Gender, Class, and the Professionalization of Russian City Teachers, 1860-1914 Christine Ruane, 2010-11-23 Christine Ruane examines the issues of gender and class in the teaching profession of late imperial Russia at a time when the vocation was becoming increasingly feminized in a zealously patriarchal society Teaching was the first profession open to women in the 1870s and by the end of the century almost half of all Russian teachers were female Yet the notion that mothers had a natural affinity for teaching was paradoxically matched by formal and informal bans against married women in the classroom Ruane reveals not only the patriarchal rationale but also how women teachers viewed their public roles and worked to reverse the marriage ban Ruane's research and insightful analysis broadens our knowledge of an emerging professional class especially newly educated and emancipated women during Russia's transition to a more modern society

, 1912 Fundamental British Values, Michel Foucault, and Religious Education Teacher Subjectivity Francis Farrell, 2023-05-17 This book contributes to the small but growing critical literature on fundamental British values and the Prevent strategy in the British education system Focusing specifically on RE a subject concerned with multiculturalism difference and pluralism the book will argue that there is a tension between the aims of RE and the agenda of fundamental British values The author argues that fundamental British values and the requirements of the Prevent duty 2015 amount to a securitization of education which fundamentally alters the relationship between teachers and learners The book presents these developments in education policy as a radical discursive shift drawing from in depth individual and group interviews with 52 secondary teachers of religious education the book foregrounds the views of BAME teachers and argues for a nuanced and inclusive approach to civic and values education Boys, Girls & Learning Pocketbook Ian

Smith, 2015-09-16 There are more similarities than differences between girls and boys but there are innate differences in how they think feel behave communicate and learn That said not all boys and not all girls are the same The challenge for education is to avoid gender stereotyping while understanding and exploiting gender differences for better teaching and learning Ian Smith argues that by letting boys be boys and girls be girls we can help them become successful learners who will mature into confident adults comfortable with themselves and with others He covers how to motivate both boys and girls through a combination of challenge and support how to connect with both genders how to create a structured environment that will work for girls and for boys how to actively involve both in their own learning how to give effective feedback and whether boys and girls should be taught separately or together This is not another book that harps on about the problem with boys it takes a refreshing look at the broader picture and gives practical classroom advice Inequalities in the Teaching Profession M. Moreau, 2014-05-06 Countering the commonplace view of teaching as inclusive this collection highlights the persistence of inequalities in the teaching profession It explores the ways in which gender ethnicity social class and other identity markers shape teachers experiences in a range of institutional and national contexts Challenging Boundaries in Language Education Achilleas Kostoulas, 2019-06-08 This edited collection challenges the perceptions of disciplinary linguistic geographical and ideological borders that run across language education By highlighting commonalities and tracing connections between diverse sub fields that have traditionally been studied separately the book shows how the perspectives of practitioners and researchers working in diverse areas of language education can mutually inform each other It consists of three thematic parts Part I outlines the field of language education and challenges its definition by highlighting additional theoretical constructs that have tended to be viewed as separate from language education Part II investigates curricular boundaries showing how the language learning curriculum can be enriched by connections with other curricular areas Lastly Part III looks into the challenges and opportunities associated with language education against the backdrop of globalisation
