- Basic Concepts
 - A document can be described by a set of representative keywords called index terms.
 - Different index terms have varying relevance when used to describe document contents.
 - This effect is captured through the assignment of numerical weights to each index term of a document. (e.g.: frequency, tf-idf)
- DBMS Analogy
 - Index Terms → Attributes
 - Weights → Attribute Values

Principles of Information Retrieval K. S. Dhawan, 1997-01-01 A Symbolic and Connectionist Approach To Legal Information Retrieval Daniel E. Rose, 2013-06-17 Many existing information retrieval IR systems are surprisingly ineffective at finding documents relevant to particular topics Traditional systems are extremely brittle failing to retrieve relevant documents unless the user's exact search string is found They support only the most primitive trial and error interaction with their users and are also static Even systems with so called relevance feedback are incapable of learning from experience with users SCALIR a Symbolic and Connectionist Approach to Legal Information Retrieval a system for assisting research on copyright law has been designed to address these problems By using a hybrid of symbolic and connectionist artificial intelligence techniques SCALIR develops a conceptual representation of document relationships without explicit knowledge engineering SCALIR's direct manipulation interface encourages users to browse through the space of documents It then uses these browsing patterns to improve its performance by modifying its representation resulting in a communal repository of expertise for all of its users SCALIR's representational scheme also mirrors the hybrid nature of the Anglo American legal system While certain legal concepts are precise and rule like others which legal scholars call open textured are subject to interpretation The meaning of legal text is established through the parallel and distributed precedence based judicial appeal system SCALIR represents documents and terms as nodes in a network capturing the duality of the legal system by using symbolic semantic network and connectionist links The former correspond to a priori knowledge such as the fact that one case overturned another on appeal The latter correspond to statistical inferences such as the relevance of a term describing a case SCALIR's text corpus includes all federal cases on copyright law The hybrid representation also suggests a way to resolve the apparent incompatibility between the two prominent paradigms in artificial intelligence the classical symbol manipulation approach and the neurally inspired connectionist approach Part of the book focuses on a characterization of the two paradigms and an investigation of when and how as in the legal research domain they can be

Huete, Andrew MacFarlane, 2011-10-06 Information Retrieval has become a very active research field in the 21st century Many from academia and industry present their innovations in the field in a wide variety of conferences and journals Companies transfer this new knowledge directly to the general public via services such as web search engines in order to improve their information seeking experience In parallel teaching IR is turning into an important aspect of IR generally not only because it is necessary to impart effective search techniques to make the most of the IR tools available but also because we must provide a good foundation for those students who will become the driving force of future IR technologies There are very few resources for teaching and learning in IR the major problem which this book is designed to solve The objective is to provide ideas and practical experience of teaching and learning IR for those whose job requires them to teach in one form or another and where delivering IR courses is a major part of their working lives In this context of providing a higher profile for teaching and learning as applied to IR the co editor of this book Efthimis Efthimiadis had maintained a leading role in teaching and learning within the domain of IR for a number of years This book represents a posthumous example of his efforts in the area as he passed away in April 2011 This book his book is dedicated to his memory Principles of information retrieval systems Erhard Konrad, 1975 Human-Computer Interaction Hans-Jörg Bullinger, Jürgen Ziegler, Hans-Jörg Bullinger, Jürgen Ziegler, 1999-09-01 This volume one of a two volume set is from the August 1999 HCI International conference papers presented in Munich Germany Human Computer Interaction

Communication Cooperation and Application Design focuses on the informative and communicative aspects of computer use. A larger number of contributions is concerned with computer supported cooperation using a wide variety of different techniques. In keeping with the increased focus of HCI International 99 on internet issues and aspects of the global information society many papers in this volume are centered around information and communication networks and their implications for work learning and every day activities. Due to the growing number and diversity of groups utilizing modern information technologies issues of accessibility and design for all are becoming more and more pertinent. A range of papers in this volume address these issues and provide the latest research and development results.

Multimedia Information Retrieval Roberto Raieli, 2013-07-31 Novel processing and searching tools for the management of new multimedia documents have developed. Multimedia Information Retrieval (MIR) is an organic system made up of Text Retrieval (TR), Visual Retrieval (VR), Video Retrieval (VDR) and Audio Retrieval (AR) systems. So that each type of digital document may be analysed and searched by the elements of language appropriate to its nature, search criteria must be extended. Such an approach is known as the Content Based Information Retrieval (CBIR) and is the core of MIR. This novel content based concept of information handling needs to be integrated with more traditional semantics. Multimedia Information Retrieval focuses on the tools of processing and searching applicable to the content based management of new multimedia documents. Translated from Italian by Giles Smith, the book is divided into two parts. Part one discusses MIR and related theories and puts forward new methodologies; part two reviews various experimental and operating MIR systems and presents technical and practical conclusions. Gives a complete organic picture of MIR and CBIR. Proposes a novel conceptualisation around the ideas of Information Retrieval (IR) and digital document management in the context of Library and Information Science (LIS). Relevant for both library and information science and information technology specialists.

New Directions in Cognitive Information Retrieval Amanda Spink, Charles Cole, 2006-08-25 New Directions in Cognitive Information Retrieval presents an exciting new direction for research into cognitive oriented information retrieval (IR) research: a direction based on an analysis of the user's problem situation and cognitive behavior when using the IR system. This contrasts with the current dominant IR research paradigm which concentrates on improving IR system matching performance. The chapters describe the leading edge concepts and models of cognitive IR that explore the nexus between human cognition, information and the social conditions that drive humans to seek information using IR systems. Chapter topics include Polyrepresentation, cognitive overlap and the boomerang effect, Multitasking while conducting the search, Knowledge Diagram Visualizations of the topic space to facilitate user assimilation of information, Task relevance selection, state knowledge need and knowledge behavior, search training built into the search, children's collaboration for school projects and other cognitive perspectives on IR concepts and issues.
