aim in modern health policy. The two Diagnostic reference levels are defined in Article 2 of the basic principles of radiation protection of the patient as recommended by the International Commission on Radiation Dose levels in medical radiodiagnostic practices.
