of Historical Census Data Harmonization Ashkan Ashkpour,2019-01-17 This dissertation explores the applicability of Semantic Web technologies for the harmonization of the Dutch historical censuses in particular the Resource Description Framework RDF The use of historical census data for longitudinal research purposes especially when dealing with aggregated data has been hampered by the lack of comparability over the years Harmonization is a prerequisite to enable longitudinal research with these data in order to deal with changing variables values classification systems table structures and enumeration methods As a result of this research we propose a source oriented harmonization workflow and associated data model based on the RDF concept Our workflow and data model enable users to harmonize historical datasets in a structured flexible and accountable manner By applying these methods and techniques the complete censuses totaling 2 249 tables have been converted into RDF and made available for others to reuse as Linked Open Data In addition we have systematically harmonized a subset of the data This subset contains the tables with housing and demographic variables over the period 1795 2010 Our harmonizations have contributed to the creation of new social historical variables and classification systems in the Linked Open Data cloud By using open methods and technologies we offer a practical basis to other researchers in the field of digital humanities to build on particularly to those involved in data harmonization World War II in Literature for Youth Patricia Hachten Wee,Robert James Wee,2004 This comprehensive volume provides a wealth of information with annotated listings of more than 3 500 titles a broad sampling of books on the war years 1939 1945 Includes both fiction and nonfiction works about all aspects of the war Professional resources for educators aligned to the educational standards for social studies technical references periodicals and electronic resources a directory of WWII museums memorials and other institutions and topics for exploration complement this excellent library and classroom resource promises of cheap and productive land in Chiapas. Many of the promises were false and the immigrants were forced to fan out across the country especially to the lands along the US border. As Jerry Garcia reveals, they were victims of discrimination based on difference but they also displayed markers of whiteness that linked them positively to Europeans and Americans who were perceived as powerful and socially advanced. And Garcia reports many Mexicans looked favorably on the Japanese as hardworking and family centered. The book delves deeply into the experiences of the Japanese on both sides of the border during World War II, illuminating the similarities and differences in their treatment. Although some Japanese Mexicans were eventually interned at the urging of the US government, in general the fear and vitriol that Japanese Americans encountered never reached the same levels in Mexico. Looking Like the Enemy is an ambitious study of a tumultuous half century in Mexico. It is a significant contribution to our understanding of the immigrant experience in the Western Hemisphere and to the burgeoning field of borderlands studies.
