Prison Treatment and Parole Survival Gene G. Kassebaum, David A. Ward, Daniel M. Wilner, 1971

Prison Societies Ulla Bondeson, 1989-01-01 Prisoners in Prison Societies is a study of criminal career patterns over time demonstrating specifically how and in what ways imprisonment has a positive correlation with later recidivism. The book combines original research and a ten year follow up study of Swedish inmates surveying their attitudes on everything from political ideology to prison reform. The work is much more than a survey of prisoner attitudes however it includes official statements and administrative staff assessments at the institutions examined. As a result it is many sided and avoids the usual special pleading of criminological writings. Among its unique features Prisoners in Prison Societies analyzes thirteen correctional institutions ranging from training schools to youth and adult prisons as well as a preventative detention facility. These four types cover representative samples of male and female young and old offenders. In individual and group interviews conducted with a time interval the author finds that the form of incarceration is less significant in determining prisoner behavior than the fact of incarceration as such. Whether one looks at the data across variables or in longitudinal terms the fact of criminalization rather than the goal of rehabilitation creates conditions of permanent incarceration. A leitmotif of the book is comparison of penal institutions and policies in the United States and Sweden with an encyclopedic presentation of the sociological and criminological literature. From the American tradition Bondeson distinguishes between program research and sanction research. Her notion of prisonization as a special form of socialization derives from the work of scholars from Clemmer to Goffman. Her work utilizes notions of informal social systems within formal systems especially how the former preempt the latter. The interplay of hard and original research at the prison level coupled with a sweeping command of the basic literature makes this book unique in contemporary criminology.

The American Prison Francis T. Cullen, Mary K. Stohr, 2014. For the first time in four decades prison populations are declining and politicians have reached the consensus that mass imprisonment is no longer sustainable. At this unique moment in the history of corrections the opportunity has emerged to discuss in meaningful ways how best to shape efforts to control crime and to intervene effectively with offenders. The American Prison: Imagining a Different Future by Francis T. Cullen, Cheryl Lero Johnson and Mary K. Stohr pulls together established correctional scholars to imagine what this prison future might entail. Each scholar uses his or her expertise to craft in an accessible way for students to read a blueprint for how to create a new penology along a particular theme. For example one contributor writes about how to use existing research expertise to create a prison that is therapeutic and another provides insight on how to create a feminist prison. In the final chapter the editors pull together the lessons learned in a cohesive comprehensive essay.

The Prison Gordon Hawkins, 1976. Despite lethal explosions of violence from within and critical assaults from without it seems certain that prisons will continue to exist for the foreseeable future. Gordon Hawkins argues that certain key issues which attend the use of imprisonment as a penal method must be dealt with.

