Race Rhetoric And Technology Searching For Higher Ground:

Race, Rhetoric, and Technology Adam J. Banks, 2006-08-15 This book examines the Digital Divide in light of America's larger racial divide in an attempt to figure out what meaningful access for African American to technologies and the larger American society can or should mean

Distributed Blackness André Brock, Jr., 2020-02-25 Winner 2021 Harry Shaw and Katrina Hazzard Donald Award for Outstanding Work in African American Popular Culture Studies given by the Popular Culture Association Winner 2021 Nancy Baym Annual Book Award given by the Association of Internet Researchers An explanation of the digital practices of the Black Internet From BlackPlanet to BlackGirlMagic Distributed Blackness places Blackness at the very center of internet culture Andr Brock Jr claims issues of race and ethnicity as inextricable from and formative of contemporary digital culture in the United States Distributed Blackness analyzes a host of platforms and practices from Black Twitter to Instagram YouTube and app development to trace how digital media have reconfigured the meanings and performances of African American identity Brock moves beyond widely circulated deficit models of respectability bringing together discourse analysis with a close reading of technological interfaces to develop nuanced arguments about how Blackness gets worked out in various technological domains As Brock demonstrates there's nothing niche or subcultural about expressions of Blackness on social media internet use and practice now set the terms for what constitutes normative participation Drawing on critical race theory linguistics rhetoric information studies and science and technology studies Brock tabs between Black dominated technologies websites and social media to build a set of Black beliefs about technology In explaining Black relationships with and alongside technology Brock centers the unique joy and sense of community in being Black online now

Making Matters Leigh Gruwell, 2022-04-15 Craft is a process oriented practice that takes seriously the relationships between bodies both human and nonhuman and makes apparent how these relationships are mired in and informed by power structures Making Matters introduces craft agency a feminist vision of new materialist rhetorics that enables scholars to identify how power circulates and sometimes stagnates within assemblages of actors and provides tools to rectify that uneven distribution To recast new materialist rhetorics as inherently crafty Leigh Gruwell historicizes and locates the concept of craft both within rhetorical history as well as in the disciplinary history of writing studies Her investigation centers on three specific case studies craftivism the fibercraft website Ravelry and the 2017 Women's March These instances all highlight how a material ecological understanding of rhetorical agency can enact political change Craft agency models how we humans might work with and alongside things nonhuman sometimes digital sometimes material to create more equitable relationships Making Matters argues that craft is a useful starting point for addressing criticisms of new materialist rhetorics not only because doing so places rhetorical action as a product of complex relationships between a network of human and nonhuman actors but also because it does so with an explicitly activist agenda that positions the body itself as a material interface in the field of TPC Islam in America Jonathan Curiel, 2015-03-31 Islam is a hidden ingredient in the melting pot of America. Though there are between 2 and 8 million Muslims in the USA, Islam has traditionally had little political clout compared to other minority faiths. Nonetheless, it is believed to be the country's fastest growing religion with a vibrant culture of theological debate, particularly regarding the role of women preachers. In Islam in America, Jonathan Curiel traces the story of America's Muslims from the seventeenth-century slave trade to the eighteenth-century immigration wave to the Nation of Islam. Drawing on interviews in communities from industrial Michigan to rural California, Curiel portrays the diversity of practices, cultures, and observances that make up Muslim America. He profiles the leading personalities and institutions representing the community and explores their relationship to the wider politics of America, particularly after 9/11. Islam in America offers an indispensable guide to the social life of modern Islam and the diversity of contemporary America.

Feminist Technical Communication Erin Clark, 2024-01-15 Feminist Technical Communication introduces readers to technical communication methodology, demonstrating how rhetorical feminist approaches are vital to the future of technical communication. Using an intersectional and transcultural approach, Erin Clark fuses the well-documented surge of work in feminist technical communication throughout the 1990s with the larger social justice turn in the discipline. The first book to situate feminisms and technical communication in relationship as the focal point, Feminist Technical Communication traces the thread of feminisms through technical communication's connection to social justice studies. Clark theorizes slow crisis, a concept made readable to technical communicators by apparent feminisms that can help technical communicators readily recognize and address social justice problems. Clark then applies this framework to the Deepwater Horizon Disaster, an extended crisis that has been publicly framed by a traditional view of efficiency that privileges economic impact. Through rich description of apparent feminist information gathering techniques and a layered analysis, this study offers application far beyond this single disaster, making available new crisis response possibilities that consider the economy without eliding ecological and human health concerns. Feminist Technical Communication offers a methodological approach to the systematic interrogation of power structures that operate on hidden misogynies. This book is useful to technical communicators, scholars of technical communication and rhetoric, and readers interested in gender studies and public health, and is an ideal text for graduate-level seminars focused on feminisms, social justice, and cultural studies. Textual Curation Krista Kennedy, 2016-11-01 A study of the roles community financial support, texts, information structures, interfaces, and technology play in collaborative works, Wikipedia is arguably the most famous collaboratively written text of our time, but few know that nearly three hundred years ago Ephraim Chambers proposed an encyclopedia written by a wide range of contributors, from illiterate craftspeople to titled gentry. Chambers wrote that incorporating information submitted by the public would considerably strengthen the second edition of his well-received Cyclopædia, which relied on previously published information. In Textual Curation, Krista Kennedy examines the editing and production histories of the Cyclopædia and

