

A Private Life

I want to drive home in the dusk of some late afternoon, the journey slow; the tractors spilling hay, the land immense and bright, like memory, the pit towns smudges of graphite, their names scratched out for good:

Lumphinnans;

Kelty. I want to see the darkened rooms, the cups and wireless sets, the crimson lamps across the playing fields, the soft men walking home through streets and parks and quiet women, coming to their doors, then turning away, their struck lives gathered around them.

Private Life Poems:

The Private Life Lisel Mueller, 1981-07-01 Lisel Mueller's poems are deeply felt and give pleasure because of their truth conveyed in sensuous terms I found myself earmarking numbers of poems because they were compelling satisfying each a thing in itself Richard Eberhart The forty three poems in this award winning collection by Lisel Mueller are written with a sense of history an awareness of the inescapable changes taking place in our century and the effect on how we see our lives Each of the poems speaks from a separate moment of experience Each of them in its own way celebrates the autonomy of the self the mysteries of intimacy growth and feeling and the struggle against what one writer has called the ongoing assault from without to be something palpable and identifiable Exclamations: A Half Century of Poems of Love, Life, and Death Tom Levin, 2008-05 Too seldom do we see so well credentialed an academician make so wide a leap from science to worldliness and romance as Dr Levin does in Exclamations Part I and Part II His work moves from Ben Franklin Bon Mot to lengthy Whitmanesque verbal tourism And then in Part II on to social policy and social change When questioned about the mix he says Truth is beauty and poetry is the ultimate verbal beauty *The family library of poetry and song, selections from the best poets, including tr., ed. by W.C. Joanna Martin, 2016-04-22 Looking at late medieval Scottish poetic narratives which incorporate exploration of the amorousness of kings this study places these poems in the context of Scotland's repeated experience of minority kings and a consequent instability in governance The focus of this study is the presence of amatory discourses in poetry of a political or advisory nature written in Scotland between the early fifteenth and the mid sixteenth century Joanna Martin offers new readings of the works of major figures in the Scottish literature of the period including Robert Henryson William Dunbar and Sir David Lyndsay At the same time she provides new perspectives on anonymous texts among them The Thre Prestis of Peblis and King Hart and on the works of less well known writers such as John Bellenden and William Stewart which are crucial to our understanding of the literary culture north of the Border during the period under discussion The

Cajun Literature and Cajun Collective Memory Mathilde Köstler, 2022-12-19 How does Cajun literature emerging in the 1980s represent the dynamic processes of remembering in Cajun culture Known for its hybrid constitution and deeply ingrained oral traditions Cajun culture provides an ideal testing ground for investigating the collective memory of a group In particular francophone and anglophone Cajun texts by such writers as Jean Arceneaux Tim Gautreaux Jeanne Castille Zachary Richard Ron Thibodeaux Darrell Bourque and Kirby Jambon reveal not only a shift from an oral to a written tradition They also show hybrid perspectives on the Cajun collective memory Based on recurring references to place the texts also reflect on the Acadian past and reveal the innate ability of the Cajuns to adapt through repeated intertextual references The Cajun collective memory is thus defined by a transnational outlook a transversality cutting across various ethnic heritages to establish and legitimize a collective identity both amid the linguistic and cultural diversity in Louisiana and in the face of American mainstream culture Cajun Literature and Cajun Collective Memory represents the first analysis of the mnemonic strategies Cajun writers use to explore and sustain the Cajun identity and collective memory Lectures on American
