

Narrative Self

This dimension it's considered as the resulting function of narrative processes.

To listen your own narrative Self is activated through the ability to tune-in to and recognize the other person.

The other person, in turn, becomes not only an activator of the process of reflexivity on the narrative Self, but also the organizer of the representations constructed in the interaction

The Proud Self

Lorenzo Greco,2025-05-30 This book presents a novel interpretation of Hume as a proponent of sentimental virtue ethics This interpretation sheds light on the nature of Hume s ethics as well as its relevance for contemporary debates in moral philosophy The book starts by developing an understanding of the self in Hume based on the passion of pride Contrary to the common view that Hume denies the unity of the self by diluting it into a bundle or collection of different perceptions the author argues that by focusing on pride it is possible to identify in Hume a firm notion of the self as having a sentimental nature that can be explained in narrative terms Pivoting on this narrative self he shows how it accounts for the Humean notion of the virtuous person by holding together in a harmonious whole several central issues in Hume s moral philosophy including sympathy the point of view from which we make moral judgements the practical nature of ethics and the role that reflection plays in it and the definition of perfect character Finally the author maintains that Humean virtue ethics so understood has the individual at its core representing a secular and pluralist alternative to neo Aristotelian versions discussed today The Proud Self will appeal to scholars and graduate students working on Hume 18th century philosophy virtue ethics and moral psychology Narrative, Identity and the Kierkegaardian Self John Lippitt,2015-05-18 For the first time this collection brings together figures in both contemporary philosophy and Kierkegaard studies to explore pressing issues in the philosophy of personal identity and moral psychology Research Methods for the Self-Study of Practice Deborah Tidwell,Melissa Heston,Linda Fitzgerald,2009-06-12 This is a book designed with the teacher educator in mind It provides in depth examination of specific methods used effectively in self study research The chapters are written by researchers engaged in self study of their practice Snuff Neil Jackson,Shaun Kimber,Johnny Walker,Thomas Joseph Watson,2016-01-28 The phenomenon of so called snuff movies films that allegedly document real acts of murder specifically designed to entertain and sexually arouse the spectator represents a fascinating socio cultural paradox At once unproven yet accepted by many as emblematic of the very worst extremes of pornography and horror moral detractors have argued that the mere idea of snuff constitutes the logical and terminal extension of generic forms that are dependent primarily upon the excitement stimulation and ultimately corruption of the senses Snuff Real Death and Screen Media brings together scholars from film and media studies to assess the longevity of one of screen media s most enduring cultural myths Thorough provocative and well argued the contributions to this volume address areas ranging from exploitation movies the video industry trends in contemporary horror cinema pornography and Web 2 0 Self, Value, and Narrative Anthony Rudd,2012-10-25 Anthony Rudd presents a striking new account of the self as an ethical evaluative being He draws on Kierkegaard s thought to present a case for an ancient and currently neglected view that the tensions which are constitutive of selfhood can only be reconciled through the understanding of the self as guided by an objective Good Narrative social work Clive Baldwin,2013-03-27 This is the first book to extend the narrative lens to explore the contribution of narrative to social work values and ethics social policy and our understanding of the self in social cultural and political context

Memory and the Self Mark Rowlands, 2016-10-14 The idea that our memories in some sense make us who we are is a common one and not at all implausible After all what could make us who we are if not the things we have experienced thought felt and desired on these idiosyncratic pathways through space and time that we call lives And how can we retain these experiences thoughts feelings and desires if not through memory On the other hand most of what we have experienced has been forgotten And there is now a considerable body of evidence that suggests that even when we think we remember our memories are likely to be distorted sometimes beyond recognition Imagine writing your autobiography only to find that that most of it has been redacted and much of the rest substantially rewritten What would hold this book together What would make it the unified and coherent account of a life The answer Mark Rowlands argues lies partially hidden in a largely unrecognized form of memory Rilkean memory A Rilkean memory is produced when the content of a memory is lost but the act of remembering endures in a new mutated form a mood a feeling or a behavioral disposition Rilkean memories play a significant role in holding the self together in the face of the poverty and inaccuracy of the contents of memory But Rilkean memories are important not just because of what they are but also because of what they were before they became such memories Acts of remembering sculpt the contents of memories out of the slabs of remembered episodes Our acts of remembering ensure that we are in the content of each of our memories present in the way a sculptor is present in his creation even when this content is lamentably sparse and endemically inaccurate Self-Knowledge and the Self David A Jopling, 2002-09-11 In this clear and reasoned discussion of self knowledge and the self the author asks whether it is really possible to know ourselves as we really are He illuminates issues about the nature of self identity which are of fundamental importance in moral psychology epistemology and literary criticism Jopling focuses on the accounts of Stuart Hampshire Jean Paul Sartre and Richard Rorty and dialogical philosophical psychology and illustrates his argument with examples from literature drama and psychology Self and Identity Trenton Merricks, 2022 Trenton Merricks shows that we cannot get clear about personal identity unless we bring together the ethics and the metaphysics He argues that while identity is not what matters in survival it delivers what matters in survival which is the appropriateness of first personal anticipation of and self interested concern for a future person