Wikipedia the ramifications of robot written texts and the issues of intellectual property theory and credit Kennedy also documents the evolution of both encyclopedias as well as the participation of central players in discussions about the influence of technology and collaboration in early modern and contemporary culture Through this comparative study based on extensive archival research and data driven analysis Kennedy illuminates the deeply situated nature of authorship which is dependent on cultural approval and stable funding sources as much as it is on original genius and the ownership of intellectual property Kennedy s work significantly revises long held notions of authorial agency and autonomy establishing the continuity of new writing projects such as wikis with longstanding authorial practices that she calls textual curation This study examines a wide range of texts that recompose accepted knowledge into reliable complex reference works combining contributions of article text alongside less commonly considered elements such as metadata vocabularies cross indexing and the development of print and digital interfaces Comparison of analog and networked texts also lays bare the impact of technological developments both in the composing process and in the topics that can practically be included in such a text By examining the human and technological curators that support these encyclopedias as well as the discourses that surround them Kennedy develops textual curation as a longstanding theory and process that offers a nuanced construction of authorship

Christian van Gorder, Lewis T. Tait, 2025-03-31 Stock worn exhausted and generalized diatribes against racism litter the American horizon Instead of reiterating these arguments the authors of Normalcy Never Again share fresh constructive and proactive perspectives in hopes of reinvigorating our nation's ongoing conversation about racist oppression This book is at times personal and painfully honest but it is always passionate about telling the truth and forging pathways forward through specific challenges met with Afrocentric solutions Readers will gain not only a renewed challenge rooted in heuristic insights but also a greater degree of historical insight intercultural understanding and sturdy non artificial hope Contemporary African American Literature Lovalerie King, Shirley Moody-Turner, 2021-12-22 Essays exploring contemporary black fiction and examining important issues in current African American literary studies In this volume Lovalerie King and Shirley Moody Turner have compiled a collection of essays that offer access to some of the most innovative contemporary black fiction while addressing important issues in current African American literary studies Distinguished scholars Houston Baker Trudier Harris Darryl Dickson Carr and Maryemma Graham join writers and younger scholars to explore the work of Toni Morrison Edward P Jones Trey Ellis Paul Beatty Mat Johnson Kyle Baker Danzy Senna Nikki Turner and many others The collection is bracketed by a foreword by novelist and graphic artist Mat Johnson one of the most exciting and innovative contemporary African American writers and an afterword by Alice Randall author of the controversial parody The Wind Done Gone Together King and Moody Turner make the case that diversity innovation and canon expansion are essential to maintaining the vitality of African American literary studies A compelling collection of essays on the ongoing relevance of African American literature to our collective understanding of American history society and culture Featuring a wide array of writers from all corners of the literary academy the book will have national appeal and offer strategies for teaching African American literature in colleges and universities across the country Gene Jarrett Boston University This book describes a fruitful tension that brings scholars of major reputation together with newly emerging critics to explore the full range of literary activities that have flourished in the post Civil Rights era Notable are such popular influences as hip hop music and Oprah Winfrey's Book Club American Literary Scholarship 2013 Diversity among Architects Craig Wilkins, 2016-03-10 Diversity among Architects presents a series of essays questioning the homogeneity of architecture practitioners who remain overwhelmingly male and Caucasian to help you create a field more representative of the population you serve The book is the collected work of author Craig L Wilkins an African American scholar and practitioner and discusses music education urban geography social justice community design centers race space identity shared landscape and many more topics Keywords in Writing Studies Paul Heilker, John Vandenberg, 2015-02-15 Keywords in Writing Studies is an exploration of the principal ideas and ideals of an emerging academic field as they are constituted by its specialized vocabulary A sequel to the 1996 work Keywords in Composition Studies this new volume traces the evolution of the field's lexicon taking into account the wide variety of theoretical educational professional and institutional developments that have redefined it over the past two decades Contributors address the development transformation and interconnections among thirty six of the most critical terms that make up writing studies Looking beyond basic definitions or explanations they explore the multiple layers of meaning within the terms that writing scholars currently use exchange and question Each term featured is a part of the general disciplinary parlance and each is a highly contested focal point of significant debates about matters of power identity and values Each essay begins with the assumption that its central term is important precisely because its meaning is open and multiplex Keywords in Writing Studies reveals how the key concepts in the field are used and even challenged rather than advocating particular usages and the particular vision of the field that they imply The volume will be of great interest to both graduate students and established scholars

Composing Media Composing Embodiment Kristin L Arola, Anne Wysocki, 2012-03-31 What any body is and is able to do cannot be disentangled from the media we use to consume and produce texts from the Introduction Kristin Arola and Anne Wysocki argue that composing in new media is composing the body is embodiment In Composing Media Composing Embodiment they have brought together a powerful set of essays that agree on the need for compositionists and their students to engage with a wide range of new media texts These chapters explore how texts of all varieties mediate and thereby contribute to the human experiences of communication of self the body and composing Sample assignments and activities exemplify how this exploration might proceed in the writing classroom Contributors here articulate ways to understand how writing enables the experience of our bodies as selves and at the same time to see the work of our writing in mediating selves to make them accessible to institutional perceptions and constraints These writers argue that what a body does and can do cannot be disentangled from the media we use nor from the times and cultures and technologies with which we engage To the discipline of composition this is an important discussion because it clarifies the impacts of literacy on citizens freedoms and societies To the classroom it is important because it helps compositionists to support their students as they enact learn and reflect upon their own embodied and embodying writing

From Twitter to Tahrir Square Bala A. Musa, Jim Willis, 2014-06-24 This timely guide examines the influence of social media in private public and professional settings particularly the ethical implications of the cultural changes and trends created by their use In the quest for quick dissemination of information web users and content providers find both opportunity and liability in digital broadcasts Examples abound Twitter members tap into news reports well in advance of traditional print media but stories are prone to inaccuracies and misinformation Facebook shares useful data mined from member profiles but this sharing often compromises privacy It is no surprise that use of social media gives rise to a host of moral dilemmas never before encountered This book sheds light on the effects of this new medium on the individual and society Through two volumes
