Principles Of Mutual Recognition In The European Integration Process:

The Principles of Mutual Recognition in the European Integration Process F. Schioppa, 2005-05-31 Mutual Recognition MR implies that each Member State is free to use the standards for production it prefers but cannot inhibit the import from other Member States lawfully using other standards unless justified by emergency reasons The home country rule then prevails on the host country Barriers to entry diminish competition rises in the internal market This volume looks at a number of aspects of MR including why its importance cannot be understood outside the general practice of free movement and how some elements of MR already emerge in the skilled labour market of professionals

Origin and Meaning of Mutual Recognition as Foundational Principle in the European Integration Process Alexander Hoogenboom, 2014

The principle of mutual recognition is an eminently important principle in the European integration process In its basic application the principle provides that a good lawfully produced in one of the Member States of the EU must be accepted without any restrictions in another Member State The classic narrative sees the principle as having been introduced by the Court of Justice of the European Union in the famous case of Cassis de Dijon after which it was subsequently applied to other areas of the integration process as a convenient middle way in between full harmonisation of legislation and simple rules prohibiting discriminatory treatment between the Member States The purpose of this paper is however to argue that the principle has a deeper philosophical and historical understanding drawing upon the work of both Fukuyama and Kant and suffuses the European project more generally A second objective is to see how this conceptualisation allows for a better understanding of the legal framework as developed by the Court of Justice

The Principle of Mutual Recognition in the European Integration Process Fiorella Schioppa, 2005-09-03 Mutual Recognition MR implies that each Member State is free to use the standards for production it prefers but cannot inhibit the import from other Member States lawfully using other standards unless justified by emergency reasons The home country rule then prevails on the host country Barriers to entry diminish competition rises in the internal market This collection looks at a number of aspects of MR including why its importance cannot be understood outside the general practice of free movement and how some elements of MR already emerge in the skilled labour market of professionals

EU Counterterrorism Policy Oldřich Bureš, 2011 A critical analysis of the measures the European Union has taken to combat terrorism which demonstrates how in a number of key areas EU counterterrorism policy is more of a paper tiger than an effective counterterrorism device The book addresses several legal counterterrorism instruments that have not been properly implemented at the national level and highlights several areas where the EU can provide genuine value added in the fight against terrorism

Enhanced Cooperation and European Tax Law Caroline Heber, 2021 This book explores how Member States can introduce secondary EU law via the enhanced cooperation mechanism which is only binding among these Member States The book also develops a approach to the limits non participating Member States face in ensuring that their actions do not impede the implementation of enhanced cooperation A Companion to European Union Law and International Law Dennis Patterson, Anna Södersten, 2016-03-15 Featuring contributions from renowned scholars A Companion to European Union Law and International Law presents a comprehensive and authoritative collection of essays that addresses all of the most important topics on European Union and international law Integrates the fields of European Union law and international law revealing both the similarities and differences Features contributions from renowned scholars in the fields of EU law and international law Covers a broad range of topical issues including trade institutional decision making the European Court of Justice democracy human rights criminal law the EMU and many others Regulating Trade in Services in the EU and the WTO Ioannis Lianos, Okeoghene Odudu, 2012-03-22 This volume considers how different jurisdictions are integrated economically whilst at the same time maintaining regulatory pluralism and diversity Regulating Migrant Integration in Europe Dáire McCormack-George, 2025-07-09 Migrants coming to and moving within Europe typically experience inadequate recognition of their professional qualifications and wrongful discrimination This book describes and critically assesses international European and EU laws and policies governing migrant integration in Europe with a particular focus on those concerning the recognition of migrants skills It argues that at least certain parts of EU law require clarification restatement and even reform The book formulates practical proposals to improve the governance of migrant integration in Europe making it more coherent effective and fair European Integration Since the 1920s Mark Hewitson, 2024-10-14 Brexit populism and Euroscepticism seem to have challenged old assumptions about European integration and raised the prospect of disintegration This book re examines why the European Union and its forerunners were created and investigates how and why they have changed It links contemporary events to historical explanation arguing that there were long term sets of conditions dating back to the 1920s which pushed European governments to cooperate economically and to try to resolve their diplomatic differences The failure of the French and German governments to create what Aristide Briand had called a European federal union demonstrated both the precariousness of the enterprise and its connection to the domestic politics of European states After 1945 the unexpected advent of a Cold War and the military diplomatic and economic presence of the United States in Europe facilitated the gradual development of habits of cooperation and institutional integration but they also placed limits on European governments activities as did disagreements between political parties and the expectations of citizens As a consequence supranational bodies such as the European Commission have been accompanied and often overshadowed by intergovernmental institutions such as the European Council with the EU as a whole functioning in important respects as a type of confederation The volume addresses a series of large scale historical questions which are integral to an understanding of the European Union It asks how and why citizens of member states have identified with the EU how matters of security affected the development of the European Community during and after the Cold War whether economic and social convergence have taken place and with what consequences and why European institutions have come to function as they have The study is thematic focusing on the most important aspects of European integration and explaining why member states have decided to carry out or have consented to the unique experiment of the European Union

Abuse of EU Law and Regulation of the Internal Market Alexandre Saydé,2014-12-01 How can the concept of abuse of European Union law which can be defined as undesirable choice of law artificially made by a private citizen generate so much disagreement among equally intelligent individuals Seeking to transcend the classical debate between its supporters and adversaries the present study submits that the concept of abuse of EU law is located on three major fault lines of EU law which accounts for the well established controversies in the field The first fault line which is common to all legal orders opposes legal congruence the tendency to yield equitable legal outcomes to legal certainty the tendency to yield predictable legal outcomes Partisans of legal congruence tend to advocate the prohibition of abuses of law whereas partisans of legal certainty tend to oppose it The second fault line is specific to EU law and divides two conceptions of the regulation of the internal market If economic integration is conceived as the promotion of cross border competition among private businesses the paradigm of regulatory neutrality choices of law must be proscribed as abusive for they distort business competition But if economic integration is intended to promote competition among Member States the paradigm of regulatory competition choices of law by EU citizens represent a desirable process of arbitrage among national laws The third and final fault line corresponds to the tension between two orientations of the economic constitution of the European Union namely the fear of private power and the fear of public power Those who fear private power most tend to endorse the prohibition of abuses of law whereas those who fear public power most tend to reject it Seen in this way the concept of abuse of EU law offers a forum in which fundamental questions about the nature and function of EU law can be confronted and examined in a new light In May 2013 the thesis that this book was based on won the First Edition of the European Law Faculties Association Award for Outstanding Doctoral Thesis

The Interface between Competition and the Internal Market Vasiliki Brisimi, 2014-12-01 This book explores the interface between competition law and market integration in the application of Article 102 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union TFEU focusing on the notion of market separation namely conduct that may hinder cross border trade The discussion reviews among other things the treatment of geographic price discrimination and exclusionary abuse by which out of state competitors are affected Market separation cases are treated in the book as a case study for appraising the interface between competition and the Internal Market On this basis the book provides a comparative analysis of the Treaty requirements under Article 102 TFEU when applied in market separation cases and the Treaty requirements under the free movement provisions In addition it utilises market separation cases as a springboard for advancing an informed reformulation of the application of Article 102 TFEU when state action comes into play All in all the analysis presented in the book deconstructs the elements for establishing market separation as an abuse of the dominant position It shows that there is nothing that would justify a distinctive treatment of market separation under Article 102 TFEU other than a principled understanding of Internal Market law as a whole whatever understanding one reaches about the proper shape of the Internal Market interrogation of the proper application of competition law comes after that and thus should be informed by this understanding
