attempts elsewhere in Africa and other parts of the world Regionalization and Security in Southern Africa N. Poku, 2001-02-02 Once torn by ideological conflicts and the dominance of command economies Southern Africa is now moving towards economic liberalism and openness In general the ascendancy of market economics is acknowledged by its governments albeit with different degrees of enthusiasm Theoretically rich and empirically engaging this timely book offers a critical insight into the ensuing debate on regionalism and the process of regionalization in southern Africa Studies in the Economic History of Southern Africa Z.A. Konczacki, Jane L. Parpart, Timothy M. Shaw, 2014-01-14 First Published in 1990 Volume Two of Studies of Economic History of South Africa looks at the Lesotho and Swaziland regions The unfolding history and historiography of Southern Africa pose profound challenges for both analysis and praxis in the last decade of the twentieth century These challenges are reflected in the range of investigations and contradictions some of which are treated here which together constitute an intellectual and political conjuncture This collection of studies deals with the countries which were not included in the companion book on the economic history of the Front Line States Most of the space in the present volume is devoted to South Africa primarily because of its importance to the region but also because contributions to the economic history of that country in English are very extensive as compared to the other states of Southern Africa

Regional Organisations and Security Stephen Aris, Andreas Wenger, 2013-10-30 This book aims to examine the conceptions and practices of security adopted by Regional Organisations ROs across the globe Since the end of the Cold War there has been an increased focus on regions as a relevant realm for security with actors within regional contexts identifying a significant degree of interdependency between one another As a consequence international security has taken on a distinct regionally institutionalised character as seen by the increase in calls for greater utilisation of Chapter VIII Regional Arrangements of the UN in order to create a devolved UN led system of global security management However the idea of a system of global security management is a remote prospect because divergence seems to be as important as commonality in terms of regional security In light of the above Regional Organisations and Security analyses the primary ROs that are active in Africa Asia Eurasia the Middle East and South America The findings of individual case studies are compiled to highlight disparities and similarities in how security is seen prioritised understood practised managed and implemented across regions On this basis the authors reach conclusions about whether we live in an increasingly globalised or regionally distinct world and go on to assess the prospects for a globalised system of security management and consider how this might be developed and organised This book will be of interest to students of comparative regionalism international organisations international security and IR Conflict Resolution in Africa Francis M. Deng, I. William Zartman, 2011-07-01 While dramatic changes are taking place on the international scene and among the major powers Africa continues to suffer from a multitude of violent conflicts The toll of these conflicts is monumental in terms of war damage to productivity scarce resources diverted to armaments and military organizations and the resulting insecurity displacement and destruction At the same time Africans in response to internal demands as well as to international changes have begun to focus their attention and energies on these problems and are trying innovative ways to resolve differences by nonviolent means The outcomes of these attempts have urgent and complex implications for the future of the continent with respect to human rights principles of democracy and economic development In this book African European and U S experts examine these important issues and the prospects for conflict management and resolution in Africa They review the scholarship in resolution in light of international changes now taking place Addressing the undying internal causes of conflict they question whether global events will promote peace or threaten to unleash even more conflict The authors focus their analysis on the issues involved in African conflicts and examine the areas in need of the most dramatic changes They offer specific recommendations for dealing with current problems but caution that unless policymakers confront the security situation in Africa further destruction to national unity and political and economic stability is imminent Case studies and themes for further long term research are recommended

Theory, Change and Southern Africa P. Vale, L. Swatuk, B. Oden, 2001-06-26 As dramatic changes unfold throughout the world and the new millennium begins many in South Africa have begun to ask what next The scale and pace of change have led to a feeling of powerlessness How to cope with globalization regionalization a depleting ozone layer new diseases rampant militarization let alone unseen structures of influence and oppression like race class and gender While there is no shortage of theoretical models on offer many feel that they are inadequate for the case of Southern Africa In this book scholars of both international relations and Southern Africa present a wide variety of thoughts on the future of the region and the place of theory in helping us to understand the bewildering array of events characterizing the late modern early twenty first century world This book marks a call to theory if Southern Africans are to overcome the divisive legacy of the past and to move toward a more prosperous and sustainable collective future theory must be placed at the centre of everyday life For it is our understanding of the world that shapes both it and us

Transnational Activities of Women-Focused Civil Society Actors in Southern Africa Cecilia Lwiindi Nedziwe, Oluwaseun Tella, 2023-06-30 This book focuses on southern Africa by engaging with norms from various perspectives and how they have proliferated within a neo liberalising context since the 1990s It particularly examines gender norms in relation to agency influence and their impact Despite growing transnational activities regional studies analyses have so far maintained a primarily linear logic not incorporative of the increasing interface between state and non state regionalism in a transnational context since the advent of liberalisation and democratisation Increasing non state activities and their connection to state processes involved in norm creation adaptation diffusion and implementation around broad questions of security including gender security amount to regional thickening The book's analytical approach is informed by alternatives to mainstream approaches emphasising processes rather than linearity inherent in regional international relations studies The research reveals that transnational activities and regionalisation of gender and women focused civil society actors are critical for advocacy and diverse representation within intergovernmental policymaking structures at the regional scale