realistically Beginning with a discussion of the ideology of imprisonment and the principal lines of criticism directed at it Hawkins examines such issues as the prisonization hypothesis the theory that prisons serve as a training ground for criminals the role of the prison guard work in prisons and the use of prisoners as research subjects for medical experiments He also deals with the prisoners rights movement and its implications for the future of prison administration Hawkins not only makes specific recommendations for reform he also carefully appraises the barriers which obstruct their implementation Hawkins devotes a large portion of this relatively short book to a discussion of some of the really crucial policy activities that tend to stifle meaningful reform and then goes on to tell how at least some of these policies can be altered The book concludes with a chapter devoted to a discussion of impediments to change that should be required reading for all serious students of penology Choice Hawkins has added a much needed down to earth analysis of prison This is not a pessimistic book It is a realistic book It avoids the pitfall of utopian and single factor solutions to an extremely complex problem Graeme R Newman Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science Prison Construction Plans and Policy United States. Congress. House. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee on Courts, Civil Liberties, and the Administration of Justice,1975 Document Retrieval Index ,1972 Reform in the Making Ann Chih Lin,2002-06-10 Is it time to give up on rehabilitating criminals Record numbers of Americans are going to prison and most of them will eventually return to society with a high chance of becoming repeat offenders But a decision to abandon rehabilitation programs now would be premature warns Ann Chih Lin who finds that little attention has been given to how these programs are actually implemented and why they tend to fail In Reform in the Making she not only supplies much needed information on the process of program implementation but she also considers its social context the daily realities faced by prison staff and inmates By offering an in depth look at common rehabilitation programs currently in operation education job training and drug treatment and examining how they are used or misused Lin offers a practical approach to understanding their high failure rate and how the situation could be improved Based on extensive observation and over 350 interviews with staff and prisoners in five medium security male prisons the book contrasts successfully implemented programs with subverted abandoned or neglected programs those which staff reject or which do not teach prisoners anything useful Lin explains that staff and prisoners have little patience with programs aimed at long range goals when they must face the ongoing immediate challenge of surviving prison life Finding incentives to make both sides participate fully in rehabilitation is among the book s many contributions to improving prison policy Chaplains to the Imprisoned Richard D Shaw,2014-01-14 Chaplains to the Imprisoned begins to fill the information gap through its in depth study of prison chaplains as seen by co workers inmates and the chaplains themselves They describe their roles share difficulties which are encountered in their ministry and personal methods for coping with these difficulties especially those which may be internalized as stress The author a Roman Catholic priest with a doctorate in criminal justice provides a fascinating look into the work of chaplains who serve in correctional institutions This new book sheds a much needed light on the often hidden yet significant role played by chaplains within correctional facilities Little is known of these chaplains and the work that they do Though they are frequently depicted in television and film many of these images are stereotypes from writers imaginations In this unique book chaplains speak for themselves through the results of a survey questionnaire sent by the author to local and state level chaplains in New York State and to chaplains throughout the federal prison system Chaplains to the Imprisoned the first non denominational book on these clergy explores the history of chaplaincy in this country including the irony that chaplains have often been treated as unwanted intruders in penitentiaries which were created originally by religious groups chaplains as seen by other professionals in the field sometimes positive often negative opinions of chaplains drawn from literature written by wardens corrections officers and others who deal with chaplains on a routine basis chaplains as seen by inmates published opinions by inmates who have recorded their impressions of facility chaplains chaplains as seen by chaplains their own descriptions of their work frustrations successes and failures along with suggestions for the betterment of the role of chaplains This book is an eye opening look into the world of prison chaplaincy for students of criminal justice and religion policymakers for prisons and jails seminary students and clergy members themselves as well as individuals interested in what often goes on behind prison walls from a chaplain s perspective

Philosophical Perspectives on Punishment Gertrude Ezorsky, 1972-06-30
Punishment writes J E McTaggart is pain and to inflict pain on any person obviously requires justification But if the need to justify punishment is obvious the manner of doing so is not Philosophers have developed an array of diverse often conflicting arguments to justify punitive institutions Gertrude Ezorsky introduces this source book of significant historical and contemporary philosophical writings on problems of punishment with her own article The Ethics of Punishment She brings together systematically the important papers and relevant studies from psychology law and literature and organizes them under five subtopics concepts of punishment the justification of punishment strict liability the death penalty and alternatives to punishment Under these general headings forty two papers are presented to give philosophical perspectives on punishment Included are many e g John Stuart Mill s defense of capital punishment not generally available This book brings together in a single volume the views of such diverse writers as Plato St Thomas Aquinas Samuel Butler Karl Marx and Lady Barbara Wooten Others are J Andenaes K G Armstrong John Austin Kurt Baier Jeremy Bentham F H Bradley Richard Brandt Clarence Darrow A C Ewing Joel Feinberg The Hon Mr Gilpin H L A Hart G W F Hegel Thomas Hobbs Immanuel Kant J D Mabbott H J McCloskey J E McTaggart R Martinson G E Moore Herbert Morris Anthony Quinton D Daiches Raphael H Rashdall John Rawls W D Ross Royal Commission on Capital Punishment Report 1949 53 George Bernard Shaw T L S Sprigge and R Wasserstrom
